Malik Favors U. S.-Soviet Peace Talks

State Department Labels Statement As Propaganda

NEW YORK, Sept. 25 (AP)—Jacob A. Malik declared today he favors a meeting of top leaders of the United States and the Soviet Union to negotiate for peace. He said also his government would pledge not to be the first to use the atomic bomb.

Several hours later the U. S. State Department declared Malik's statements were only propaganda which "smacks of the Stockholm peace petition." Press Officer Lincoln White made the brusque statement to Washington reporters after consultations between the State Department and the American delegation to the United Nations, headed by Secretary of State Acheson.

Added White: "We have had enough of words. What is needed now is action to give practical effort to these expressions of good intention."

Malik's statement aroused speculation among United Nations delegates. Western delegates wondered whether this was part of a new Soviet "peace offensive" seeking to convince the world that the Russians are more inclined to peace than the United States.

Malik Sees Md. Group

The Russian deputy foreign minister made his views known to a delegation of the Maryland Committee for Peace. This organization has been active in distributing a "peace ballot" asking signers whether they favor outlawing of atomic weapons and a U. S.-Russian meeting to negotiate differences. Dr. Ruth Bleier, president of the committee, said recently it was merely coincidence that this ballot was distributed at the same time as the "Stockholm Peace Appeal," denounced as a fraud by many anti-communists in the United States. The Stockholm appeal calls mainly for an outlawing of atomic weapons.

The Maryland committee arranged some time ago to see Malik. Its questions apparently were submitted in advance, for Malik had his answers ready. The Russians are always careful about answering questions, and never do so until the answers have been cleared and approved.

Reporters were not present when Malik met the Maryland group at the Russian delegation's offices in Park Avenue. The statement of his views was made public by a Russian spokesman, who telephoned the Associated Press.

"Yes" To Four Questions

The spokesman said Malik had answered "yes" to each of the following questions from the Maryland group.

"1. Will your government pledge that it will not be the first to use the atomic bomb?

"2. Do you favor general disarmament and the outlawing of atomic weapons by all nations under a strict system of control and inspection administered through the United Nations?

"3. Do you favor (or will you agree to) a meeting between the top leaders of the United States and the Soviet Union to negotiate their differences to help achieve full peace?

"4. Do you favor the free interchange of ideas and information between the peoples of the two countries in order to achieve the understanding that is necessary to an enduring peace?"

Bevin Endorses U. S. Proposals To Bolster U.N.

Halt Korea Drive At 38th, Yugos Say

NEW YORK, Sept. 25 (AP)—Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin of Britain today endorsed the aim of American proposals for strengthening the U. N. against aggression. He also told the Russians that Britons are ready to fight to the end for their liberties.

Bevin was the first of the western big power delegates to stamp general approval on the ideas of Secretary of State Dean Acheson for bolstering the U. N. He said he is in full agreement with Acheson's objectives but indicated his delegation might make what Bevin called constructive criticisms at the proper time.

Others Back U. S. Proposals

Nationalist China, the Philippines, Bolivia and Turkey also expressed support of the American proposals, which call for a U. N. military force, a roving peace patrol and means for convening the General Assembly in 24 hours if the Security Council cannot act.

Before the British diplomat spoke Foreign Minister Edvard Kardelj of Yugoslavia asked for the temporary re-establishment of the 38th parallel as the demarkation line in Korea.

Members of Kardelj's delegation explained that he wants the fighting to stop and the Koreans to decide about their unification.

Two Resolutions Offered

The Yugoslav delegate introduced two resolutions. One would set up a permanent mediation commission of small powers. The other requires a nation involved in armed conflict to issue a cease-fire within 24 hours and withdraw its armed forces from disputed territory. Failure to do so automatically would brand the country as an aggressor.

Some delegates have commented that the United Nations forces must go north of the 38th parallel and said the Assembly must approve that action. At present, the United Nations forces have authority from the Security Council to drive the communist North Koreans back as far as the 38th parallel.

Top U. S. Reds Freed Pending Final Decision

Jurist Avoids Risk Of Embarrassment

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25 (AP)—Justice Jackson of the Supreme Court today allowed freedom on bond, pending an appeal, for 10 of the 11 U. S. communist leaders convicted of conspiracy to advocate forceable overthrow of the government.

Jackson's stay of sentence, as it is technically called, permits the convicted leaders to remain free until final Supreme Court action on a formal appeal to be filed later.

The appeal will ask the high tribunal to overturn the conviction of the red officials by a New York jury.

Jackson issued an eight-page formal opinion in explaining his action.

All Equal Under Law

In it he declared there would be a "disastrous effect on the reputation of American justice if I should now send these men to jail and the full court later decides that their conviction is invalid."

Jackson added:

"The right of every American to equal treatment before the law is wrapped up in the same constitutional bundle with those of these communists. If in anger or disgust with these defendants we throw out the bundle, we also cast aside protection for the liberties of more worthy critics who may be in opposition to the government of some future day."

The U. S. Circuit Court in New York City on August 28 ordered the convicted leaders jailed within 30 days unless they could get a stay of sentence from a Supreme Court justice. The Circuit Court specified that the leaders should be jailed sooner than 30 days if a Supreme Court justice denied a further stay before then.

Convicted Last October 14

The New York Circuit Court had upheld the conviction of all 11 leaders. They were convicted last October 14 after a prolonged trial before U. S. District Judge Harold R. Medina in New York.

The request for a stay did not include the name of Eugene Dennis, communist party general secretary, who was the eleventh person convicted. He is now in jail on a separate charge of contempt of Congress.

The stay was asked for Irving Potash, Jack Stachel, John B. Williamson, Gus Hall, Henry Winston, John Gates, Robert G. Thompson, Gilbert Green, Carl Winter and Benjamin J. Davis.

Thompson was sentenced to three years in federal prison and the others got five years each. All were fined $10,000 each.

Harvest Moon Does Fadeout

NEW YORK, Sept. 25 (AP)—That harvest moon didn't shine on tonight. It did a fadeout, beginning shortly after dark.

The total eclipse of the moon was the last one visible from this country until Jan. 29, 1953.

Watching parties, including professional and amateur astronomers alike, were organized at communities across the nation.

Foster Succeeds Hoffman As ECA Administrator

President Truman Accepts Resignation

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25 (AP)—President Truman today accepted the resignation of Paul G. Hoffman as administrator of the Economic Cooperation Administration.

The President announced that he is appointing William C. Foster to succeed Hoffman. Foster now is deputy administrator.

The White House made public a friendly exchange of letters between Hoffman and Mr. Truman. Hoffman told the President that he wished to return to private life and to leave his job September 30.

Hoffman has been reported as planning to become director of the Ford Foundation, a research, educational and philantrophic organization set up by grants from the Ford automobile family.

Hoffman told the President that his resignation "carries no implication that the usefulness of the ECA is waning; on the contrary, I believe that the ECA's period of greatest usefulness may lie ahead."

He said he can leave in good conscience "only because of my complete confidence in the ECA organization in Washington, Europe, and Asia."

Mr. Truman replying, told Hoffman:

"You have achieved great things in dealing with one of the most difficult problems brought into being by a crisis in international affairs of world magnitude."

M'Arthur Says Flaming City Now Secured

Vicious Street Fighting Goes On

TOYKO, Tuesday, Sept. 26 (AP) — Gen. MacArthur announced today that United Nations forces have recaptured Seoul.

Vicious street fighting continued in the flame-swept city even as the announcement was made. American troops were engaged in savage combat with Reds defending from foxholes dug between streetcar tracks.

Smoke rose from devastating fires burning in four areas.

But, with marines in the heart of the 500-year-old capital and U. S. infantrymen on top of dominating South Mountain inside the city, Gen. MacArthur considered the city tactically secured.

"Liberation of the city was conducted in such a manner as to cause the least possible danger to civil installations," the General said in a communique.

Fires Visible For 10 Miles

The fires, which broke out last night and were visible for 10 miles, threatened to dash the hopes of American commanders that the 500-year-old Korean capital could be wrested from the reds without serious damage.

AP Correspondent Tom Lambert reported from Seoul that fires broke out in four areas at dusk shortly after U. S. Seventh Division infantrymen captured the key red defense position of South Mountain.

Lambert said the flames lit up the night skies while American forces were slugging their way near the center of the city in a bitter fight.

U. S. 10th Corps headquarters reported that U. S. Marines beat off a tank-led North Korean assault early today. Then the leathernecks jumped off in the embattled streets toward Duk Soo Palace near the city's center.

Seven Red Tanks Destroyed

The Marines destroyed seven red tanks.

Lambert's dispatch gave graphic evidence of the ferocity of the fighting. He said the marines had to oust reds from positions dug between street car tracks. They had to drive reds along twisting streets. Communist defenders were in houses, schools, a warehouse, a prison and even in a one-time Buddhist welfare home.

The biggest fire licked at railway marshalling yards. Its flames could be seen at American-held Kimpo Airfield, 10 miles to the northwest.

A U. S. Army spokesman in Tokyo had said the leathernecks reached granite-walled Duk Soo Palace. He also said the marines and infantrymen had established contact within the city.

Lambert, in his dispatch filed shortly before Monday midnight, reported:

"A good portion of the city, still red-held, lies between the Marine and Army lines."

Fresh reinforcements joined the battle against the reds. The battle-tested South Korean 17th Regiment crossed the Han into Seoul.

Low-level attacks by planes added to a growing toll of red casualties. Air force evaluations estimated Tuesday that 1,400 North Koreans were killed or wounded in Korea, particularly along the old southeast front, Monday.

At the same time U. S. Eighth Army troops, racing northward from their rapidly expanding Pusan perimeter, narrowed the gap with Tenth Corps troops in the Seoul area to 40 miles or less.

22 Missing As Troop Plane Crashes Into Sea Off Japan

One Body Found; 28 Are Rescued

TOKYO, Tuesday, Sept. 26 (AP)—A C-54 troop transport with 51 persons aboard plunged into the sea on takeoff from a Southern Japan air base today. One body has been recovered and 22 persons are missing.

Twenty-eight persons were rescued. Some were hurt critically.

Gen. MacArthur's headquarters announced the plane crashed about half a mile away from the air base runway.

The plane carried 43 passengers and a crew of eight. Included in the crew were two nurses and two medical technicians.

Twenty-five passengers and three crew members, including one nurse, were among the survivors.

The survivors got into life rafts and were picked up by Japanese fishing boats.

All of the survivors were rushed to a hospital at the air base and later were moved to a hospital in a large city in Southern Japan.

The cause of the accident will be investigated by a board of U. S. Air Force officers.

Wherry Defends Taft, Criticizes Acheson

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Sept. 25 (AP)—Sen. Wherry (R-Neb) said tonight if a Republican Congress is elected Secretary of State Acheson "will go."

In a speech prepared for a Republican rally here, the Senate GOP floor leader defended the record of Sen. Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio) and called for the ouster of W. Averell Harriman, President Truman's international adviser.

Ex-Chicago Police Captain Shot To Death

Squirrel Attacks Preacher In Pulpit

MONTEREY, Va., Sept. 25 (AP) — The guest preacher reached the climax of his sermon.

All eyes were on the Rev. L. S. Shires, at the Victory Adventist Church yesterday, when there was a sudden patter up the aisle.

It was a red fox squirrel. He leaped to the pulpit, stood a moment on the Bible and then pounced on the minister's head.

A wild scramble ended in a draw.

Playwright's Son Commits Suicide

WOODSTOCK, N. Y., Sept. 25 (AP) —Eugene O'Neill, Jr., 40, son of the noted playwright, killed himself today by slashing a wrist. Ruth Lander, an artists' agent, said she had broken off an engagement with him last Saturday.

Friends reported he had been despondent since then.

"Everyone knows about my engagement being broken," Miss Lander said after learning of the suicide. "I'm very sorry, very unhappy and broken up about the whole thing."

Ulster County Coroner Earnest O. Kelly said O'Neill slashed his right wrist with a razor while in the bathtub at his home and "staggered downstairs while he was bleeding to death."

Kelly, listing the case as suicide, said O'Neill also had cut his leg with the razor but it was the wrist wound which caused his death.

His body was discovered by a neighbor, Mrs. Frank Meyer.

Many artists and writers reside in Woodstock and nearby.

'Bra Bandits' May Escape Prosecution

$100,000 Stolen From Phone Firm

MIAMI, Fla., Sept. 25 (AP)—Police today reported a series of systematic thefts from the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Co., counting room that totaled $100,000 in the past two years.

Fourteen persons, including eight women, their husbands and boy friends, were rounded up after West Miami Safety Director I. Ray Mills reported finding three suitcases stuffed with coins and currency totaling nearly $5,000 at the home of one of the telephone company employes.

$10,000 Recovered

Mills, who first broke the case yesterday, said thus far nearly $10,000 in coins, currency and negotiable bonds have been recovered.

The eight women were released to the custody of their attorneys following a habeas corpus hearing before Dade County Circuit Judge George E. Holt. A second hearing is scheduled for tomorrow.

Assistant Dade County Solicitor Michael F. Zarowny said all the thefts were from the counting room where a torrent of silver came each day from pay station phones.

He said the girls admitted stuffing rolls of quarters in their brassieres before putting the money in automatic counting machines.

No Crime Established

Zarowny indicated those involved may escape prosecution because he said, "the only thing we've got is a confession."

"We can't introduce that until we establish a crime and we can't establish a crime," he added. "There is no way to tell if the money was taken from the boxes, nor how much.

"The phone company is not in position to say if it lost anything. On advice of counsel, phone company officials won't sign affidavits to make a complaint to the detective bureau," Zarowny said.

"We have no date when the offense was committed, who got the money nor how much was taken," he added.

Paroled Ex-Leader Of Klan Disappears

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 25 (AP)—David Curtis Stephenson, 56-year-old paroled former grand dragon of the Indiana Ku Klux Klan, has disappeared from a Carbondale, Ill., rooming house.

Gov. Henry F. Schricker announced today that Stephenson, freed six months ago from Indiana State Prison after serving nearly 25 years for the murder of Miss Madge Oberholtzer, has been missing since Aug. 30.

An Illinois parole official said Stephenson disappeared while his parole agent and his sponsor were on vacation. This official added the former Klan leader left a note saying that he would return in a week.

A general police alarm has been broadcast for the balding, pudgy one-time political power who boasted "I am the law" in Indiana.

U. S. Plans Move To Reassure Asia

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25 (AP) — The administration is reported preparing a new two-fold move in the United Nations to reassure Asia that the United States seeks only peaceful solutions for Korea and Formosa.

Authorized officials said today that Secretary of State Acheson shortly may press for (1) a fresh declaration by the General Assembly for a united and free Korea and (2) creation of a special U.N. commission to study the disposition of Formosa.

Both proposals are aimed particularly at Communist China whose intentions toward Korea remain uncertain as U.N. forces drive closer to the 38th parallel dividing line.

Chairman Connally (D-Tex) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee suggested both actions by the U.N. in a detailed defense of administration foreign policy which had State Department authorization and was published in the Congressional Record.

"The great and over-riding problem in dealing with Formosa, and with the red regime in China is that under no circumstances should we allow ourselves to be tricked into a shooting war on the Chinese mainland," Connally said.

"While Formosa is important to our security it is certainly not that important."

Spy Trial May Produce Field

BERLIN, Sept. 25 (AP)—A forthcoming spy trial in East Germany of six purged communists may produce the long-missing American, Noel H. Field, as a witness.

Dr. Fritz Kaul, leading communist attorney in East Berlin, who is expected to be one of the prosecutors, said today that Field "could" be produced as a witness if the prosecution wished to call him.

Field has been named as an American spy by the communists at previous trials in Budapest and Sofia, but has never been called as a witness.

Field, a former U. S. State Department employe, a technical assistant to the American delegation to the London naval conference in 1935, who later joined the old League of Nations secretariat, was the first of four members of his family to disappear in one of the postwar period's strangest mysteries. Noel, said by communists to have been an American special agent in Switzerland during the war, vanished behind the iron curtain from Prague in May, 1949.

Hike In Draft Age Opposed By Hershey

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25 (INS)—Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey declared today that veterans and men with dependents will have to be drafted to meet President Truman's call for a three-million-man armed force unless the age limit is raised above 25.

The draft director announced his opposition to raising the present 25-year-old limit because industrial production and scientific development would be crippled and also because the older men "are not as good physically."

Development Of Vaccine Against Mumps Announced

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25 (AP) — Developments of commercial vaccine against mumps was announced today.

The announcement was made in Washington by the National Institutes of Health (NIH) where research leading to the development was first done; and in Pearl River, N. Y., by Lederle Laboratories which produced the vaccine for commercial distribution.

Dr. Karl Habel of NIH said the commercial product, like its laboratory predecessor, was made from virus grown in hatching hen's eggs and then rendered incapable of producing active infection.

He said that limited human trials showed that his own laboratory vaccine, while "not 100 per cent protective," appears to give a three-fold reduction of mumps cases among vaccinated people, as compared with those not vaccinated.

The commercial product was developed by Dr. Victor Cabasso of the Lederle Laboratories.

The Lederle announcement said its "effective" vaccine is "designed primarily for the immunization (protection) of large groups of children or adults, housed together in close quarters, as in schools, camps, institutions or military installations, where a mass outbreak of mumps would cause serious inconvenience."

School Aid Measure Signed By Truman

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25 (AP)—President Truman has signed a bill authorizing federal aid in the construction of school facilities in areas where an influx of government workers has swelled school enrollments.

A companion bill, awaiting presidential action, would authorize federal aid in maintaining and operating schools in such districts.

Both bills resulted from skyrocketing school costs and shortage of space for pupils in areas which have had sudden population growths due to the migration of government and military families. School districts surrounding Army posts especially asked for this aid.

Survivors Of Plane Crash Rescued From Wilderness

HALIFAX, N. S., Sept. 25 (AP)—All 16 persons aboard a United States B-50 bomber which crashed Thursday night in the Labrador wilderness were brought to Goose Bay today for medical treatment.

A trained first aid man who parachuted to the scene said the most serious injury suffered by the 12 crew members and four passengers was a leg fracture suffered when one of the men landed in a river. Other injuries were only minor. All aboard were American military personnel.

The 16 bailed out 95 miles southwest of Goose Bay when two engines of the B-50 caught fire and a third stalled. They were located yesterday, after spending three days in the Labrador wilds, by an RCAF Lancaster plane which observed smoke signals sent up from their improvised shelter. This capped a three-day search by Canadian and American planes that ranged from the far north to the Arizona Desert.

Parachutists and a medical officer dropped to the scene to aid the Americans. Plans were skillfully laid for speedy evacuation of the crash victims. A helicopter made the tricky flight necessary to reach them and flew them in relays to a nearby lake. There a Canadian amphibious plane picked them up and brought them to Goose Bay.

Thief Gets Sermon For Wrongdoing

BALTIMORE, Sept. 25 (AP)—Re and repent.

That's the advice of Dr. R. H Riley, State Department of Health director, to the thief who robbed the car of the department's Garrett County sanitarian while it was parked on a street here.

The sanitarian, Alonzo F. Fike, also is a minister of the Church of the Brethren.

The loot: A suitcase, three suits and two sermons.

Light Bulb Prices Upped

CLEVELAND, Sept. 25 (AP)—General Electric Co's light bulbs are going to cost about six per cent more, beginning tomorrow.

The firm, announcing this today, listed the following as examples: The 60-watt lamp, from 12 to 14 cents; the 100-watt, from 15 to 16 cents; the 40-watt fluorescent, from $1 to $1.05.

Taft "Handbook" Revised By CIO

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 25 (AP) — Two episodes that aroused the Taft campaign committee's ire have been left out of a revised edition of the labor "Speaker's Handbook" on U. S. Sen. Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio).

One incident, in the original handbook published by the CIO Political Action Committee, referred to a nurse depriving the infant Taft of sugar when he ate oatmeal. The other recounted how the boy Taft was stung by a jellyfish in the Philippines.

The authors speculated that both incidents may have affected Taft's thinking in the Senate.

The Taft committee described the stories as "two of the silliest statements of the entire book," and remarked:

"Can the CIO really believe the voters of Ohio will swallow this stuff and nonsense?"

A spokesman for the United Labor League, a coalition of CIO and AFL forces that published the revised handbook, said the two episodes were dropped for economy reasons.

Pope Calls On Priests To Resist Communism

VATICAN CITY, Sept. 25. (AP)—Pope Pius XII called on all priests of the Catholic Church today to stand boldly against the "iniquity of communism" as well as the "damaging consequences" of capitalism.

The exhortation, titled "Menti Nostrae" from its first two Latin words meaning "in our spirit," urged the clergy to beware of the "craze for novelty" in this modern age, and s[illegible] for greater sanctity and humili[illegible] keeping with its dignity.

Western Maryland Orders 90 Cars

GREENVILLE, Pa., Sept. 25 (AP)—Greenville Steel Car Company today received orders for 50 box cars and 40 flat cars from Western Maryland Railway and 50 covered hopper cars from the Akron, Canton and Youngstown Railroad. These and previous orders assure continuous operation of the plant until the middle of 1951.

Coalition Seeks Ober Act Defeat

BALTIMORE, Sept. 25 (AP)—A coalition organization aimed at defeating the Ober anti-subversive law in November has been formed, it was announced today.

The law passed by the 1949 Legislative forbids membership in subversive groups and calls for heavy penalties upon persons convicted of acts seeking to overthrow government.

It is on the November election ballot on a referendum petition.

The Maryland Civil Liberties Committee heads the new group. Affiliated with it are the Americans for Democratic Action, the Maryland Chapter of the American Association of Social Workers, the Johns Hopkins Chapter of the American Association of University Professors, the Baltimore Teachers Union, the Maryland Library Association, the Workmen's Circle and the Young Women's Christian Association.

Mrs. Edward Salner, executive secretary of the new group, said she wished to make it plain that the Maryland Civil Liberties Committee and all the others affiliated specifically bar communists from membership.

Program Too Much For Miss America

BALTIMORE, Sept. 25 (AP)—The strenuous program of the last two weeks proved too much for Miss America today, confining her to her hotel room with a fever and heavy cold.

Her engagements were cancelled for at least three days.

Miss America, Miss Yolande Betbeze of Mobile, Ala., was to have made several appearances in Baltimore today and then have gone on to Lancaster, Pa., tonight. Those engagements were cancelled along with others scheduled for tomorrow at Roanoke, Va.

All American Gets First Profit

All American Airways, Inc., carried a record-breaking 19,596 passengers in August and its president, Robert M. Love, said it represents its first operating profit since being inaugurated in 1949.

Love said the air line realized its profit for the first time after carrying the record number of passengers over 2,755,682 revenue miles.

Punkin Center To Mark Anniversary

Plans for the first anniversary banquet of the Town Creek Valley Club will be discussed at a meeting Saturday 7:30 p. m. at Slider's Garage, Punkin Center. A membership drive is due to start soon, and the club will participate in Maryland Land Week program here October 9. A movie will be shown at Saturday's meeting.

$11,000 Flood

Roy C. Hawse was named a probationary member of the Police Department to replace Ralph Buser, who has entered military service.

On the recommendation of City Engineer Ralph L. Rizer, council refused a request by the Garland-Norton Petroleum Company for permission to install a 550-gallon undeground storage tank at 451 Pennsylvania Avenue for the personal use of Austin Godlove in dispensing gasoline.

Referred to Rizer for investigation and report was a request from the South Cumberland Planing Mill Company to install a 2,000-gallon gasoline storage tank on their premises at 33 Queen Street.

John M. Robb, local attorney, submitted an application of the National Jet Company for the third annual renewal of its tax exemption on tools and machinery.

The matter was tabled one week to permit Buchholtz to study the files and report.

Also tabled for one week was a request for the council to take an ad in the souvenir program being prepared in connection with the Golden Jubilee celebration of St. Mary's Catholic Church, which opens November 19.

Beer Prices Raised

CINCINNATI, Sept. 25 (AP)—Most Cincinnati breweries today increased the price of draft and bottled beer and a spokesman for a cafe owners' group said it probably would mean higher over-the-bar prices.

The breweries hiked prices by from seven to 10 cents a case on bottled beer and by about $1.23 a barrel on draft beer.

N. Y. Police Head Quits

NEW YORK, Sept. 25 (INS) — Police Commissioner William P. O'Brien resigned tonight in the face of an investigation of alleged police-bookmaking hook-ups and Acting Mayor Vincent Impellitteri named Assistant U. S. Attorney Thomas F. Murphy to replace him.

Women Reserves Called

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25 (AP)—The Army today called 1,644 women reservists to active duty. It was the first call to women since the Army expansion began.

Union Meetings Set

Earl L. Snyder, president, announced yesterday the union's Executive Board will meet tonight at 7:30 p. m. The Policy Committee, comprising the Executive Board and shop chairmen, will meet Friday at 9 a. m. to discuss general union policies.

Maxim Scores KO

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Sept. 25 (AP) — Joey Maxim, light heavyweight champion of the world, knocked out Johnny Swanson of Buffalo, N. Y., in 2:35 of the third round tonight at Radio Center Arena.

Maxim, challenger of the winner of the Joe Louis-Ezzard Charles heavyweight title bout in Yankee Stadium Wednesday night, toyed with Swanson for two rounds of the scheduled 10-round non-title bout.

Deaths

MRS. NANCY HARE

Mrs. Nancy Jane Dyche Hare, 86, died yesterday afternoon at her home in Wiley Ford, W. Va. She had been in failing health for about five years.

She was the widow of Thomas Hare, former B. & O. worker, who died in 1946.

The body is at the Stein Funeral Home.

MRS. IDA ARBOGAST

PARSONS, W. Va. — Mrs. Ida Arbogast, 77, died suddenly yesterday morning at her home near Elk. She had been in good health and spent the weekend in Parsons.

She was born in Harman, W. Va., November 18, 1872, a daughter of the late Solomon and Elizabeth Bland Huffman. Her husband, Ora A. Arbogast, died in 1929.

She was a member of the Methodist Church and had been active in the Farming for Better Living program here and the Tucker County Farm Bureau.

Surviving are four sons, Roscoe, Delbert and Frank, all of Parsons, and Leo, Elkins; a brother, Earl R. Huffman, Harman, and nine grandchildren.

A funeral service will be held Wednesday at 2:30 p. m. in the Greenleif Funeral Home. Rev. Robert L. Greynolds and Rev. W. A. O'Dell will officiate and burial will be in Parsons Cemetery.

FROSTBURG—C. Clark Neff, 64, Ellwood City, Pa., died Monday at 6:40 p. m. in Ellwood City Hospital after an illness of two months.

A native of Frostburg, he was a son of Mrs. Ella Neff, Frostburg, and the late Henry K. Neff. He left that city about 35 years ago.

Also surviving are his widow, Mrs. Nellie Miller Neff; one son, Curtis; a daughter, Maryland Thornhill; an adopted son, Samuel Gunnett Neff; a stepdaughter, Vivian Miller, all of Ellwood City; five sisters, Mrs. Eleanor Wilson, Washington, D. C., and Miss Pearl and Miss Virginia Neff, Mrs. Lillie Simons and Mrs. Margaret Allerdice, all of Frostburg.

A funeral service and burial will be held Thursday in Ellwood City.

DUNCAN ROOT RITES

A funeral service for Duncan W. Root, 72, retired Potomac Edison Company employe, who died yesterday, will be conducted Wednesday at 2 p. m. in the Stein Funeral Home.

Rev. Carl H. Clapp, pastor of St. Mark's Evangelical and Reformed Church, will officiate and burial will be in Hillcrest Cemetery.

Mr. Root was found dead yesterday morning in the garage at the rear of 824 Shriver Avenue, and Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner, said death was due to hanging.

Mr. Root had been in ill health for a number of years. His body was found in the garage by his son-in-law, Julius D. Lonnholm, 824 Shriver Avenue, with whom he made his home.

A native of Tucker County, W. Va., Mr. Root was a son of the late David and Margaret Root, of near Thomas, W. Va. He came here in 1914 and worked for a number of years as a street car conductor for the Potomac Edison Company.

About 1926 he operated a grocery store on Maryland Avenue and for eight years he worked as a bartender at the Fort Cumberland Hotel. Later he returned to the employment of the Potomac Edison Company and retired some time ago.

Besides his wife and a daughter, Mrs. Pauline Lonnholm, he is survived by a son, Walter G. Root, Westernport; three sisters, Mrs. Mary Wotring, Oakland; Mrs. Agnes Shaffer, Eglon, W. Va., and Mrs. Pearl Durr,, Cresaptown and five brothers, Thomas Root, Terra Alta, W. Va.; Julius Root, Douglas, W. Va.; J. J. Root, Cocoanut Grove, Fla.; William Root, Thomas W. Va. and David Root, Hambleton, W. Va.

JASPER HUFF RITES

A funeral service for Jasper L. Huff, 73, of 223 Race Street, well known blacksmith, who died Saturday, was conducted yesterday afternoon in Grace Methodist Church.

Rev. Allen B. L. Fisher, pastor, officiated and burial was in Hillcrest Cemetery.

Pallbearers were George V. Steele, David E. Allender, W. L. Ranck, James G. Stevenson, John W. Tederick and Carl R. Amtower.

A graveside service was conducted by Chapel Hill Lodge No. 53, IOOF.

for that part of the Community Chest drive, which starts early in October.

Martin emphasized that these 56 men and women still have the task of completing their own organizations promptly and has set next Wednesday as the deadline for this preliminary work to be completed.

Regiment leaders secure the cooperation of the heads of the larger establishments in developing plant campaigns in each of the 215 larger concerns in the city.

Workers are asked to secure the subscriptions of the owner and every employed person at each of the 1,063 firms with less than eight employes. In this manner nearly 20,000 individuals are asked to contribute during the 10 days of the campaign which opens on October 3 and closes on the 13.

The organization to date is as follows, Co - chairman Thomas H. Smithem reports:

James E. Honeycutt, division leader, Automotive—regiment leaders, George L. Spoerl, dealers; David Boyd, accessories; Joseph Luckawich, garages; Charles E. Bramble, taxi and transfer.

George A. Caswell, division leader, Financial—regiment leaders, G. Morgan Smith, banks; David I. Sigel, finance companies; John F. Workmeister, real estate; John Park, life insurance; James B. Reinhart, general insurance.

Schnauffer Will Substitute For Judge Mish

Associate Judge Patrick M. Schnauffer, Frederick, was designated yesterday by Chief Judge Ogle Marbury of the Court of Appeals to substitute for Chief Judge Joseph D. Mish of the Fourth Judicial Circuit, who is ill.

Schnauffer is associate judge of the Sixth Circuit, which includes Frederick and Montgomery counties.

Judge Mish, who heads the circuit comprising Allegany, Garrett and Washington counties, suffered a heart attack last Wednesday at his home and drove to the home of his physician for treatment. The doctor ordered the jurist to the Washington County Hospital.

Indications are that Judge Mish will not be able to perform his judicial duties for some time.

Associate Judge George Henderson requested the appointment of a judge to assist in the Fourth Circuit as he could not handle the entire load alone.

Associate Judge Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., of this city has also been unable to fully handle the duties of Circuit Court due to a heart attack he suffered in May.

The necessity of another judge for the circuit was also made necessary due to a number of hearings at which at least two jurists are needed.

These include the hearing October 7 on the constitutionality of the anti-Communist ordinance recently enacted by the City of Cumberland. Judge Schnauffer will sit in on this case, according to court attaches here. He may also sit in on the case Wednesday involving the indictment of six Garrett County men in the school strike at Kitzmiller.

Md. Is To Observe Poetry Day Oct. 15

Poetry Day in Maryland is to be observed October 15, following issuance of a proclamation by Gov. William Preston Lane at the suggestion of Mrs. Charles M. See, 509 Maryland Avenue, wife of the Maryland legislator. Mrs. See has been named poetry advisor for Western Maryland and West Virginia by the Avalon World Art Academy.

Miss Mary G. Walsh will arrange a poetry exhibit for the two weeks of October 15-28. It will feature an exhibition of published works and some original manuscripts by Maryland poets. State Teachers' College, Frostburg, will also have an exhibit of works by Maryland and U. S. poets.

Mrs. See will present a half hour program over WCUM on October 15, featuring readings from the works of Maryland poets on a program that will include piano selections by Miss Lela Thomas, of Romney, W. Va.

Jaycees Plan Americanism Program

Maryland members of the Junior Association of Commerce moved unanimously Sunday to make "Selling the American Way of Life" its No. 1 project. The "Voice of Democracy" program will augment the plan.

Objectives of the state-wide program include:

Identifying socialism and communism, pointing out the superiority of the American way of life, supplying techniques and facts necessary to understand the American way of life, and providing inspiration to fight for the preservation of the American way of life.

Edward Rinner represented the Cumberland group at Sunday's meeting and assisted in presenting a resume of the advantages of the democratic way of life.

Force Is Not Enough

Percy Spender, Australia's minister for external affairs, has come up with a reminder of a truth it is easy to forget in times like these. He has put into clear words a principle that Americans understand but frequently lose sight of when the nation begins to concentrate its energies on weapons for defense.

Speaking to the Federal Bar Association at Washington, Spender called on the free nations to adopt a dynamic approach in opposing communist imperialism. What the free world must do, he said, is give the world "a faith to live by and, if need be, to die by." He explained his meaning by speaking of the need for American leadership in three directions:

Giving help to oppressed masses.

Blotting out social inequalities.

Providing opportunities for all.

He did not stop with generalities. He was specific. Nations like the United States and Australia, he said, ought to be among the first to give political and economic aid to newly-freed countries in Southeast Asia and others approaching freedom. He described this as a positive approach to block communism.

What America is doing now is largely negative. This nation is building up its military strength to oppose force with equal or greater force. Much less effort is being exerted in finding ways that will make it impossible for communism to resort to force.

If it were possible to win men's minds to believe in freedom and in the sanctity of the individual, in the free institutions that exist to preserve both, in justice under law—in all the concepts Americans hold dear—there would be no more Koreas.

Chemistry In War

The big role that chemistry plays in every role vital to the war effort was pointed out the other day by Gen. Anthony C. McAuliffe—the man who said "nuts" to the Germans at Bastogne. As chief chemical officer, Department of the Army, General McAuliffe enlarged on what Chemical Corps troops are doing in the front line in Korea.

The infantry is supporting combat operations with the 4.2 rifled mortar developed by the Chemical Corps. The Air Force is using napalm and incendiary bombs supplied by the Chemical Corps, and its pilots are guided by colored smoke grenades used for ground-to-air signalling. The Navy also uses napalm for fire bombs. It screens amphibious operations, like the one that recently took Inchon, with floating oil smoke pots, and hides ship concentrations, ports and docks with larger smoke screens produced by Chemical Corps smoke generators. The Marines get special fuels and flame-throwers from the corps.

All these are recent products of chemical enterprise. Many of them were used in World War II. But warfare has become increasingly a chemical operation ever since the gun replaced the sword. All fire used in war, from the campfires of Caesar's legions and the Greek fire used against naval armadas to the most modern incendiary bombs, is a chemical reaction. So are all explosions not produced by nuclear fission. Chemical reactions power the internal combustion motor in ships, planes, tanks and vehicles.

Chemical Corps laboratory units now in Korea are analyzing captured materiel, supplies and equipment. The corps is operating a maintenance service in Korea on such equipment as smoke generators, flame throwers and decontamination apparatus. It is a vital part of the nation's defense set-up.

Fifty years ago, when they set off an occasional bomb, they were called anarchists. That was before Russia rechristened them communists, not caring for anything with an American origin.

How To Save On Taxes

With taxes to go up on October 1—and up again, probably, after election—bachelors will be up against the proposition of deciding which they consider the lesser of two evils. They can escape paying an income tax increase by getting married, or vice versa. If freedom is the right to choose among evils, they are still free, either way.

Those who are already married have no such choice. But if any are contemplating divorce, they may want to reconsider. The added costs of divorce because of higher taxes will soon be higher than they were. Will the budget stand it?

This rather sounds as if being happily married, from the standpoint of the tax collector, were its own reward. That isn't strictly true, though. In states which had no community-property provisions in 1948, the application of such provisions under the 1948 income tax law works decidedly to the advantage of persons who are married. There seems to be no prospect that this relative advantage will not be retained.

Over and above the usual exemptions for dependents, the community-property feature of the law enables married persons to pay lower surtax rates. In the lower brackets these provisions make relatively little difference. But for higher incomes the difference is so great that a fellow can hardly afford to be a bachelor. Thus on the expected tax increase for 1951, a bachelor with an annual income of $5,000 will save only $184 in taxes if he marries, or 19 per cent of what he would otherwise pay. But the unmarried male with an income of $20,000 will save $2,070, or 30 per cent of what he would pay. Under such circumstances perhaps it is better to marry than to be burned up over tax increases.

If proper warning is given, casualties from enemy bombing may be reduced 50 per cent, the government announces. Canasta players should make a note of this.

Signs Of Fall

Summer is merging into fall, gradually but none the less surely. To be sure, autumn has started, according to the calendar, but such things cannot be determined by hard and fast rules. According to the calendar, spring should always begin in March, but some years it is anything but cooperative.

But there are other and more reliable signs that fall is here to stay. Leaves are falling, and baseball is giving way to football. But the most definite indice of a change of season, is the ending of daylight saving time. When standard time returns, fall begins for a large segment of the population.

Autumn no longer is as important as a season as it was in an earlier day, when it meant time had arrived to stock the cellar and the woodhouse for the long winter ahead. The thrift and forehanded then prepared for months instead of days.

Some persons still do, but now the practice is termed hoarding instead of foresight. A, well—new days, new ways.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Disinfecting Schoolrooms

SCHOOL DAYS mean more infections for children. Because of the close contact of pupils, a cold that develops in one is likely to spread like wildfire thruout the class. The same can be said of measles, mumps, chicken pox, and all other contagious diseases.

This has been a hardship not only for the pupils but also the teachers, principals, parents, and school nurses and physicians. These maladies are believed to be transmitted by infected droplets that are spewed from the mouth and nose on coughing, sneezing, talking, and singing. It is little wonder that when ultra-violet and glycol vapors were introduced as a means of purifying the air, schools were among the first to try them out. They have been used for many years but we still are not thoroly convinced of their merit.

Recently experiments were performed in three separate grammar schools in the southwest. These institutions had approximately the same attendance and were located in areas where temperature and humidity were comparable. In an effort to produce similar surroundings, the same number of windows in the rooms were left open. Samples of the air for bacterial counts were taken in regular periods of study and after the rooms had been occupied for at least 20 minutes. One of the schools was equipped with ultra-violet irradiation; another had these devices in only one-half the rooms; and the third school had none. The results demonstrated that irradiation reduced the number of organisms in the air from 12 to 71 per cent over the four years in which the survey was conducted Other studies with ultraviolet also have shown the value of irradiation.

But the bacterial count is not enough. From the practical aspect the physician wants to know, "Does irradiation prevent disease?" Several tests have been done along this line and a recent survey concludes that it is approximately 20 per cent effective in lowering the incidence of respiratory infections. This is something but we wish the percentage were higher so that the plan could be recommended more enthusiastically.

Glycol vapor also is used in air sanitation. This product is dispersed from a vaporizer and, on reaching a certain concentration in the air, will kill certain organisms. To date the procedure has passed thru the laboratory stages but reports on its efficacy in preventing disease have bten so controversial that it cannot be recommended at this time. Furthermore, the bactericidal action of these vapors depends to a great extent upon the temperature of the room and the relative humidity. In addition, there have been many differences of opinion regarding the vaporizers that are now available for dispersing glycol. There is no assurance that all those on the market are capable of maintaining a satisfactory concentration. This is one of the major drawbacks to the plan.

Virtually all of this work is being done on the assumption that respiratory infections, including colds, are transmitted thru the air. Some authorities believe that direct contact with infected secretions from the nose and throat is a more common means of dissemination. An individual with a cold, for example, contaminates his fingers whenever he handles a handkerchief, rubs his nose, or places his fingers on his lips. He deposits these organisms upon whatever he touches and whoever happens to make the same contact is likely to pick up the germs.

KIDNEY DISEASE

M. J. writes What are the symptoms of kidney trouble?

REPLY

There are many forms of kidney disease. Infections often produce fever, backache, and frequency of urination. Bright's disease usually is associated with puffiness of the face, headache, high blood pressure, and changes in vision. Tumor may not produce any symptoms except perhaps a slight rise in temperature and a feeling of malaise. Stones are the meanest of the bunch, causing unbearable colic. If you do not believe this, ask the man who owns one.

WITHERING ON THE VINE

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Congressman Brehm Of Ohio Pads His Payroll; The Veep Gets Kissed; Truman Tells How He Fired Louis Johnson

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — While exposing the padded payrolls of GOP Congressman Parnell Thomas of New Jersey and Democrat Victor Wickersham of Oklahoma I have overlooked another quiet operator in the Congressional kickback circle.

He is Congressman Walter Brehm, Republican, of Millersville, Ohio, who has been performing some lucrative slight-of-hand with his office payroll which the voters are entitled to know about.

For three years Brehm carried an elderly lady, Mrs. Clara Soliday, on Uncle Sam's payroll, requiring her to kick back approximately one-half her salary to him. Then, when she broke her arm at the age of 72, she was summarily dismissed, and later the Congressman's son was hired in her place. What secret arrangements exist between father and son cannot be ascertained.

What many voters do not realize is that salaries paid to a Congressman's staff are not paid by him, but by all the taxpayers. They are paid for the purpose of helping the Congressman handle the affairs of his constituents, answer mail, and attend to 101 different problems put up to him by the people back home whom he represents.

To handle these matters, each member of Congress is given government money to pay a large office staff. And if he diverts this money to his own pocket, it is, in effect, cheating the government and the taxpayers. That was why Parnell Thomas was sent to jail and why Congressman Wickersham of Oklahoma is being investigated by the FBI.

Most members of Congress in my opinion are high-type citizens who do not fudge on their payrolls; some of them, such as Senator Lehman of New York, even dip into their own pockets to pay for extra office help.

Mrs. Soliday Kicks Back

Congressman Brehm on the other hand approached Mrs. Soliday in January, 1945, and asked if she would like to work in his office for $200 a month with the understanding that she kick back the balance of her salary to him. Mrs. Soliday was from Brehm's 11th district back in Ohio, so he felt such an arrangement would be safe. She was then working for the Treasury, but since he offered her a little more than she was making, and since she did not realize that kickbacks were illegal, she accepted.

Mrs. Soliday began work on Jan. 10, 1945, as a secondary clerk at a purported salary of $375 a month. On this total amount she paid a withholding tax, as well as a regular income tax. However, she kept only the agreed $200, returning the rest to Brehm.

Sometimes she put his kickback money in an envelope, after cashing her check from the taxpayers, and delivered it directly to Brehm. Sometimes the envelope was delivered by a son, Ray Soliday, an employe of the Interstate Commerce Commission, or a daughter, also working in Washington. On one occation, Mrs. Soliday transmitted the kickback by registered letter.

Son Gets Job

In July, 1946, Mrs. Soliday's listed salary was hiked to $529.81 a month (a net of $442.01 after the withholding tax), though she continued to receive only $200, returning the remainder to her boss. In other words, the sprious raise also went into Brehm's pocket.

This arrangement continued until Mrs. Soliday left the payroll on Jan. 31, 1948, four months after breaking her arm during a visit in Ohio. The lady was then 72 years old, and her doctor bills were heavy, but she continued to keep her bargain with Brehm. In fact, in September, 1947, before the broken arm was set, and racked with pain, she returned to Washington to deliver her monthly kickback.

Four months later this misguided loyalty was rewarded by a discharge from her job. Brehm's account of the severance was that she "fell down the stars and had to resign."

However, the Ohio Congressman did not want to terminate the Brehm family's trip on the gravy train. So, a year after Mrs. Soliday departed, a son, James F. Brehm, popped up on his father's payroll—and he's still there at a salary of $638.40 a month.

A Kiss For the Veep

There's been quite a dispute as to whether Vice President Barkley did or did not kiss Miss America. Some newspapers reported he did; others reported that he didn't. However, here is what actually happened.

When Miss America—pretty Yolande Betbeze of Mobile, Ala.—called on the Vice President, he declined to kiss her for the photographers. After the newsmen cleared, out, however, Miss America kissed and told. She confessed blushingly that Barkley had smacked her "right on the lips."

Barkley kept reporters guessing, however, by denying the whole thing to reporter Milt Berliner of the Scripps-Howard press. But in the privacy of Senate Majority Leader Scott Lucas' office, the Veep was chided by Lucas and asked for the truth. With a slight blush Barkley admitted the osculation.

"And she didn't flinch, either," chuckled the Veep.

Synthetic Rubber Politics

It was probably not love of Louey Johnson so much as apprehension of the hard-hitting Senate watchdog committee that brought the abrupt resignation of Hubert E. Howard as chairman of the Munitions Board.

Only a few insiders know it, but the committee was all set to put Howard on the hot coals for pushing the sale of government-owned synthetic rubber plants. He was scheduled to appear before Sen. Lyndon Johnson's watchdogs at 10 a. m., Tuesday, when he suddenly resigned Monday afternoon.

The committee's first report scorched Howard and his Munitions Board for lack of "a firm aggressive" rubber program.

What the report does not reveal is that when Chairman Lyndon Johnson was moving heaven and earth behind the scenes to stop the sale of a synthetic rubber plant at Akron, Howard was urging its sale.

Johnson and Truman

A friend of ex-Secretary of Defense Louey Johnson dropped in to see the President recently, and the conversation drifted around to Johnson's resignation.

"I had to let him go," the President said, "He's an egomaniac. He's psychopathic. He would tell untruths."

"It was one of the hardest things I have ever had to do," Truman continued. "He sat down here, and I told him he would have to quit. He just said, 'I don't know what to say.' I told him, 'There's nothing for you to say. You will just have to quit.'"

The President added that he knew the whole story about Johnson's knifing Acheson and playing footsie with the Republicans.

A project of friendship for Korea in memory of a gallant general who died in action will be the theme of a reunion of U. S. Veterans of the Korean war.

The U. S. Armed Forces in Korea Association, composed of the 200,000 G. I.'s who served in the Korean occupation, will gather at Fort Meade, Md., October 7, at which time a plan will be launched to help educate the children of Americans who died fighting in Korea, plus Korean students who want to study in this country. The scholarships will be dedicated to the late Maj. Gen. William Dean.

U. S. Military Weakness Not Really Being Cured

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25—What happened in Korea when U. S. Air Force planes fired by mistake on British troops causing 150 casualties in 30 minutes draws attention to a scandal of neglect and blundering judgment of the U. S. Joint Chiefs of Staff and the Defense Department in the last three years that ought to be exposed fully to view.

Unfortunately for the American people it is evidently more important for congressional investigating committees to protect the Truman administration and the Democratic Party from criticism just before the elections than it is to ferret out the men who have failed to provide America with air units especially trained to coordinate ground and air operations in combat.

The facts are on the record. The story is available to any committee of Congress which has the temerity to dig it out and demand the removal from high office of the men responsible for failing to give America a tactical air force.

Congress To Blame

Much of the blame must rest on Congress itself for not having preceived the line of demarcation between strategic air forces needed for bombing factories and communications far behind the battle lines and the tactical air units which operate closely with ground troops very much as artillery does—taking out guns of the enemy, throwing down a barrage of bombs a few yards ahead of an advancing column and otherwise serving the needs of the ground soldiers. "Air support" has been loosely used in the press to describe both types of operation and this has confused the public.

As a consequence, Congress has been asleep at the switch while advocates of strategic bombing were allowed to put most of the money into the large type of planes that cannot be used for tactical air operations.

Recently General Jacob Devers, who retired as chief of America's ground armies, was quoted in an interview as saying that he did not believe the same kind of plane could be used effectively for both strategic and tactical air operations. It was General Devers who twice in the last two years appealed to the Joint Chiefs to give the army a tactical air force. He never advocated a return of the air force to the army but he did say in effect that the U. S. Air Force must not lose sight of its basic responsibility to provide enough air units that could constantly train with ground troops.

Accidents, of course, will happen when there has been no coordinated training. It was inevitable that British troops and others in Korea would be fired on by mistake. There has been too much suppression of such incidents happening with our own troops. For this kind of coordinating is a delicate operation. This very issue is one of the reasons why the Marine Corps fought such a desperate battle behind the scenes in Washington to keep its own tactical air squadrons when deliberate efforts under the guise of economy were made to abolish them. The country should get the full story of this some day when various congressmen cease being politicians and really become interested in America's defense weaknesses.

In Korea, the close coordination of the air and ground operations by the Marines has been so effective—not only at Inchon in recent days but on the Southern front—that the Army G. I.'s have been begging for the same kind of support.

Tactical Units Inadequate

Russia has built up a huge number of tactical air units to work with her ground army. If the reds march across Europe the strategic air forces now available to the allies will not be ample to do both the strategic and the tactical air job. More than $50,000,000,000 has been allocated to our armed services by the U. S. Joint Chiefs and by the Defense Department these last five years and yet America did not have a single division of army troops equipped with tactical air units of their own in the Far East or elsewhere before Korea. Nor was there a pool of tactical air units adequate for large-scale operations involving several divisions.

A special kind of training and technique is required. It is not enough to know how to fly an airplane or how to handle a bomb rack. It is necessary for airmen to be trained in ground operations so as to be able to understand directions from ground directors. To separate the air forces from the army on the strategic side was right but to separate the tactical air squadrons from the ground troops was one of the worst blunders committe in our military history—all in the name of the word "unification."

America has apologized and expressed regret to Britain. But members of Congress who have failed to check up on the blunders of the top command should be troubled in conscience today as the tragic results of their indifference and the Pentagon's blunders come into perspective with no sign that the fundamental weakness is even now really being cured.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The Election

I HAVE received a letter from Robert F. Mackness, of Richland, Wash., who writes:

"I'm in a quandary.

"I'm 28 years old and have never voted. This time I'm determined to exercise my sacred right, but am faced with the question: Who is worth a vote?

"I may be a little choosey, but that's not why I failed to vote in previous elections. I happen to be one of the Americans who lost his citizenship rights at the hands of the draft board during World War II."

Mr. Mackness lost his opportunity to vote at the polls or by an absentee ballot by misadventure during the war years and he approaches the 1950 election seriously.

But he looks about him and finds no inspiration. Who are these great men for whom he is to cast his ballot? He looks at the Democratic Party and it leaves him hopeless. He looks at the Republican Party and that does nothing for him. He says:

"If the voters are offered a choice between two people they have no confidence in, there will be a small vote, a large part of which will be thrown away on splinter parties. Then the politicians and observers will moan as usual about public apathy. . ."

It seems to me that Mr. Mackness is right. His has been a broad experience in Europe at war. He served from 1942 until 1948, a long stretch, and he witnessed the confusions of Europe after V-E Day, and, of course, our own confusions.

Such errors as the Tydings whitewash, the Acheson Asia policy, the President's remarks about the Marines, the Denham dismissal, and the Republican opposition, which is split into bickering factions, indicate a retreat from public service to an exaltation of private career.

Here, at home, it grows increasingly difficult to know how to vote. For instance, in New York, there are three serious candidates for mayor, Ferdinand Pecora, Vincent Impellitteri, and Edward Corsi. These are good citizens. Pecora and Corsi were nominated, first of all, because they are of Italian descent. Impellitteri nominated himself as a protest against a boss-ruled city. Pecora, a distinguished judge, was nominated by the Bronx boss, Ed Flynn. Impellitteri has really been the acting mayor during much of the O'Dwyer regime because of the latter's frequent vacations. Corsi is a Republican with administrative experience.

An aroused population would elect Impellitteri to show the bosses that they have had enough of all of them. But the likelihood is that they will do no such thing. They will undoubtedly elect Pecora, who is not only supported by Tammany but by the labor bosses. A combination of Flynn and Dubinsky is hard to beat.

So many will stay away from the polls and let the election go by default.

Similarly, in my district, the candidate for Congress is Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., who does not live in the district and is alien to its population. He is also alien to the House of Representatives, which he apparently finds to be a bore, because he is rarely present. His opponent cannot be elected. So, how does one vote?

Harry Truman is a President of decreasing popularity. The other day a young man got his orders to go to war. I asked him which was his service. He said: "Better than Stalin's propaganda machine." He meant, of course, the Marine Corps. He expressed the hope that he would be back in time to vote against the Commander-in-Chief. This may be a straw in the wind, forgotten by 1952. But the President does not permit the citizens long to forget his inadequacies.

Yet, the Republicans will not defeat Truman by such remarks as appear in this column. If the people have a choice between two inadequacies, they are more likely to

Crossing The Han

WITH THE MARINES ON THE SEOUL FRONT

NOT every major military operation, thank God, is a blood bath. And sometimes these quieter efforts tell more about people, have more of human drama, than the great crises with their cruel, simple patterns. Of such was the crossing of the Han River, which this reporter made with the men of Easy Company of one of the Marine battalions, with whom he marched from Inchon to Seoul.

The crossing of the Han was the prelude, potentially as risky as any amphibious operation, to the final attack on Seoul. The prelude to the crossing of the Han was a bitter cold night on the hard, cold ground of Kimpo Airfield, interrupted by intimations of danger and disaster.

The commander of Easy Company, Capt. Samuel Jaskilka, had been called from his brief sleep to be told that the regimental reconnaissance company had been cut to pieces, after swimming across the Han River in the dark night hours. In the pale, chilly dawn, with only this information on its stomach, Easy Company marched off to the assembly area, to board the waiting amphibious tractors.

The amtracs were lined up on either side of a road about a mile from the airfield. Capt. Jaskilka skillfully threaded his way through the inevitable muddle of any big operation and got his men aboard the huge, lumbering steel boat-vehicles. Clammy C rations were opened. The breakfasting men watched another company of the battalion pass by, headed for the river, and a beardless young marine remarked in the curious, flat, emotionless tone reserved for this subject by the men in the line:

"Gee, nearly all my buddies in Dog Company have got killed."

Spot Decisions

Jaskilka and his platoon commanders went over the day's plan. "It's one of those operations," said Jaskilka, "where a lot of decisions are going to have to be made on the spot, so keep your men well under control." In the long delay that always precedes any military jump-off, gunner Sgt. Robert W. Barnet admonished the men to "for God's sake keep down and keep off the skyline." Restless in the amtracs, the men passed around North Korean surrender leaflets, laughing at the wording of the suggestion that their deaths would wound their families with "an arrow of keen pang."

Suddenly the column of amtracs bumped off toward the river—a long, hard, rough ride. Now, before it was known what was to come, was the moment of greatest tension. In this moment, very naturally if you think about it, the talk was about simple, familiar things—children and others at home, good times had and hoped for, sweethearts and wives and little houses in California beach towns. The mood lasted until the amtrac clumsily turned into the river valley itself, disclosing only broad mud flats, a wide, muddy stream, a thatched village in flames, and rice paddies and eroded hills on the other shore.

The men in the amtrac straightened from their crouched positions and abandoned the simple past in favor of more recent reminiscence

Street Work Standards Set Up By FHA

The Federal Housing Administration has set up street improvement standards as an aid to sponsors of housing developments, E. Lester Muller, state director, said yesterday, pointing out that the order includes Cumberland as well as Baltimore, Hagerstown and Frederick.

Copies of the specifications are available to engineers, builders, subdivision developers and others through the FHA office at Baltimore.

"A considerable amount of new land will need to be developed in meeting the present housing shortage," Muller pointed out.

"We believe this bulletin will be helpful to sponsors of housing developments who want to provide home sites in stable attractive areas, with street improvements suitable to the type of development planned. It will be valuable to developers in in the early planning stages, and the individual data sheets selected will be of value during the stage of letting contracts.

Worked Out By Engineers

"Technical information provided in the booklet has been worked out by FHA land planning engineers who have had long experience with residential developments. In all cases, plans and specifications for a development must conform with local regulations; where they equal or exceed standards recommended by FHA, they will be considered acceptable. Sponsors of developments should employ competent planning and engineering technicians who can develop economical plans and specifications."

The Federal Housing Administration in its mortgage insurance activities recognizes that suitable street improvements are essential to the creation of stable residential areas, Muller said. Valuations and risk-ratings of individual properties under FHA underwriting practice usually reflect the typical cost of street improvements suitable for the type of development under consideration and the contemplated use and maintenance.

"The owner of an individual property in a development or subdivision is vitally interested in the street improvements," Muller pointed out. "If the streets which serve his property have not been suitably improved or fall into disrepair, the individual owner cannot correct these conditions although they may seriously affect the use and value of his property. He must petition local authorities or undertake the difficult task of creating an effective property owners' maintenance or improvement association.

Can Stop Bad Conditions

"Unsatisfactory street conditions can be prevented by complete and durable installation of all street improvements simultaneously with the opening of the new residential area. Such installations not only prevent difficulties and expense which plague the home owner but facilitate acceptance of the streets for public maintenance, help create better neighborhoods, and increase the value and marketability of the property.

Local authorities are encouraged by FHA to adopt street standards and regulations of their own to assure good street improvements in all new residential areas. This is done by locally adopted subdivision regulations under which good subdivision design and assurance of suitable improvements are obtained in connection with the approval and recording of new subdivision maps. The FHA is making available to local authorities, the services of its land planning consultants to give advice on the preparation of such regulations.

Betty Jo Barton Is Being Extensively Entertained

To Be Bride Of John R. Murphy

Miss Betty Jo Barton is being entertained with numerous parties prior to her marriage October 7 to John R. Murphy. The bride-elect is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ferman Barton, McMullen Highway. Her fiancee is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Richard T. Murphy, Shenandoah, Pa.

Mrs. Colleen Nelson will be hostess for a miscellaneous shower and pre-nuptial party in compliment to her cousin October 4, at her home, McMullen Highway, beginning at 8 o'clock. There is to be planned entertainment during the evening. Sixteen guests have been invited.

Miss Freda Skelly and Miss Margaret Evans entertained in honor of Miss Barton with a dinner party at the Maryland Cocktail Lounge Friday evening. A pink and white bridal cake topped with a pink umbrella and white candles decorated the table. A theater party followed the dinner.

A pre-nuptial dinner honoring Miss Barton and Mr. Murphy was given by Mr. and Mrs. Leslie W. Fair, Thursday evening at Anton's Big Savage Inn. The table was centered with a bouquet of white flowers with white tapers at either end. Covers were laid for eight.

The marriage of Miss Barton to Mr. Murphy will be performed on her parents' 31st wedding anniversary. Rev. Thomas A. Hardesty is to officiate at the ceremony which will take place at 9 a. m., in St. Patrick's Catholic Church.

Members of the bridal party will be Mrs. Fair, Frostburg, who is to be her cousin's matron of honor; Mrs. Richard Sanders, Piedmont; Miss Skelly, Mrs. Edward Rider, Mrs. L. William Zeller, bridesmaids; Jeannine Richardson, Frostburg; Donna Walker and Sandra Lee Harrison, flower girls.

Andrew Kleha, Shenandoah, Pa., is to serve as Mr. Murphy's best man and John W. Barton, L. William Zeller, John Harbaugh and Edward Dolphin will be the ushers. Voval selections will be by Leslie W. Fair, Frostburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Barton are entertaining in honor of their daughter and her bridal party with a wedding breakfast and reception at the Ali Ghan Country Club.

Mrs. Tydings To Be Guest

Mrs. Millard E. Tydings will be honor guest of the United Democratic Women's Club of Allegany County at a reception tonight from 8 until 9 o'clock in the Algonquin Hotel.

The Democratic State Central committee members and candidates for office are to be among the guests.

Mrs. Ada Conley Long, president, is in charge of arrangements. Other members of the committee are Mrs. Nell Fannon, Mrs. Romano Ways, Mrs. Mae Mont and Mrs. Jane Bruce.

Engagements

The engagement of Miss Kathryn Witwer Richards to John Henry MacMillan, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. MacMillan, Delmar, New York, has been announced by the bride-elect's mother, Mrs. Witwer Richards, 869 Gephart Drive.

Mr. and Mrs. John R. Greise, Valley Road, have announced the approaching marriage of their daughter, Miss Rosalie Greise, to Bernard Jack Beck, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard J. Beck, 110 West First Street.

Announcement of the engagement of Miss Delcie U. King to Alvin F. Drew, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Drew, 539 Furnace Street, has been made by Mr. and Mrs. Walter King, 429 Columbia Avenue, parents of the bride-elect.

The betrothal of Miss Veronica Delores Buskey to John Lawrence Ratke, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bernard Ratke, 420 South Street, has been announced by the bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Frank Buskey, 35 Humbird Street.

Mrs. Dennis W. Koontz, Sr., Flintstone, has announced the engagement of her daughter, Miss Barbara Eloise Feight, Bedford, Pa., to Edward Henry England, Bedford, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Marshall England.

Norma Jean Lovell Becomes Bride Of Albert Gary Moler

Ceremony Takes Place In Towson

Norman M. Lovell, 13 Laing Avenue, announces the marriage of his daughter, Miss Norma Jean Lovell, to Albert Gary Moler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert G. Moler, 3920 Cranston Avenue, Baltimore, former residents of here.

The wedding ceremony was solemnized in Babcock Memorial Church, Towson, June 29 with Rev. August Wessells officiating. Mrs. Alvin Reif, Hoisington, Kans., was her cousin's matron of honor and only attendant. William Wessells served as Mr. Moler's best man.

Mrs. Moler is a graduate of Fort Hill High School, class of 1950. While in school she participated in many activities, being a member of the Fort Hill Players, and served as secretary of the group; she also was a member of the cheerleading squad, voted a member of the National Honor Society and the Verse Speaking Choir. In her senior year she was chosen Queen Football I, by popular vote of the football squad. She also was elected to be a senior attendant in the May Queen court.

Mr. Moler also is a graduate of Fort Hill High School, being a member of the class of 1948. For the past two years he has attended Towson State Teachers College, Towson. He now is employed by the Bethlehem Steel Company, at Sparrows Point.

Rev. and Mrs. Wessells entertained with an informal wedding reception honoring Mr. Moler and his bride at their home following the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Moler are now residing in Baltimore.

Nieces Will Entertain Miss Burkett

Miss Lillie Burkett will be honored by her nieces, Mrs. Marilyn Logsdon and Mrs. Arie Stein, with a party in celebration of her 69th birthday.

The party, for the immediate families and relatives, is to be held at 2 o'clock Sunday at Miss Burkett's home in Corriganville. A salt and pepper shaker shower will be a feature of the affair.

A daughter of the late Josiah and Rebecca Burkett, Miss Burkett has made a hobby of collecting salt and pepper shakers for the past two years. She already has 239 shakers.

Carolyn Bowie Enrolls At Stephens College

Miss Carolyn Wilson Bowie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas R. Bowie, Washington Street, has enrolled as a freshman at Stephens College and was among the special guests at a tea given Sunday afternoon on the lawn at the home of the college president.

Dr. and Mrs. Homer Price Rainey were hosts to approximately 200 young women.

KEEPING UP WITH HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 25 (INS) — Connie Haines, that sweet singer and swell gal, gets a headline part in "The Strip," with Mickey Mooney. Joe Pasternak closed the deal with Connie over the weekend.

Connie Haines

Lest you get the wrong idea, "The Strip" isn't about a lady doing a disrobing act. To Los Angeles and all of Southern California it's that narrow piece of county land joining Beverly Hills to Hollywood—the famed night life locale of the Mocambo, Ciro's, and dozens of other cafes.

Before reporting to MGM, Connie plays three weeks at the Copley Plaza in Boston. I might add, the MGM lot isn't new to her. She recently appeared in "Duchess of Idaho" there. By the time Connie gets here she may be Mrs. Robert M. Haven. He's the jet pilot at Hughes Aircraft.

• — • — •

Over the long distance telephone, Leo McCarey made a deal with Jose Ferrer to play the lead in "Born in a Trunk." Seems Jose, who certainly has few equals on either stage or screen, sings and dances as well as he acts.

He'll play the son of an old vaudeville couple who is brought up backstage. And watch and see what Leo McCarey does with him. I think Ferrer has the most expressive hands I have ever seen. He used them to good effect in "The Silver Whistle." I haven't yet seen "Cyrano de Bergerac."

• — • — •

George Murphy, a solid citizen if ever there was one, was called into Dore Schary's office just before he left on a tour of 18 cities for better relations for Hollywood. He was told when he gets back he will be given an important role in "No Questions Asked," with Barry Sullivan.

While on tour George will talk about M-G-M pictures—but natch. He'll speak before several clubs, as well as newspaper editors, Chamber of Commerce heads and civic leaders. He has always done a great job for better relations, and that's why he has been sent out, both for the industry and for Leo the lion.

Deborah Kerr goes to England to visit her husband's parents as soon as she finishes "Quo Vadis" in Rome. She wants to take 2-year-old Melanie to visit Tony Bartley's mother and father. Her own mother was killed in a motor accident not long ago.

While she is there, "King Solomon's Mines" will have its premiere, and Deborah's British fans are sure to like it. There's plenty of romance, adventure and excitement, and let me say that all of this went over big at the preview in Hollywood the other eve.

• — • — •

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Don't ever think Pat De Cicco and Gussie Moran are actually cooling, even though they step out with other people. They were a happy twosome at the Windsor House.

Oscar Hammerstein is heading a drive to establish a George Gershwin theater workshop at Boston University as a memorial to the late composer. Fred Astaire, George Jessel and Jeanette MacDonald have contributed money for the project which will train students in the theater, motion pictures and radio.

Robert Young, Betty and their four girls are appearing in a short called "A Day in the Life of the Youngs." Yes, it's all for sweet charity—the March of Dimes drive.

Josephine Hull spent last week in Johns Hopkins Hospital for a complete checkup before going into a new play on Broadway.

John Carradine plans to tour the country with his own Shakespearean repertory company. What? Cape and all?

Charles Laughton starts his Biblical and Shakespearean readings tour in San Quentin Prison!

Half of Hollywood goes to Palm Springs October 18 for the opening of the new Starlight Room at the Chi Chi Cafe. The big attraction is Desi Arnaz and his band, plus a show which will include Jack Benny, who has just become a new Palm Springs resident; Lucille Ball, who will do the act she did at the screen writer's party, and Bob Hope.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

Laughter in the air.

Yes, sir, a scientist at Johns Hopkins University has just discovered laughing gas in the atmosphere high above the earth.

Maybe now we'll find out what the man in the moon has been laughing about.

But this may have a strong influence on radio and video comedy programs. The problem is how to get the studio audiences up that high.

Of course, laughing gas has long been used by dentists and doctors. This has kept the patients happy and laughing right up to the minute they get the bill.

This laughing gas may even lead to an entirely new kind of comedy show with no script and no comedian. All they have to do is spray the audience.

And they need not worry even if the laughing gas in the atmosphere gives out. To get more, all they have to do is wait for Don Wilson to exhale.

Try And Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

Cedric Adams was having a soda in a Minneapolis drugstore when a man confounded the pharmacist by demanding a concoction that would make his eyes sore and red. "You must be slightly nuts," decided he clerk. "Not at all," insisted the customer. "Do you think I want all my friends to know I don't own a television set?"

• — • — •

M. Musselman, in his amusing book, "It Took Nine Tailors," tells about the time an important studio conference called by Charlie Chaplain was interrupted by the buzzing of a particularly large and active horsefly. After missing it with several wild swipes, Chaplin lost his patience and called for a swatter. He continued the discussion, with the watter poised for action. At last the fly settled on a table directly in front of him and Chaplin tensed for the kill. Slowly he raised the swatter. Just as he was about to deliver the death blow, however, he deliberately lowered his weapon and allowed the fly to escape. "For Heaven's sake," blurted someone, "why didn't you swa it?" Chaplin shrugged his shoulders and pointed out: "It wasn't the same fly."

MIRROR OF YOUR MIND

By LAWRENCE GOULD
Consulting Psychologist

Would being rich make you "selfish"?

Answer: That depends upon what sort of "drive" led you to spend your life in piling up a fortune. The rich man who is indifferent to other people's needs and feelings probably is trying to use money to make up for other things—like love and understanding—which he has lost hope of finding, and would have been equally self-centered if he had remained poor. And the fellow who insists on stressing his superiority to those who are less "successful" feels at heart that but for his success he'd be inferior to them.

Will force keep children in order?

Answer: No, writes Dr. Percival M. Symonds in the Teachers College Review. Classroom misbehavior generally involves a neurotic effort to satisfy an emotional need (like the need to feel important) and neither punishment nor neglect will correct it. Helping a child solve his conflicts is more useful in the long run than "making him be good". If teachers and pupils face their tasks with interest and enthusiasm, and if teachers try to see their pupils' good points, not their failings, discipline will cease to be a problem.

Do nerves cause "phantom limb" pain?

Answer: Apparently not, in most cases, reports Dr. K. E. Kallio, of Copenhagen, Denmark. In sixty-eight cases in which patients complained of severe pain in limbs which had been amputated, Dr. Kallio severed the connection between the brain and the nerves that had served the lost limb. In thirty-nine cases there was no effect whatever, and in twenty-nine improvement was only temporary. Real as it is to those who suffer from it, "phantom limb" pain is presumably an emotional reaction to an injury that is still resented.

Is there a fountain of youth? Yes, says J. R. P. It's a routine that keeps your muscles and skin firm!

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

MORE and more the world is acclaiming among its most enchanting and loveliest, women who are well beyond what is technically middle age. More than one box-office favorite among the movie stars proudly baby sits with her own grandchild. Many of the most attractive models pose with their teen-age children.

Is this because ideals and standards have changed? Definitely not. What has changed is our knowledge of how to keep figures and skin looking as ageless as every woman who gives herself proper care has the right to feel.

Fountain Of Youth

The fountain of youth springs from a lithe body and firm skin. When any woman allows her muscles to become soft and her skin flabby—her age is showing. What a pity, when just ten minutes a day of an easy muscle-toning routine will keep the compliments coming her way!

Here's one which, if you are faithful to it daily, will help you accumulate beauty assets so quickly that you'll say it's almost miraculous. Almost immediately it will put a new lilt into your step and enable you to sit with the eye-filling grace that always distinguishes the young. After just a few months, your body will recapture its firmness. It will not only tighten your muscles and skin but it will give a limberness and lithesomeness to all your actions.

Ten Minutes Daily Does It!

It's not strenuous, but actually pleasant to do: Lie flat on your back on the floor with legs straight out and arms down at your side. Then tense every muscle in your body progressively. Begin with your toes. Tense them; hold for a count of five; relax.

Now move upward: Tense the ankles, hold and release; the calves, hold and relax; the thighs, hold and relax. Don't stop until you have given every muscle in your body a workout including your jaw. If you do it right, you'll feel as if you're "vibrating"—and that's good!

At first, some parts of your body may not respond, such as your back and neck, because through disuse have forgotten how to control these muscles. But you'll learn again and fast with a little practice. In the beginning, three times a day for the entire routine is enough. Work up gradually to ten times.

It's a sure cure for that foolishness called "forty-itis!"

Savings Account Coverage Hiked

Announcement was made yesterday by officials of Allegany county banks and the First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Cumberland that effective immediately federal insurance coverage will be provided on all savings accounts up to $10,000. The previous maximum coverage was $5,000.

The increased coverage follows the signing into law by Persident Truman of legislation boosting protection of savings accounts in banks insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation and for savings accounts in savings and loan associations insured by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporations.

Nine-Foot Man Is Still Growing

LONDON, (INS) — Twenty - six year old Ted Evans of Englefield, Green, County Surrey, is a very unhappy man.

He just cannot stop growing. Standing 9 feet 3½ inches in his stocking feet at latest check, he is said to be the world's tallest man.

"I have grown six inches since January," said Ted today, "I am still growing, I can feel it. Where is it all going to end?"

Ted is finding life none too easy. The only things he can buy not made to measure are collar studs and shoe laces. Specially tailored suits, made with difficulty and at great expense, are too small within a few months.

Travelling is also difficult for Ted. There is no comfort for him on a bus, and his head catches the parcels rack when he sits in a train. Hotels have no beds to fit him, and he must sleep on the floor.

In 1947 Ted only stood seven feet 7 inches tall, and doctors then told him: "We are afraid you will keep growing until you are eight feet."

That was 20½ inches ago.

Trust Building Offices Robbed

City police last night were investigating the report that four offices in the Liberty Trust Company building were entered and "considerable money" taken "probably Sunday night."

Detective Thomas J. See listed the places entered as:

Cumberland Credit Bureau, All States Life Insurance Company, Quaker City Life Insurance Company and the Cumberland Improvement Company. All are located on the upper floors of the building at the intersection of Baltimore and Centre Streets.

Entrance was gained to each office by using a pinch bar to force the doors, Detective See said. The four companies were taking inventory yesterday before listing their losses for police.

Giants Jolt Dodgers 4-3 After Being Eliminated

New York Loses, 3-2, Maglie Cops Second

NEW YORK, Sept. 25 (INS) — The New York Giants, eliminated from the National League pennant race in the afternoon, came back tonight to deal a lethal blow to Brooklyn's chances when they downed the Dodgers, 4 to 3, in a wild thriller at Ebbets Field.

The Dodgers had downed the Giants, 3 to 2, in the afternoon part of a day-night twin bill. But the Durochermen came from behind with three runs in the eighth inning of the arclight contest to snap Brooklyn's seven-game winning streak.

The loss also dropped the Dodgers five games behind the Phillies, who also split a pair with the Braves. Box.

Little League To Honor Champs, And Top Players

The most valuable players of the eight teams in the Cumberland Dapper Dan Club's Little Baseball League will be presented awards at the Strand Theatre tonight between 9 and 9:15 p. m., it was announced last night by Peter J. Carpenti.

Trophies also will be presented to the 18 members of Manager Robert V. "Sparky" Chisholm's Tigers who won the league championship by winning three straight games from the Red Sox in the series between Dapper and Dan Division winners.

Carpenti announced that the Dapper Dan Club also wil' present $150 to the Allegany League for Crippled Children at tonight's exercises.

Members of the Little League will be guests of the Strand management at tonight's show.

Konstanty Loses 70th Relief Job To Boston, 5-3

Heintzelman Scores 12-4 Win In Opener

BOSTON, Sept. 25 (AP)—Pitcher Max Surkont spoiled Jim Konstanty's record-tying 70th relief job today with a game-winning single that gave Boston a 5-3 second game victory and an even break with the league-leading Philadelphia Phillies. Ken Heintzelman pitched the Phils to a 12-4 first game win behind an 18-hit attack.

The split left the Phillies with a 4½ game lead over the second-place Brooklyn Dodgers. The Phils need any combination of five wins or Brooklyn defeats to clinch their first pennant since 1915. Brooklyn, an afternoon winner over New York plays the second game of the day-night doubleheader tonight.

Boston saved itself from mathematic elimination by pulling out the second game with two runs in the eighth inning. Surkont's single broke a 3-3 tie, scoring pinch runner Sibby Sisti. Then Gene Mauch added a double that scored pinch hitter Willard Marshall.

It was Konstanty's sixth loss after 16 wins. His appearance tied the modern major league mark of 70 games pitched, set by Ace Adams of the Giants in 1943. Box:

NEARS AL BATTING TITLE—Billy Goodman, shown above, lost his Boston Red Sox first base job to rookie Walt Dropo early this year but he's the toast of Beantown today as he leads the American League hitters with an average of .355 with only eight games to go before the end of the season. Billy has not only pounded the ball but he has filled in very capably in various infield and outfield posts.

THOMAS, W. Va., Sept. 25—Coach Johnny Paugh's Moorefield High School Yellow Jackets crashed the win column for the first time in three starts this season by defeating Thomas High School here today by the score of 25-6.

The game was postponed from last Friday on account of wet grounds.

The Hardy Countians scored in every period but the second and Bobby Wilson, right halfback, accounted for three of the visitors' four touchdowns. The other six-pointer was registered by Eugene Whetzel and the extra point was made by Kenny Vance.

Moorefield was penalized for unnecessary roughness in the final quarter and the ball was moved to the Jackets' one-yard line from where Danny Gennantino scored to avert a shutout for the home team.

The Yellow Jackets rolled up 378 yards rushing while Thomas picked up 81 yards on five completed aerials and 140 yards on the ground. The winners completed only one of nine passes for eight yards. Lineups:

Louis, Charles Finish Training

Both Predict They'll Win Via K.O. Route

NEW YORK, Sept. 25 (AP)—Both Joe Louis and Ezzard Charles completed serious training today for Wednesday night's heavyweight title fight at Yankee Stadium.

Each banged his sparring partners around for a final four rounds, issued a pre-battle statement expressing confidence in his ring destiny and wrapped it up until they face each other under the lights.

Each plans to "taper off" at his camp tomorrow. Charles, the N.B.A.—recognized world champion, expects to spend tomorrow night at a local hotel, while Louis, cast in the strange role of challenger, will motor in from Pompton Lakes, N. J., only in time for the weigh-in at noon on Wednesday.

"I expect to win by a knockout somewhere before the end of the 15th round," said Louis. "I won't try to call the round."

The 36-year-old negro who held the crown for nearly 12 years before "retiring" on March 1, last year, has looked great in his closing workouts.

Charles, the sharpshooter from Cincinnati, remained calmly certain that he packs the implements needed to chop the old champion down to his size.

"I'll knock out Louis," he said, "To prove that a man can't lend me his title and hope to take it back."

He's talked that way ever since he pitched his training camp up at South Fallsburg, N. Y., studiously ignoring the odds of approximately 2 to 1 quoted against him.

Red Sox Score Double Shutout Over Athletics

Parnell And Taylor Bag 8-0, 3-0 Wins

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 25 (AP)—The Boston Red Sox may not win the 1950 American League pennant, but they'll long remember a cold, raw day in September, when two of their pitchers turned in performances almost unheard of from their hurlers—a doubleheader shut out.

Lefty Mel Parnell and newcomer Harry Taylor today turned back the last place Philadelphia Athletics 8 to 0 and 3 to 0.

Only 1,773 braver than wise fans huddled in Shiber Park to see Manager Steve O'Neill's Bostonians keep alive their slim mathematical chance of copping the junior circuit flag. When frozen fingers and frosted faces were finally carried back into the clubhouse, the Red Sox found themselves still third and at least four games behind the league leading New York Yankees, with six games remaining to play.

Parnell, the classy left hander, started off the eventful day for Boston by turning Back Connie Mack's hapless band, 8 to 0, on three hits. He picked up his 18th victory of the season against nine defeats to snap a four game Boston losing streak which virtually blasted the Sox pennant hopes.

Parnell walked two and struck out three in chalking up his 10th straight win over Philadelphia teams since 1948.

In the second game, Boston trotted out Talyor for whom they recently paid Brooklyn a reported $50,000 to acquire from St. Paul, in the American Association.

Only Paul Lehner and Eddie Joost—in the first and second innings—nicked Taylor for hits. The right hander faced 32 batters and retired the last 15 men in order. Meanwhile, the Boston sluggers rapped little Bobby Shantz for four hits and two runs in the third inning. Dom DiMaggio and Johnny Pesky singled short right for one run. Vern Stephens, whose fielding support bordered on the sensational, doubled home a second tally. Box:

"Skip" Alexander Is Reported Doing Fine

EVANSVILLE, Ind., Sept. 25 (AP)—Stewart (Skip) Alexander, professional tourney golfer, was fighting a winning battle today against severe injuries he suffered last night in a plane crash that killed three Civil Air Patrol officers.

Deaconess Hospital reported the lean athlete, whose home is in Lexington, N. C., "is doing fine, considering the nature of his injuries."

Alexander was listed as "serious" with third-degree burns on the arms, face and upper body and a broken left leg.

The golfer had hitched a ride in the CAP plane from Olathe, Kans., to Louisville after finishing sixth Sunday in the $15,000 Kansas City Open Golf Tournament. It crashed in railroad yards a quarter-mile from the Evansville Municipal Airport.

Patsy Cline, 58, Ex-Fighter, Dies

NEWARK, N. J., Sept. 25 (AP)—Patsy Kline, 58, onetime featherweight boxer who four times fought for the championship, died today of a heart ailment.

A hard hitting fighter, Kline fought in the early part of the century. During his seven years in the ring he met Johnny Dundee, Benny Leonard, Young Britt, Johnny Kilbane and Abe Attell, who was then featherweight champion.

After his boxing days, Kline, who was born Patsy Gengro, became a referee and later a tavern owner. He was a native of Italy.

Allie Reynolds Chalks Up 15th Win In Opener

Cherokee Victor, 8-3, Ford Cops 2nd, 7-4, Mize Wallops Homer

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK, Sept. 25 (AP)—The Yankees did everything but announce their opening world series pitcher today as they battered the fifth-place Washington Senators twice at the stadium, 8-3 and 7-4, in two typical Bomber performances.

That just about did it. In running their home stretch victory streak to five, the World Champions lengthened their lead over the idle Detroit Tigers to three and one-half games, and that appears too many at this late stage.

The so-called "magic" number was reduced to four. That is, the Yanks with six games remaining on their calendar, can clinch the flag by winning four. Or any combination of Yankee victories and Detroit defeats adding up to four will serve the same purpose. Three Yank wins erase Boston.

It was not for want of trying that the Senators failed to stem the Yankee vicory surge today. Bucky Harris, their manager, has no love for the club which fired him two years ago, and he had his athletes keyed up for this one.

But it wasn't enough. Even though Mickey Vernon, their tall first baseman, walloped two home runs off young Eddie Ford in the second game, the Nats could not match the combination of sustained hitting and sudden explosive power exhibited by Casey Stengel's wrecking crew.

In the opener the champs rattled 15 hits all over the outfield grass, and 14 of them were singles. It was not a spectacular display, exactly, but it served to give Allie Reynolds his 15th win of the year. Staked to a 7-3 lead in the first five frames, the Cherokee never weavered.

Clipper Clears Bases

The second game, by contrast, was over all of a sudden. Joe DiMaggio came to bat in the third inning with one out, the bases loaded and the Nats leading 2-0 by virtue of Vernon's first four-master.

The Clipper socked a double down the left field line to clear the decks. Next to face lefthanded Bob Kuzava was big Jawn Mize. The gigantic Georgian unloaded his 24th home run of the year into the far distant right field seats. The Yanks made a couple more runs after that, but they were strictly an afterthought. The 20,238 chilled customers had seen what they paid their money for. Box:

Ewell Blackwell, Reds' Mound Ace, Loses Appendix

CINCINNATI, Sept. 25. (AP) — An attack of appendicitis did today what other National League baseball clubs haven't been able to accomplish—halt the late season hot pitching streak by Ewell Blackwell of the Cincinnati Reds.

Blackwell became ill last night while he and his teammates were enroute from Pittsburgh to St. Louis. He was removed from the train in Indianapolis, brought here by ambulance and promptly underwent an operation for removal of the appendix.

Dr. Reed Shank, who performed the operation, said there were "no complications." Several hours later hospital attaches reported the hurler's condition was "fairly good."

County League Game Halted By Darkness

Darkness halted the third and deciding game of the County Softball League series between Potomac Valley's Cubs and Wellersburg yesterday and arrangements were made to replay the contest Wednesday at 4:30 p. m. at Wellersburg.

Wellersburg held a 4-1 lead at the close of the 4th frame when darkness brought a halt to hostilities yesterday. The pitchers were Frank Toler for Wellersburg and Hayden Phillips for Potomac Valley.

Charley O'Baker homered for Wellersburg with one aboard in the 4th.

The winner of the Wellersburg-Potomac Valley series will battle it out with LaVale for the title.

Roman Picks Louis — 4 Locals With Rams

Tie Games Are Rare — Bill Bradley Ailing

By C. V. BURNS

Gene Roman, former Cumberlander who is now in the wholesale grocery business at Paterson, N. J., and is a boxing referee for the State of New Jersey, drops a few lines to say that he's picking Joe Louis to whip Ezzard Charles in the heavyweight title match at Yankee Stadium tomorrow night.

Roman sends along a clipping from a Paterson newspaper in which he is pictured with Joe Louis, Robert Williams, former Princeton boxing coach, and Sports Editor Ed Harvey, who has been with the Paterson Call for 52 years. One picture shows the quartet in 1939 and the other in 1950 and the photos are entitled "Then and Now."

"Who said you can't grow hair?" Gene asks.

Roman is a regular visitor at Louis' camp at Pompton Lakes. Gene says:

"Louis is really in condition. One thing we can't figure out he is easy to hit but when he opens up the sparring partners really go for cover. He has slowed up a little but his legs are good.

"Spoke with Joe yesterday and he feels the fight will not go the limit and should win by a knockout or TKO. I have not seen Charles work but I am not taking him too cheap.

"I'll be at the ringside and from there will leave for my vacation. Hope to see you Thursday or Friday. Am picking Joe to win. I like a puncher."

Edgar "Barney" Tucker and Larry McKenzie, who excelled in track and football at Fort Hill several years ago, will be in the backfield, and Willard Robertson and Olin Yoder, ex-Allegany athletes, will be on the line when Coach Don Phillips' Shepherd College Rams invade Keyser on Friday to do battle with Potomac State's Catamounts in the latter's Homecoming Game.

Tucker and McKenzie starred for the Rams last year. As freshmen the two were outstanding in every game. They were two of the 10 leading ground gainers in the state conference. "Barney" is right halfback and Larry is fullback. Robertson is slated to start at left end and Yoder at left tackle.

Shepherd spilled the Catamounts 19-6 last year and last week opened the 1950 grid by battling West Virginia Tech, undefeated conference champions of 1949, to a scoreless tie. Tech warped Potomac, 43-14, in the final game last season.

Lt. Arnold Galiffa, Army's crack quarterback of the past several years, is now calling his plays in Korea. The Donora (Pa.) athlete has been in action for a couple of months.

• — • — •

Don Decker, Fort Hill's place-kicking star who hung up a city record last year, made his bow with the Maryland Freshmen on Saturday and blew his first try for the extra point at College Park. His kick split the uprights the second time, however, as the Little Terps defeated William and Mary Frosh, 13-7.

St. John's, the Christian Brothers School of Washington, D. C., where Brother Clement, formerly of LaSalle is principal, must have a powerhouse on the gridiron this season. The Cadets steam-rolled Randolph-Macon Academy at Front Royal, Va., Saturday, 64-6. St. John's meets LaSalle in home-and-home basketball games.

• — • — •

Tie football games seem to be a rare article in the tri-state area.

LaSalle was the only team among 16 scholastic and collegiate elevens in the area to figure in one last year and that was a 13-13 affair with Johnstown Catholic.

Petersburg's 12-12 deadlock with Strasburg (Va.) on Friday is the first of the current season.

There hasn't been a scoreless tie game played by a district team since mid-season 1948 when Ridgeley and Keyser went on a one-day goose egg diet.

Ellery J. Ward, a Cumberland native and former Allegany High basketball and football player, has been named district finance campaign chairman for 1951 by Kent District, Del - Mar - Va Council, Boy Scouts of America.

Ward resides at Chestertown, Md., where he has been quite active in community affairs.

Ellery received the Citizenship Award for Kent County last year. This award is made annually to an individual for outstanding service to his community.

William J. "Bill" Bradley who has stopped in Cumberland on numerous occasions while scouting for the Cleveland Indians is reported to be in poor condition at his home in Cleveland following a heart attack.

Bradley is one of the Tribe's all-time greats and played third base for the major league team from 1901 to 1910. He was servinb as scout up until the time illness forced him to quit.

Roosevelt-Wilson High of Clarksburg which concluded a four-year football series with Allegany in 1949, spilled Coach Homer Fizer's University High gridders of Morgantown last week by the score of 20-19. UHS is billed to play at Romney High, October 13.

Pat O'Brien, the Midland (Md.) jockey, grabbed the spotlight at Wheeling the other day when he won with Talcum Spray, a 14-1 shot, over Annie's Dream, one-time ace of the half milers. The winner paid $32, $15.80 and $7.60.

• — • — •

As the Wheeling race meet goes into its final week, Jockey Jack Haycock needs only three more winners to establish a new track record. He's got 66 now. Jimmy Baird, who topped 'em all at Fairgo this year, hung to the record of 68 at Wheeling several years ago.

City Rec League Meets Tomorrow

An important meeting of representatives from all teams in the City Recreation Softball League will be held Wednesday at 8 p. m. at the City Hall auditorium.

It is very urgent that each team be represented.

Final arrangements will be made for the annual banquet. Representatives will be expected to have their division all-star selections and their choice of the league's most valuable player.

Parker 's In Finals, Cunningham's Edges C. & P. Phonemen, 1-0

Cunningham's Grocery and Parker's Sports Center won City Recreation Softball League playoff games last night at Penn Avenue Field.

Parker's advanced to the finals in the National Division in two straight by defeating Allegany Ballistics Lab by the score of 17-3. Parker's will play Allegany Insulation in the opener of the final playoff series today at 7 o'clock at Penn Avenue.

In last night's game, Parker's team collected 21 hits, including three each by Lisanti, Lagratta, Stotler and Morgan. Stotler belted two homers and Lagratta and Lisanti one each. Cunningham homered for ABL with one aboard.

Cunningham's took the lead in its series with C. & P. Telephone Company when Fred Tewell tossed a one-hitter to beat the Phonemen by the score of 1-0 in the opener on the American Division final series.

Earl Drenning drove in Jimmy Eckard with Cunningham's only run in the first inning. George Evans led off the game with a single for C.&P.'s only hit. Tewell fanned five and Larrick whiffed nine.

The second game of this best-of-three series is set for today at 6 o'clock at Penn Avenue Field. Yesterday's scores:

Navy-Maryland Game Is Reported Sellout

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Sept. 25 (AP) — Saturday's Navy-Maryland football game is a sellout.

The contest will be the first played in Maryland's new 47,000-seat stadium.

The university announced tonight that it has disposed of the last batch of end stand tickets.

It is a game many Marylanders have been waiting to see for the last 16 years.

The two schools, which have dominated football in this area for many years, have not played each other since 1934. Navy won that one, 16-13.

Oma Gets Nod

BUFFALO, N. Y., Sept. 25 (AP)—Lee Oma won a unanimous decision over Bob Satterfield tonight in a fast heavyweight battle that had the crowd of 8,000 shouting through all 10 rounds.

Oma, the Buffalo adonis who weighed 194½, carried the fight to the Chicago negro who at 181½ was trying to duplicate his knockout win over Oma last May.

Williams-Salas Fight Postponed

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25 (AP) — A scheduled non-title 10-round outdoor bout tonight between lightweight champ Ike Williams and Charley Salas was postponed today until tomorrow because of cold weather.

Matchmaker Gabe Mendendez announced the postponement at a weighing in ceremony. He said the bout would be held tomorrow night at Griffith Stadium if the weather permits.

The temperature then was 58 degrees, with a drop to 48 tonight predicted. Warmer weather was forecast for tomorrow.

Culmone Rides Five Winners

Joe Has Field Day At Atlantic City

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 25 (AP)—Joe Culmore, the country's second leading rider, enjoyed one of his better days today when he won with five mounts.

At the start of today Culmore was pressing Willie Shoemaker for leading rider honors of the country with the California saddle-smith setting the pace with 248 victories against 241 for the local favorite.

The Sicilian-born rider accounted for the daily double races aboard seventy-seven and Mess Cook. The winners of the first and second races, respectively, paid $6.00 and $10.00 straight mutuels and combined for a $30.20 double payoff. Culmore made it three for three in the third event with Bubs C. at $11.80 straight. After resting in the fourth race he returned to capture the fifth with Repetoire at odds of $7.80 for $2 and won the 9th with Townhouse.

Tea-Maker Scores

ELMONT, L. I., Sept. 25 (AP)—Mrs. F. Ambrose Clark's Tea-Maker, who has been a consistent performer in his three years of racing, today won his first stakes when he led all the way to take the 11th runnin of the $15,000 added Vosburg Handicap at seven furlongs before 19,282 fans at Belmont Park.

Tea-maker, a 7-year-old gelded son of Only One-Tea Leaves, won by a length and a quarter from Brookmeade Stable's More Sun with P. A. Markey's Piet a rapid closing third another half length back.

Mrs. Louis Lazare Sheila's Reward, the favorite, was used up chasing Tea-Maker, finishing fourth, the second time the 3-year-old has been out of the money in his racing career.

Jack Robertson had the leg up on TeaMaker, who was timed in 1:23, one second off the track mark.

Lightly held in the mutuels, Tea-Maker paid $15.20, $8.10 and $5.70. More Sun was $25.60 and $13.30 and Piet was $6.000 to show.

Tea-Maker did not race until he was five years old. He has been a consistent performer in allowance races. His victory was the seventh in 12 starts.

Farrady Post Will Ask For Anti-Red Law

Frostburg Legion To Appeal To Council

FROSTBURG—Farrady Post No. 24, American Legion, has instructed its post adjutant, John F. Rowe, to contact the Mayor and City Commissioners requesting that they adopt an anti-communist ordinance similar to that recently adopted by Cumberland.

A committee of Legionnaires, consisting of Frank T. Powers, Ralph M. Race and Francis Moore, Jr., will appear at the next council meeting to urge the passage of the ordinance.

The Legion post, now in the midst of a membership drive, has selected two teams to solicit all war veterans to join the post. Captains are Alfred Drew, past post commander, and Robert Holmes, vice commander. In the event that members of the two teams have secured two members each by the first of November, they will be honored with banquet.

Members of Drew's team are Hugh Watson, James Olin Spiker, Charles Merrbaugh, Lester Snyder, Harold Blocher, Fred Boettner, William Powers, Vincent Bollino, Samuel LaPorta, John F. Rowe, Robert Powers, William Harden and William Fabri.

Mission Society To Buy Vitamins

FROSTBURG—The Women's Missionary Society of Welsh Memorial Church met Friday evening at the home of Mrs. Maude Chidester, Taylor Street, Miss Betty Ann Hanna, Frostburg, was guest speaker, her subject relating to her experiences as a counselor in a Girls Baptist camp, near Baltimore this summer.

During the business meeting the society voted to send vitamin tablets to a Baptist missionary in a foreign field for distribution to persons in her territory. Mrs. Chidester will receive gifts of these tablets or money with which to purchase them, from interested church members from the present time to October 1.

Others attending the meeting were Mrs. Margaret Walsh, Mrs. Emily Reese, Mrs. Janet Aldridge and Miss Elizabeth Workman.

The next meeting of the group will be held Thursday, October 19, in the church, when World Day of Prayer will be observed. This meeting will be open to members of all churches interested in the observance of World Day of Prayer.

Keyser IOOF Burns Mortgage On Anniversary

Queens Point Lodge Has Diamond Jubilee

KEYSER, W. Va.—At a public meeting of Queen's Point Lodge, Independent Order of Odd Fellows Saturday, the Diamond Jubilee of the lodge was observed in connection with the burning of a bank note for $6,000, the final payment on the home of the lodge.

The celebration was held in the IOOF temple North Mineral Street home of the lodge with an overflow crowd made up of members of the lodge and other branches of the IOOF.

The temple was erected in 1924-25 at a cost of $34,18.69, Into the building fund Mount Olive Rebekah lodge contributed $338.44; Queen's Point Lodge paid from current funds and savings, $7,380.25, and the remaining $26,300 was covered by a first mortgage to the amount of $20,000, and a second mortgage of $6,300.

The Jubilee celebration opened with a dinner at Hamil's Restaurant with the following officials as guests of the membership: George S. Hull, grand master; Grand Secretary A. Ford Winters and wife; Past Grand Secretary A. J. Wilkinson, and wife, all of Huntington, and Past Grand Master Ralph D. Cox, Clarksburg. Also at the dinner were Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Steiding, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Oates and Luke McDowell, Keyser officials.

Topics of special interest to Odd Fellows and Rebekahs were discussed by the visiting and local officials. Among the topics were the Odd Fellows Home at Elkins; Grand Lodge meeting at Philadelphia and the general condition of the order nationally and in West Virginia.

A review of the local lodge history was given at the meeting at the temple by C. A. Steiding, reviewing the several locations occupied by the lodge prior to erecting the home building. The burning of the final mortgage note was conducted by Luke McDowell.

Famed Missionary Speaks At Keyser

KEYSER, W. Va.—Dr. Leland Prubaker, who is conducting a series of services nightly this week at the Church of the Brethren, South Main Street, opened the series Sunday morning, when he preached to the regular congregation on "The Everlasting Gospel." He told his audience "one's religion is real only if he shares his hopes and salvation with others. This religion," he continued, "is for every soul in this wide world, regardless of race, creed or color."

At the Sunday evening service he spoke on "The Christ I Love."

Dr. Brubaker, has spent considerable of his adult life in the foreign mission fields. Services will be conducted each evening this week, starting at 7:30 o'clock.

What Editor Bill Hart Has to Say About Your Congressman—

REPRESENTATIVE HARLEY O. STAGGERS

In the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD of August 30, 1950, Rep. M. G. Burnside, Democrat of Huntington, Fourth West Virginia District, inserted the following article from the Morgantown Dominion News, published here in our own Second District. This article was written by Editor Bill Hart, and in that article he set down his own impression of Rep. Harley O. Staggers.

Here is the article, presented for the consideration and judgment of the voters of the Second District. It will speak for itself:

IT MAY INTEREST YOU

(By Bill Hart)

More than 2 years ago—it is now 3— I first saw him. He came into the office with that boyish grin, a lilting laugh in his voice and his step was quick and firm, but he had country about him for all his assurances and city clothes. We knew him then as a stanch worker in his own home county, a chap who had won his own way, been chosen by ballot to office and now he was saying: "I'm thinking about running for Congress. Are you people going to have any candidate for the nomination from Monongalia?" The negative answer was forthcoming and thus we knew that Harley Staggers was thinking about seeking the Democratic nomination for Congress from the Second Congressional District of which Monongalia is the pivotal area from several standpoints including population as well as having the only Democratic daily newspaper in all of the congressional district.

How well he would campaign we didn't know even after he emerged with a solid victory in the Democratic primary with several opponents all of whom made more noise and breathed a great deal more confidence than our friend who throughout the general as in the primary just kept working away, going to see people and telling them in his frank, open-face sincere way that if he went to Congress he would work as hard as he knew how to represent them as he knew they'd want him to represent 'em—looking after his district after playing whatever role fate might cast him in as the national affairs cycle rolls along the corridors of the halls of Congress. The people heard, they believed, and they sent him to Congress—and now, the time comes to see if he will be returned.

What has this Congressman—this Harley Staggers been doing since the people took him at his word and elected him to Congress? Probably no man has ever gone to Congress who has tried harder and few have worked harder. The day has not been too long, the night not too dark for Staggers not to be out pitchin' at his job of being a Congressman and no person has written him who didn't get an answer and a helping hand, if possible. The truth is that many people knowing how much he is capable of doing have imposed upon him trivial things that they should have performed themselves or better still never thought about. But of such is the life of a Congressman who is never in conference and whose door stands open, whose hand is outstretched and his heart is sympathetic to any worthy cause.

Thusly, we are now moving into a campaign to determine whether this man of the people is to remain in the Halls of Congress or to be turned out in favor of another gentleman whose backers have unlimited funds and will undoubtedly strive with might and main to send him to the seat now held by Staggers. Against this money and the admitted talents of the Republican nominee; against this great force, Staggers must depend almost entierly upon his record the past 2 years, his sincerity, his honesty, his frankness, his warm handclasp, his infectious grin, his ability to get around to a lot of places a lot of the time. He has a tough battle for talent and money combined are not easily beaten and the Republican nominee for Congress has both. Staggers has the talents, talents-plus, but he has no financial angel. He has no slush fund, he has nothing save his friends and all of them are poor.

In Monongalia County — where politics are meat and fiber for many throughout all of the days of the year—the Democratic workers are finding legions of their Republican friends who are saying to each other: "Staggers is a worker; he's our friend; he is always around when we need him; he's winning his fight for the synthetic liquid fuels laboratory—the greatest boost Morgantown and West Virginia University will have ever had if it comes about—we're for him and we're going to ask our friends to vote for him." Yes; more and more people every day are saying in words or effect the foregoing. They are saying these words with the best of feelings for the Republican nominee who is a fine gentleman with a good war record. Staggers' war record, too, stands out, but like his Republican opponent, he boasts not of it. Both did their wartime jobs and well.

Labor Day, Staggers comes here to once again be amongst some of his warmest friends for here in Monongalia where we usually accept people slowly and with reservations Staggers has come to number his friends by the hundreds and hundreds and he is the living example of the time-tested principle that any person who looks for friends and wishes to be a friend to people usually realizes that ambition. Staggers will be among friends her on Labor Day. Let us hope that on election day his friends will remember the great record he has compiled. Staggers must rely on his friends. He is poor, he has no great financial angel.

Radio And Television

By JOHN CROSBY

Stars Over Hollywood Without Stars

INTIMATIONS Of The Revolution: My three-year-old son, whose life span is almost exactly that of commercial television, deserted the set the other night right smack in the middle of "Howdy Doody" and demanded that someone read to him. Took quite a while to find a book.

John Crosby

On "Lights Out," the NBC-TV show, a couple of weeks ago, a disfigured playwright locked himself in a tenement of an office to write a play. He created a couple of characters, as playwrights do, but these characters, unlike those of, say, Robert E. Sherwood, instantly sprang into existence in his dirty little office. One was a blind girl. The playwright had deliberately created her that way so she couldn't see his maimed face. Love ensued. The other character was her brother, a reptilian individual, who was the playwright's self or Inner Self, or something like that. I forget how it ended.

The other day on "Stars Over Hollywood," a TV show filmed in Hollywood, another author set himself down in an old New England town to write a novel about the Puritans and was immediately confronted by a Puritan girl who had been dead for 289 years. She wanted her diary back. The author, as authors will, was shamefully pilfering ideas from it. He kissed her, her first kiss since 1668, and all sorts of complications arose.

I bring it all up now because the device of authors creating characters who suddenly loom up in front of the typewriter had better be given a rest for a while. Years ago, Wyllis Cooper did the same thing on the old "Lights Out," the radio version. On this one, a radio writer created a bunch of pirates who chased him all over the house. And, of course, Pirandello experimented with the same thing in "Six Characters in Search of an Author." (Nowadays they find the author.)

• — • — •

"Stars Over Hollywood" is the latest of the programs filmed especially for television in Hollywood and has all the conspicuous weaknesses of the others. In the first place, "Stars Over Hollywood" is a misnomer, like its counterpart, "Fireside Theater," a Bing Crosby enterprie, which also films TV shows on the West Coast, and has produced no genuine stars, in fact, no name actors of any importance of all. (Leading role in the one I mentioned was filled by Gloria Saunders, whoever she is.)

If you want to look for genuine stars on television, you'll have to look in New York. Regularly broadcasting from New York are Ed Wynn, Eddie Cantor, Fred Allen, Milton Berle, Jimmy Durante, Don Ameche, Danny Thomas, Frank Sinatra and many others. Irregularly broadcasting—that is, commuting East for television guest spots, or single performances as stars of individual shows—will be Bob Hope, Joan Caulfield, Luise Rainer and Veronica Lake. And that's a very incomplete list.

New York can command the services of the biggest screen and radio names, whereas Hollywood can't seem to command any at all. The marquee value of a name is not something I take very seriously, but in this case it illustrates a Hollywood attitude that is going to do it no good. All the TV productions emanating from Hollywood are slipshod. The actors seem insufficiently rehearsed; the quality of the writing is painfully bad; the casting seems to have been done out of card catalogues, and the direction, to put it mildly, is superficial.

The main idea seems to be to cut costs to the bone. And this is a very real problem in Hollywood, because film studio costs are high. But the attitude appears to be: "Get it in the can. You can sell a half-hour of film, no matter what's on it, to television." Well, that's true enough. But then, in the early days of the movies, you could sell almost any film footage to the movie theaters, too. The situation is changed. Hollywood is gambling with its own prestige by showing so openly its contempt of television and the television audience. The New York TV drama programs are selecting great books, fine plays, even fine movies—then casting, rehearsing and directing them as well as they know how. Hollywood could easily compete in every department. But so far, it hasn't shown the desire to do so.

Yesterday's Answer

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D I L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

J EPSI IVFKF CJBBCF UJKCQ LKF QFPB ZSK BFCCJPU BLKLYJYYCFQ—CFJUV.

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: WE HAVE LEARNED THE LESSON OF TIME, AND WE KNOW THREE THINGS OF WORTH—LE GALLIENNE.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear son and brother, Mr. W. A. Laurent, who died 2 years ago, September 26, 1948.
Memories and treasures none can steal;
Death leaves a heartache none can heal.
Some have forgotten you, now that you're gone,
But we will remember you, no matter how long.
Sadly missed by Father, Brothers and Sisters

Homemakers Will See Demonstration

LONACONING—The Lonaconing Homemakers club will meet Thursday at 7:30 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Nettie Stafford, Detmold.

Miss Khrista McKenzie, senior 4-H club member, will present a demonstration on "How to Wash a Sweater." Misses Patsy Murphy and Louise Dilfer, senior 4-H girls also, will present a demonstration on "Baby Sitting."

Miss Maude A. Bean, county home demonstration agent, will exhibit Theme Booth pictures of the Cumberland 1950 Fair and discuss judging of the prize winning booths.

Each member of the Lonaconing club will bring an apron to the club meeting and an apron sale will be held.

Mrs. James Hadley, chairman of Blue Cross, will collect dues of members of Blue Cross hospital insurance.

Brothers Assigned To Same Air Base

KEYSER, W. Va.—Keith B. Welch, Keyser, AL 3, U. S. Navy, who is stationed at Westover Field, Mas., writes home that he was very much surprised last week when his younger brother, Pfc. Adrian L. Welch, who has been stationed at St. John's, Newfoundland, was transferred to Westover Field, and they met for the first time in many months. Neither of them knew the other was at Westover Field.

On the same day of their meeting, they received information from another brother, Pfc. Douglas L. Welch, who is serving with the 38th Infantry regiment in Korea. He wrote that he is in good physical condition.

The three service members are sons of Mr. and Mrs. Harry H. Welch, 29 Armstrong Street, Keyser.

Miss Rohrbaugh Becomes Bride

SWANTON—Mr. and Mrs. Dolph O'Brien have announced the marriage of their son, Randall, to Jacqueline Rohrmaugh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rohrbaugh, Kitzmiller.

The marriage was performed August 30 by Rev. Trowbridge at the Methodist parsonage in Kitzmiller.

Mona Rohrbaugh, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid and Paul Barnard acted as best man. The bride wore a green suit with white accessories and a corsage of white rosebuds.

She graduated from Kitzmiller High School in 1949. The bridegroom graduated from Oakland High School in 1946. He is a veteran of World War II and is employed now by the State Roads Commission.

Mr. and Mrs. O'Brien spent a short honeymoon visiting in Akron, Detroit, Cleveland and Lake Erie. They will reside in Oakland.

Fire Company Called Twice Within Hour

LONACONING—Good Will Fire Company was summoned twice within an hour Sunday evening to extinguish a flue fire and an automobile wiring fire.

At 6 p. m. a flue fire was extinguished at the Alex Sloan residence, Jackson street, causing no damage.

At 6:50 p. m. William Shockey's auto wiring was ablaze in the vicinity of the VFW home, Hanekamp street, and the fire company was summoned to extinguish it.

Mrs. Davis Is Wed To Howard Smith

PARSONS, W. Va.—Announcement is being made of the marriage of Mrs. Aldeane Davis, daughter of Mrs. Laura Warden, Davis, to Howard Smith, Dante, Va. in St. John's Lutheran Church, Red House, Md., September 12, with Rev. R. W. Morrow, Jr., pastor of Davis Methodist Church officiating.

Mrs. Smith has been employed for several years in the Worden Hotel in Davis. Smith was formerly manager of the Buxton and Landstreet Stores in Pierce, Thomas, Coketon and Benbush and recently moved to Dante, Va.

Matter Of Fact

of girls in Osaka and Kobe. While the amtrac wallowed across the river, and lumbered inland, light heartedness ruled. Then the second assembly area was reached at last—a little, hill-encircled amphitheater of bean and millet patches, with another village where the people offered fruit and water. The men of Easy Company shouldered their heavy packs, grasped their well-oiled weapons, and set off to do the day's work.

Long, Hot March

The long file of men, which somehow you can never see without remembering the phrase "an army with banners," wound its way through rice paddies, across a threshing floor, along the main railroad tracks. The march was long. The sun was bright and hot. There was some small arms fire from the hills. But Easy Company did not pause until within sight of its final goal, the range of almost mountainous heights that rise from the suburbs of Seoul. There was a halt to reconnoiter and to lay mortar fire on the crests. Then, by late afternoon, Easy Company had taken its objectives, rounded up its quota of naked, scrawny prisoners, and was engaged in a brisk fight with pockets of the enemy nearer to the city.

The night was bleak. The radios failed, as our wretched communications equipment always seems to do when it is most needed. Even patrols could not precisely tell whether the company's forward platoon had come down off the highest ground to protect the rear. The North Korean forces unlimbered their artillery and occasionally a shrill incoming whistle and loud neighboring explosion would indicate that Easy Company's positions were being gone over. Again the cold was very bitter, and at first light the men of Easy Company seemed downright glad to clamber stiffly out of their well-dug foxholes.

There had been the usual infiltration, and there was the usual exchange of fire—a sharp, pre-breakfast rattle—with the infiltrators. On the highest hill crest, not long before occupied by the forward platoon, enemy movements were suddenly observed by gunner Sgt. Barnett. It was a hard decision, for this crest was the main objective, yet it was only almost, but not absolutely sure, that the forward platoon had obeyed its orders to move to the rear. After he had studied the crest through his glasses, Capt. Jaskilka's face suddenly hardened. The artillery, the mortars, the air were down upon the naked peak. The company's remaining two platoons rapidly moved out to re-occupy the lost ground.

It was a long, lung-testing climb. Just as the marines reached the peak, word came that the forward platoon, lost in the blackness of the night, had been found again on a hill beyond the one allotted to it.

The casualty reports of the previous twenty-four hours were made—of the company's few score, two men had been rather badly wounded and were being carried back by the stretcher bearers. The men of Easy Company, who all recalled the bloody fights of the southern beach head, wondered at the enemy's new softness. And a turning point in the Korean fighting was thus passed.

These Days

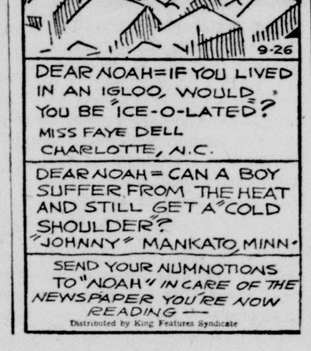
select the one they already know. An inspiring leadership, a stimulating personality, a fine figure of a man—as the remark is—would stir this nation.

Yet such men do not appear on the political horizon. What we are offered are either political wheelhorses whose pattern of life is to get into politics and stay there, or occasionally a successful business man who likes to feel important. There is no inspiration in such men.

Robert Mackness hit the nail on the head, when he asks the parties for "competent candidates and national platforms."



30 Poultry Men Tour Area Farms

Various phases of management featured a talk given by W. H. Rice, poultry specialist of the University of Maryland, during a tour and demonstration held yesterday for about 30 Allegany County poultry men.

The group, led by Ralph F. McHenry, county farm agent, visited the farms of Roy and James Twigg, Spring Gap; Paul Robinette, Murleys Branch Road; and Richard Stegmaier, Williams Road.

Rice commented that Stegmaier is one of seven or eight Allegany County poultry men who are conducting a business of producing eggs for hatching.

In his talk on management, Rice stressed the importance of starting out with healthy chicks, increasing number of hours of using electric light to encourage laying, and disinfection and disease control.

The group held a session yesterday afternoon at City Hall, when Francis Richardson, of the Farmers Feed and Supply Company, gave a demonstration on detecting and treating poultry diseases.

Richardson and Rice answered questions at a roundtable discussion.

Carriers Down As Market Stays Virtually Unchanged

NEW YORK, Sept. 25 (AP) — Conflicting trading pressures surged through the stock market today and left it virtually unchanged.

At the close the losses and gains spread out over a range of a little more than a dollar either way.

There was persistent selling in steels, motors, and aircraft. And rails were generally lower with the exception of two strong carriers.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks ended down .1 of a point at 82.5. Industrials were lower, rails higher and utilities unchanged.

The volume amounted to 2,010,000 shares as against 2,510,000 on Friday. Not a little of that was added during buying flurries touched off from time to time by individual issues.

Curtis Publishing Co. opened on a block of 10,000 shares up ⅝ at 9¼, was the third most active issue, and closed at 9⅛. United Corp., the most active, sold frequently including one block of 10,000 and one of 24,800 shares at 4, up ⅛, the price at which it closed.

Canadian Pacific, second most active, closed at a new high of 20⅜ up ⅞.

Rails were helped by Santa Fe up 2⅝ at 134⅞ and Nickel Plate up 1½ at 153½. Most of the other carriers were down fractionally including New York Central, Chesapeake and Ohio, and Union Pacific.

U. S. Steel lost ½ at 38¾, Chrysler off ¾ at 72, General Motors unchanged at 95⅜, Douglas off ⅞ at 83¾, International Telephone & Telegraph off ⅜ at 13⅞, and du Pont off 1¼ at 79½.

Higher were Goodrich up 1 at 112¼, Philco ¾ at 42⅞, American Tobacco 1¾ at 66⅜, Homestake Mining ¼ at 39¼, McIntyre Porcupine ¾ at 53, Paramount ⅜ at 21¾, Twentieth Century-Fox ⅝ at 25, and Loew's ⅜ at 17¾.

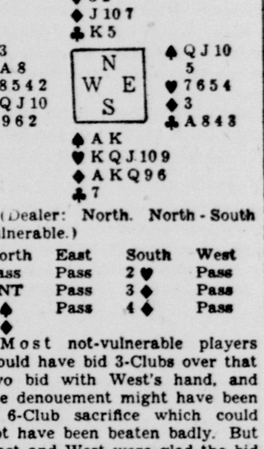
"The Authority on Authorities"

AN UNPARDONABLE SIN

ONE of the truly unpardonable sins committable by a declarer is getting himself unnecessarily into a position whereby his own last trump may be removed while a defender still retains one. It is especially heinous when that defender has a set-up suit in which he can run a number of tricks after everybody's trumps are gone. There are times when a declarer can't help having such a disaster assail him. But more often he has a chance to take recourse to some type of safety play to protect himself.



(Dealer: North. North - South vulnerable.)

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	2 ♥	Pass
2 NT	Pass	3 ♦	Pass
3 ♠	Pass	4 ♦	Pass

Most not-vulnerable players would have bid 3-Clubs over that two bid with West's hand, and the denouement might have been a 6-Club sacrifice which could not have been beaten badly. But East and West were glad the bid was not made, for South managed to defeat himself through a careless slip.

The club Q lead brought the K and A, and the 3 was ruffed by the diamond 6. The diamond 9 was led to the J and the 7 to the K. When East discarded on this, showing that West had two more trumps, South should have discontinued leads of the suit. But he didn't. He scored the A, then led the heart K. West won with the A and returned the club J. South had to use his last trump to win this while West still had the 8 left. Helpless, South now won his spade A, but West ruffed the K and then scored his last three clubs to put South down four tricks.

As soon as East discarded on the second trump lead, South should have switched to the heart K. West probably would have held up, but would have had to use his A then on the Q. If West now led a third-round club, it could have been ruffed in dummy, which still would have held a trump. South could have reached his own hand with the spade A, taken out trumps with his last two diamonds and had a solid hand remaining to make his contract.

How should South play for 4 Hearts after West leads the club K?

Police Arrest 2 Bookies, 2 On Liquor Sales

Officers Commended By Commissioner

Using two undercover men to secure the evidence, city police last night moved in on two race horse booking establishments and arrested two other persons on charges of illegally selling alcoholic beverages.

Facing the bookmaking charges are Richard Fox, arrested at the Score Board pool room, 20 North Mechanic Street, and Frankie Frantz, arrested at the Queen City Billiard Hall, 19 North Liberty Street. Each posted $100 bond.

Charged with selling whisky without a license are Clarence Minnicks, proprietor of Glenora Inn, Valley Road, and Dewey Shoemaker, 320 Pennsylvania Avenue, independent taxicab driver. Minnicks posted $300 bond and Shoemaker was given until 5 p. m. today to raise $200 bond.

Got Warrants Earlier

Lt. James E. Van and Detective E. M. Powell made the arrests between 7 and 8 p. m. after securing the warrants from Magistrate Frank A. Perdew earlier in the day.

A short time later Commissioner of Police John J. Long said "Lt. Van and the men responsible for this work are to be commended for alertness and enforcing the law as it is written."

In his statement Commissioner Long also revealed a temporary change of commanding officers in the local department and said Chief of Police R. Emmett Flynn "has been doing special communistic investigation."

The commissioner's statement in full said:

"Since last week Chief of Police R. Emmett Flynn has been doing special communistic investigation. Assistant Chief of Police B. Frank Gaffney moved to the daylight platoon with Lt. James E. Van supervising the 5 p. m. to 1 a. m. platoon, and Lt. R. R. Johnston and Lt. Edwin R. Lilya supervising the 1 to 9 a. m. platoon. Lt. Van and the men responsible for this work are to be commended for alertness and enforcing the law as it is written." enforcing the law as it is written."

Lt. Van declined to name the undercover men who secured the evidence but said their work "is praiseworthy and without it we could not have made these arrests."

Hearings Set October 3

The warrants were issued to Van and Powell. The undercover men's names did not appear.

Shoemaker, police said, was selling the whisky from his cab throughout the business district of Cumberland. Lt. Van explained Minnicks posted a $300 bond because "it is his second offense."

The men were taken to police headquarters but with the exception of Shoemaker were released after posting bond. He was given a time extention. Hearings for the quartet were set for October 3 at 9 a. m.

Firemen Plan Training Course

Plans for a fire fighting training course in Western Maryland are underway by the Allegany-Garrett Fire Chiefs Association.

The five-night course will include classes on ladder and hose evolutions, use of gas masks, overhaul duties, first aid and the use of fire extinguishers.

The committee planning the course includes H. A. Lasher, chairman; Joseph Wenrich, Cresaptown, and Oklen Geiger, Corriganville.

The University of Maryland's Extension Service will be asked to assist in the program.

The course is planned to take the place of the Short Course for firemen held each year at College Park.

Since it will be offered in a central location, officials hope a large percentage of the 1,000 volunteer firemen of Western Maryland can attend the refresher course.

Playground Group Lists Nominees

The nominating committee for the Cumberland Playground Association met last night at the home of Mrs. John Turley, 122 Springdale Street, and selected a slate of nominees for the several elective offices.

The committee report will be presented at the next regular meeting of the association October 5 at 7:30 p. m. in the City Hall. The election and installation of officers is scheduled for the same night.

The committee includes Lawrence L. Grim, chairman, Mrs. R. C. Diehl, Mrs. R. J. Tayloe, Mrs. Turley and F. Allan Weatherholt.

Weather

It was a grand fall day after the weird atmospheric conditions Sunday. Clear skies helped everyone see the memorable eclipse of the moon last night. Yesterday's official high was 57 with a low of 39. The thermometer stood at 44 at 9 p. m. The weatherman promises fair and warmer today.

Maryland Dentists Meet Here

Surveys Made For Pumping Station Here

Fire Alarm Boxes To Be Installed

Surveys have been completed for the proposed pumping station in the vicinity of Holland Street and Piedmont Avenue, Street Commissioner Lucile W. Roeder reported last night to the Mayor and Council.

Mrs. Roeder said a topographic map showing areas of "unsatisfactory pressure and service" have been submitted to George M. Hitchcock, superintendent of the city water plant.

Pressure surveys will be made in critical sections, she added.

With regard to the Bedford Road sewage project, Mrs. Roeder said maps have been prepared and the proper type of pumping station discussed.

Work of cleaning the Mill Race sewer has started, Mrs. Roeder said, adding that the interceptor sewer on the West Side and other sewers should be cleaned.

She asked enforcement of the city ordinance requiring oiling or paving of parking and used car lots to keep dirt from blowing on the streets.

Boxes Planned

Police and Fire Commissioner John J. Long said the Fire Department plans to install alarm boxes at Fort Hill and Allegany High Schools and on Virginia Avenue below the railroad. The Fire Department's inspection division is being set up, and the telephone system for reporting fires will be revised, he added.

Former City Attorney Thomas B. Finan requested consideration by the council of zoning changes on Williams Street and on Lots 12-16, Block 17, Johnson Heights Addition, at Hill Top Drive and Louisiana Avenue.

Both places remained residential when the council approved numerous changes to the zoning ordinance last August to create new business zones. Finan asked reconsideration and recalled the Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission had recommended that the two areas be changed to business classifications.

Council voted last night to donate $9,000 to the Community Chest campaign, the same amount as last year.

Randolph Millholland, Sr., was reappointed a member of the Smoke Control Advisory and Appeals Board for a three-year term, retroactive to June 27. Expiration dates for the terms of the other members, Charles Z. Heskett and John R. Connelly, were set at June 27, 1952, and June 27, 1951, respectively.

Refund of $4.68 for overpayment on water rent was ordered paid to Forest B. Corley, 221½ Oak Street.

Payroll Approved

The payroll for the second period in September was approved.

On the recommendation of Chief of Police R. Emmett Flynn, the council approved the request of City Cab Service for extension telephones to be located at Cresap Street and Virginia Avenue; Fifth Street at York; Nu-Acme Market on Centre Street; Decatur Street; and Winton Place and Paca Street.

The company's request for a telephone at Fayette Street near Chase was rejected because of a complaint from a resident.

Filed was a letter from Mountain City Council No. 11, Junior Order United American Mechanics, Frost-

GOP CHAIRMAN—Earl E. Manges, Cumberland attorney, last night was elected chairman of the Republican State Central Committee for Allegany County at the organization meeting of the body elected in last Monday's primary. Other officers elected are Edgar M. Lewis, vice chairman; James Park, secretary-treasurer, and Victor M. Hebb, assistant to the treasurer. The committee followed its past procedure of keeping the seven-man elected committee intact so that geographic allocations for each man would not be disturbed. The new chairman was selected by the committee and makes an eight-man organization. Edgar M. Lewis, retiring chairman, presided for the nominations.

Terrorism Is Charged By Reds

BALTIMORE, Sept. 25 (AP)—The heads of Maryland's communist party said today the resignations of two Cumberland members came because of the "terrorism being exercised over America."

Philip Frankfeld, chairman, and George A. Meyers, labor secretary of the party in Maryland and the District of Columbia, made the statement after the resignations of William B. Coleman and Arthur M. Schusterman.

The two men who have been convicted under Cumberland's own ordinance requiring communists to register, announced last night they were quitting the party. They added that they intended to cease "all political activities of any kind."

Frankfeld and Meyers said that the resignations are "a sad commentary on the times we live in." They added:

"Courageous men have divorced themselves from their beliefs because of the terrorism being exercised over America by the 1950 version of the Spanish Inquisition (the Anti-Communist Bill passed by Congress Saturday) and Hitler's Gestapo.'

The communist officials said the party intends to "intensify its struggle, together with all peace-loving, democratic-minded Americans to prevent fascism from being victorious in our country and prevent World War III."

Bryon To Head Beall's Campaign

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25 (AP) — Rep. Beall (R-Md) announced today Joseph W. Bryon, Hagerstown, Md., will head his re-election campaign committee.

Committee vice chairman will be Charles F. Wagaman, of Hagerstown. Arthur J. Hilland, of Bethesda, Md., will serve as treasurer.

Organizations Asked To Donate To Chest Campaign

Civic clubs, fraternal organizations and labor unions are being asked to make contributions from their treasuries to the 1950 Red Feather Chest campaign, according to Frederic W. Eiler, general chairman of the appeal.

Last year 31 organizations made contributions totaling nearly $1,500 in amounts which ranged from five dollars to five hundred dollars. Previously the contributions from these groups has amounted to as much as $5,000.

Eiler pointed out that the gifts made from the treasuries of the organizations was a material endorsement of the Chest and was not considered as taking the place of the individual's contribution.

"All organizations have been formed to perpetuate some phase of individual or group betterment and it is natural that the organization itself wishes to give material expression to the broad community work that is being done through the agencies of the Chest," Eiler stated.

Letters have been sent to the heads of the various groups in the city, but Eiler pointed out that there were doubtless many groups who would not have an individual letter because of the magnitude of the task involved. He emphasized that members of such groups could bring the Chest subscription before the next meeting to secure action.

Leaders Enlisted

Meanwhile, George M. Martin, chairman of the Classified Section, reported that all but six of the 56 regiment leaders are now enlisted

State Dentists Vote Support Of Vivisection

Receive Report On Military Status

A motion supporting vivisection—use of animals in medical laboratories—was adopted yesterday by the Maryland Dental Association as it opened its 27th semi-annual meeting here.

The association also received a report on the present military status of Maryland dentists and then went on record "to cooperate with any effort made toward national defense."

The motion on vivisection specifically supports a proposed referendum presented by Dean Alan Chesney of Johns Hopkins University Medical School. It would permit the continued use of animals in medical experiments.

A current movement is afoot in Baltimore by a "Citizens Committee for the Dog Rererendum" and the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals to have the vivisection practice prohibited by law.

The military status report informed the 150-odd members attending the two-day meeting that questionnaires have been mailed to every registered dentist in Maryland to determine his military standing.

Further action on the report will be taken, members said, when the government clearly defines its intentions to call up for service numerous doctors, dentists and allied specialist male personnel.

Earlier this month draft board officials said a special registration will be held October 16 to register all doctors, dentists and veterinarians.

The military report was presented to the membership by Dr. Harry B. McCarthy, chairman of the Military Affairs Committee of the state dental association.

Also approved at yesterday's business session was a motion to do "everything in our power to support recognition" of National Children's Health Day. Observance of that movement has been set for February 5, 1951, by the national medical organizations.

Earlier in the day the membership gathered at the Cumberland Country Club to hear papers by Dr. J. Ben Robinson, dean of Baltimore College of Dental Surgery, Dental School, University of Maryland, and Dr. E. T. Lewis of Pittsburgh.

Dr. Robinson's paper dealt with "The Early History of Dentistry in Maryland and Dr. Lewis' paper dealth with "Prosthetics for the General Practitioner."

Last night attending members and their wives were the guests of the Allegany-Garrett County Dental Society at a dinner and dance at the Country Club.

Today's program includes a golf tournament and bridge contest with luncheon scheduled for 12:30 p. m.

Legion To Meet

Knobley Mountain Post No. 136, American Legion, Ridgeley, announced the regular executive committee meeting will be held tonight at 8 o'clock. All officers are urged to attend.

WINS SCHOLARSHIP—C. James Williams (above), son of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Robinson, 519 Linden Street, has been awarded a four-year scholarship to Western Maryland College by State Senator Robert B. Kimble. Williams is a graduate of Allegany High School, class of 1950, and was a member of the art club, Spanish club, and Alpha Delta Kappa. He is also a member of Emmanuel Episcopal Church and held office in the local chapter of the Order of DeMolay.

$11,000 Flood Payments Are Voted By City

Bids On Removing Buildings Opened

Payments totaling over $11,000 were authorized last night by the Mayor and Council for property rights in connection with the Cumberland flood control project.

Largest was $9,750 to Irvin M. and Mabel W. Zimmerman for an option on several lots needed in the project.

Payments to secure permanent easements were ordered to Francis W. and Helen W. Drumm, $141; Edward C. Reed, $75; Lucy Z. Dreyer Wagner and Herbert S. Wagner, $75; John W. and Louise M. Knowlton, $500; William I. and Dorothy Poling, $70.10; George V. and Mildred A. Fletchinger, $59; and the Misses Julia W., Ella and Rose Marie Jackson, $71.60.

Payments for both temporary and permanent easements were ordered to Mrs. Tabitha Ryan and Sterling W. Ryan, $675; Frank A. and M. Virginia Perdew, $200; and Martin H. and Bertha C. Hager, $162.50.

Bids Opened

The council opened three separate sets of bids last night for purchase and removal of three buildings in connection with the flood project.

Al were referred to Albert S. Paye, liaison engineer, with power to act.

Three offers were received for purchase and removal of a large two-story brick garage at 206 Riverview Place. They were honored on the recommendation of City Attorney W. Earle Cobey in order to expedite flood work, although each of the bids was received after the deadline yesterday noon.

Charles Paul Roeder offered $1,290; Baughman Contracting Company, $2,150, and Cement Products Company, $1,000.

Last week the bid of John A. Cupler, II, of $500 for the work was rejected as being insufficient, and bids were readvertised.

Two offers were received for purchase and removal of a two-story frame double house at 106-108 Paca Street, Branson J. Nelson, Route 3, offered $275 and William E. Stinnett, 113 West Elder Street, offered $100.

Three bids were opened for purchase of removal of a two-story frame double house at 110-112 Paca Street. Leo C. Willer, 1602 Ford Avenue, bid $338; Stinnett offered $100 and Nelson bid $275.

The St. George Motor Company's offer of $1,060 to supply one tudor sedan for the Health Department was accepted.

Offer Referred

Referred to Finance Commissioner Wiliam H. Buchholtz with power to act was a bid of $501 by Russell D. Beery to purchase Lots 78, 79 and 80, Montreal Avenue. Beery asked a 60-day option.

Mrs. Claude T. Jett Dies At Her Home

Mrs. Mildred C. Jett, 63, wife of Claude T. Jett, died last night at 8:30 o'clock at her home, 112 Park Heights, after an illness of several years.

A native of Cumberland, she was a daughter of the late Joseph L. and Mary A. Hammersmith Sell.

Active in club work, she was a member of the LaVale Homemakers, a past president of the Allegany County Council of Homemakers and a member of the Memorial Hospital Auxiliary.

She was a member of St. Patrick's Church.

Surviving are her husband, three sons, John B. Jett, this city, and Claude T. Jett, Jr., and J. Elliott Jett, both of Baltimore; one sister, Mrs. W. Easter Ward, Los Angeles, Cal.; a brother, Leo A. Sell, Prineville, Ore., and two grandchildren, Judith Ann and J. Elliott Jett, Jr., Baltimore.

The body is at the Stein Funeral Home.

News In Brief

"The Child City," a movie about Mooseheart, Ill., the home for orphans conducted by the Moose lodges of the United States, will be shown tonight and Wednesday at 7 o'clock at the home of Cumberland Lodge No. 271, Loyal Order of Moose. Tonight's showing is for children and tomorrow's for adults. There will be no admission charge.

The Women's Guild of St. Mark's Reformed Church has advanced its meeting to 7:30 tomorrow in the church school room.

A. F. Eggleston Will Retire As Treasurer Of Kelly Co.

Alan F. Eggleston, treasurer of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company, will retire, effective October 1, after serving as head of Kelly's financial and legal departments for more than 17 years.

Mr. Eggleston has had a long and varied career during which he participated in the reorganization of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company, Dodge Bros., and the Fisk Rubber Company, in addition to serving as secretary and treasurer of Kelly since 1933.

Originally a member of the Armin Schlesinger group of financiers in Wilwaukee, Eggleston participated in the management group supplied by the Schlesinger interests and Dillon Reed Company to the various corporations for which the Dillon Reed group participated in extensive refinancing operations during the 20's.

Mr. Eggleston moved to Cumberland in 1935 when the Kelly executive offices were transferred here from New York and has lived since then at 829 Braddock Road. Since the death of Mrs. Leora Eggleston several years ago, his younger daughter, Mrs. Joseph Watkins, and her husband resided with him at the Braddock Road home. Mrs. Watkins, with her two young children, recently moved to Norfolk, Va., where her husband is employed.

An active member of Emmanuel Episcopal Church, Mr. Eggleston also takes an active interest in activities of the Cumberland Rotary Club and the Diesel Club.

So far, Mr. Eggleston has not announced his plans for the future, although it is expected he will maintain his residence in Cumberland. He also expects to spend some time with his daughters, Mrs. Watkins and her sister, Mrs. Fred Canfield, Hohokus, N. J. He also expects to spend considerable time in Florida where he has numerous friends and where he looks forward to some good fishing.

Another change in Kelly personnel of considerable local interest is the transfer of Jack Marley, manager of the Kelly Retail Service Store on South Mechanic Street, to Greensboro, N. C.

Marley will leave October 1 to take over management of the Greensboro district with sales supervision over territories in Virginia and North Carolina, one of Kelly's most productive sales areas.

Management of the Kelly retail store will be taken over by Woodward Pealer who has been active as assistant manager under Marley.

ALAN F. EGGLESTON

Anti-Dirt Group Meets Tonight

Residents of West Side will meet tonight at 7:30 o'clock in the West Side School auditorium, Paca Street, to elect officers and adopt a constitution and by-laws for their new smoke control and dirt elimination organization.

According to James Alfred Avirett, temporary chairman, a nominating committee headed by F. Allan Weatherholt will submit a list of candidates for nine elective offices, including president, two vice presidents, a secretary, a treasurer and four executive committeemen.

F. Brooke Whiting, chairman of the committee on the constitution and by-laws, will make a report and outline the plans and purpose of the new organization.

Plagued by fly ash, smoke and dirt, the citizens of the West Side are banding together to take concerted action to bring about the enforcement of the present city smoke ordinance, and, if it is found inadequate, to have it revised or amended, Avirett said.

Many of those interested in the new movement have proposed legal action and chemical tests and analysis to determine what can be done, Avirett declared.

The meeting tonight is open to all residents of the West Side interested in a cleaner city, Avirett declared.

Lay Health Council To Hear Dr. Ballin

Dr. R. W. Ballin will speak on "Tuberculosis" at the first fall meeting of the Allegany County Public Health Lay Council, to be held Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. at the Health Department office in the Public Safety Building.

Dr. Ballin conducts chest clinics here and is a member of the Allegany County Tuberculosis Association.

Mrs. Irving Millenson, chairman, said officers will be elected for the coming year.

Conservation To Be Stressed In Land Week Here

Six County Farms Plan Open House

Conservation will be a major theme of the local observance of Maryland Land Use and Fire Prevention Week, to be held October 8 through 14.

As one feature of the observance, soil conservation demonstrations will be held at six county farms, Monday, October 9.

This was reported yesterday by George M. Hitchcock, general chairman.

Each of the farms will hold open house on that day and the general public is invited.

A representative of one of the agencies serving farmers will be on hand to discuss conservation practices and to answer questions.

List of the farms holding open house will be announced later.

Hitchcock said mimeographed booklets are being prepared for distribution on that day, listing each of the services aiding farmers, where their offices are located and how they function.

The services, making up the U. S. Department of Agriculture Council in the county, are as follows:

Soil conservation, county agent and home demonstration agent, Production Marketing Administration, Forestry Service, Wildlife Commission, Veterans Administration farm training course, National Farm Loan Association, and Farmers Home Administration.

In addition, conservation will be the theme at all county Homemakers meetings in October, according to Miss Maude A. Bean, county home demonstration agent.

Importance of conserving soil, water, forests and wildlife will be studied, with the help of a booklet prepared by the Country Women's Council in co-operation with the Department of Agriculture.

Approximately 60 persons, representing all committees making plans for the October observance, will hold a general meeting Wednesday night at 8 o'clock at City Hall auditorium.

The committees include volunteer fire companies, agriculture group, city police and firemen, Midway group, Cumberland Ministerial Association and the parade and school groups.

Hitchcock explained that the fire and land conservation observances are being combined this year because the farmer's greatest hazard, next to soil erosion, is fire.

Mahoney's Recount Will Begin Today

At the request of George P. Mahoney, Garrett County's Board of Election Supervisors will begin this morning at 9 o'clock the recounting of gubernatorial ballots cast in the September 18 Democratic Primary election. A. Leo Helbig, chairman of the board, said last night.

Mahoney lost the county's four convention votes to Governor William Preston Lane, Jr., by 53 popular votes. Mahoney polled 805 while Lane received 858. The recount is an attempt by Mahoney to overcome the slim margin and thus gain the convention votes.

Commission For Youth Plans To Hear Juvenile Delegates

The Allegany County Commission for Youth last night received confidential reports to be presented to the state organization and made plans for the appearance of seven youthful delegates to attend its next meeting.

Homer S. Higgins, chairman of the county organization, which aims at assisting children in solving their juvenile problems, said Mrs. T. M. Andrews gave a brief report on a meeting of youths at Towson last week.

The meeting was attended by seven delegates from Allegany County. They are the same delegates who will attend the next local meeting to elaborate on the discussions undertaken at the Towson meeting. They are:

Betty Ross, Bruce High School, who attended a discussion on "Children in Trouble;" Marian Hadley, Central High, "Children in Their Own and Foster Families' homes."

Ruth Jacobs, Beall High, "Health of Children and Youth;" Alma Frenzel, Barton High, "Field of Education;" Carrol Conrad, Allegany High, "Recreation for Children and Youth," and Carolyn Hackett, Carver High, "Children Away from their Own Homes in Institutional Care."

The youths will speak on the same problems when they appear before the county commission. A date for that meeting has not yet been set.

Higgins said information contained in the reports that will go to the state organization will not be released until after it has been studied by the larger organization.

Council Splits Over Raises For Employes

Five Granted; Post, Tederick Object

Salary increases for five city employes were voted last night by the Mayor and Council over the opposition of Mayor Thomas S. Post and Water Commissioner George H. Tederick.

Both said they were against increasing salaries unless all employes would benefit.

Raises of $10 were voted for the four sergeants in the Police Department, John Newhouse, Frank A. Shober, C. C. Roby and Curtis MacA. Kime, bringing their salaries to $235 monthly.

Those increases are effective immediately.

Mayor Objects

When Street Commissioner Lucile W. Roeder's order to that effect was introduced, Mayor Post said:

"I can't see my way clear to raise the salaries of some employes and not all."

Tederick commented that city employes recently asked for a raise because of higher living costs, and that they turned down the city's offer as being insufficient.

Tederick added that although he believed Miss Shoemaker was worthy and due for an increase, "I don't see how the Mayor and Council can increase the salary of one employe when none of the employes have gotten an increase."

"All city employes should be given consideration and not pull one out here and there," Tederick commented.

Mrs. Roeder stated that Miss Shoemaker's increase was "many years overdue." She recalled the proposed job analysis discussed by the Mayor and Council recently, and said:

"We should not penalize one person who has worked here for 18 years by waiting until department heads get around to the job analysis."

Praising the secretary for her faithful service and responsibility, Mrs. Roeder said money was available in the department's budget for the increase.

Police and Fire Commissioner John J. Long commented that "Mrs. Roeder is closer to the situation than the others."

Tederick replied that "as councilmen we have all departments under our jurisdiction."

Long asked Tederick whether he had studied the position in question, and Tederick said he had not.

"Then why are you opposing it?" Long asked.

Tederick repeated his former statement regarding raises for all employes.

The matter then went to a vote and passed, 3 to 2.

Bid Accepted

In other action, the council accepted the bid of Alex J. Schute, 133 Polk Street, to furnish and install roll roofing for the city warehouse at Valley Street. The bid was $1,472.65.

All other bids on both roll and built-up roofing were rejected.

Mrs. Roeder said Schute's bid was the lowest of any submitted by local firms.

The street commissioner was authorized to ask for bids on resurfacing with blacktop the following streets:

Sharing Urged In Succot Talk

Sharing the blessings of life was urged last night by Dr. Jossef Kratzenstein in a Succot sermon before Beth Jacob Congregation here.

Succot, he said, is the season of ingathering, the harvest festival, when the fruits of the fields are brought into the home.

It brings a lesson of humility, he added, since then is the time to obey the Biblical commandment, "Leave your comfortable home and construct for yourself a frail, insecure tent" where you will dwell for seven days and experience the insecure plight of your less fortunate brothers.

Throughout the year, he declared, we live in a state of luxury but once a year we go, at least spiritually, to the level of the booths where our forefathers lived during the days in the wilderness.

His Succot prayer was that the world may be built upon the firm foundation of cooperation, peace and social responsibility.

Birth Announcements

Memorial Hospital announced the following births yesterday:

Mr. and Mrs. Armand Beeman, Slabtown Road, Mt. Savage, a son.

Mr. and Mrs. George Dever, 17 Offutt Street, a daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. Asbury Hoopengartner, Route 1, Hancock, announce the birth of a daughter Sunday at Morgan County War Memorial Hospital, Berkeley Springs, W. Va.

Malik Favors U. S.-Soviet Peace Talks

State Department Labels Statement As Propaganda

NEW YORK, Sept. 25 (AP)—Jacob A. Malik declared today he favors a meeting of top leaders of the United States and the Soviet Union to negotiate for peace. He said also his government would pledge not to be the first to use the atomic bomb.

Several hours later the U. S. State Department declared Malik's statements were only propaganda which "smacks of the Stockholm peace petition." Press Officer Lincoln White made the brusque statement to Washington reporters after consultations between the State Department and the American delegation to the United Nations, headed by Secretary of State Acheson.

Added White: "We have had enough of words. What is needed now is action to give practical effort to these expressions of good intention."

Malik's statement aroused speculation among United Nations delegates. Western delegates wondered whether this was part of a new Soviet "peace offensive" seeking to convince the world that the Russians are more inclined to peace than the United States.

Malik Sees Md. Group

The Russian deputy foreign minister made his views known to a delegation of the Maryland Committee for Peace. This organization has been active in distributing a "peace ballot" asking signers whether they favor outlawing of atomic weapons and a U. S.-Russian meeting to negotiate differences. Dr. Ruth Bleier, president of the committee, said recently it was merely coincidence that this ballot was distributed at the same time as the "Stockholm Peace Appeal," denounced as a fraud by many anti-communists in the United States. The Stockholm appeal calls mainly for an outlawing of atomic weapons.

The Maryland committee arranged some time ago to see Malik. Its questions apparently were submitted in advance, for Malik had his answers ready. The Russians are always careful about answering questions, and never do so until the answers have been cleared and approved.

Reporters were not present when Malik met the Maryland group at the Russian delegation's offices in Park Avenue. The statement of his views was made public by a Russian spokesman, who telephoned the Associated Press.

"Yes" To Four Questions

The spokesman said Malik had answered "yes" to each of the following questions from the Maryland group.

"1. Will your government pledge that it will not be the first to use the atomic bomb?

"2. Do you favor general disarmament and the outlawing of atomic weapons by all nations under a strict system of control and inspection administered through the United Nations?

"3. Do you favor (or will you agree to) a meeting between the top leaders of the United States and the Soviet Union to negotiate their differences to help achieve full peace?

"4. Do you favor the free interchange of ideas and information between the peoples of the two countries in order to achieve the understanding that is necessary to an enduring peace?"

Bevin Endorses U. S. Proposals To Bolster U.N.

Halt Korea Drive At 38th, Yugos Say

NEW YORK, Sept. 25 (AP)—Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin of Britain today endorsed the aim of American proposals for strengthening the U. N. against aggression. He also told the Russians that Britons are ready to fight to the end for their liberties.

Bevin was the first of the western big power delegates to stamp general approval on the ideas of Secretary of State Dean Acheson for bolstering the U. N. He said he is in full agreement with Acheson's objectives but indicated his delegation might make what Bevin called constructive criticisms at the proper time.

Nationalist China, the Philippines, Bolivia and Turkey also expressed support of the American proposals, which call for a U. N. military force, a roving peace patrol and means for convening the General Assembly in 24 hours if the Security Council cannot act.

Before the British diplomat spoke Foreign Minister Edvard Kardelj of Yugoslavia asked for the temporary re-establishment of the 38th parallel as the demarkation line in Korea.

Members of Kardelj's delegation explained that he wants the fighting to stop and the Koreans to decide about their unification.

Two Resolutions Offered

The Yugoslav delegate introduced two resolutions. One would set up a permanent mediation commission of small powers. The other requires a nation involved in armed conflict to issue a cease-fire within 24 hours and withdraw its armed forces from disputed territory. Failure to do so automatically would brand the country as an aggressor.

Some delegates have commented that the United Nations forces must go north of the 38th parallel and said the Assembly must approve that action. At present, the United Nations forces have authority from the Security Council to drive the communist North Koreans back as far as the 38th parallel.

Hike In Draft Age Opposed By Hershey

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25 (INS)—Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey declared today that veterans and men with dependents will have to be drafted to meet President Truman's call for a three-million-man armed force unless the age limit is raised above 25.

The draft director announced his opposition to raising the present 25-year-old limit because industrial production and scientific development would be crippled and also because the older men "are not as good physically."

22 Missing As Troop Plane Crashes Into Sea Off Japan

One Body Found; 28 Are Rescued

TOKYO, Tuesday, Sept. 26 (AP)—A C-54 troop transport with 51 persons aboard plunged into the sea on takeoff from a Southern Japan air base today. One body has been recovered and 22 persons are missing.

Twenty-eight persons were rescued. Some were hurt critically.

Gen. MacArthur's headquarters announced the plane crashed about half a mile away from the air base runway.

The plane carried 43 passengers and a crew of eight. Included in the crew were two nurses and two medical technicians.

Twenty-five passengers and three crew members, including one nurse, were among the survivors.

The survivors got into life rafts and were picked up by Japanese fishing boats.

All of the survivors were rushed to a hospital at the air base and later were moved to a hospital in a large city in Southern Japan.

The cause of the accident will be investigated by a board of U. S. Air Force officers.

Wherry Defends Taft, Criticizes Acheson

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Sept. 25 (AP)—Sen. Wherry (R-Neb) said tonight if a Republican Congress is elected Secretary of State Acheson "will go."

In a speech prepared for a Republican rally here, the Senate GOP floor leader defended the record of Sen. Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio) and called for the ouster of W. Averell Harriman, President Truman's international adviser.

Ex-Chicago Police Captain Shot To Death

Development Of Vaccine Against Mumps Announced

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25 (AP) — Developments of commercial vaccine against mumps was announced today.

The announcement was made in Washington by the National Institutes of Health (NIH) where research leading to the development was first done; and in Pearl River, N. Y., by Lederle Laboratories which produced the vaccine for commercial distribution.

Dr. Karl Habel of NIH said the commercial product, like its laboratory predecessor, was made from virus grown in hatching hen's eggs and then rendered incapable of producing active infection.

He said that limited human trials showed that his own laboratory vaccine, while "not 100 per cent protective," appears to give a three-fold reduction of mumps cases among vaccinated people, as compared with those not vaccinated.

The commercial product was developed by Dr. Victor Cabasso of the Lederle Laboratories.

The Lederle announcement said its "effective" vaccine is "designed primarily for the immunization (protection) of large groups of children or adults, housed together in close quarters, as in schools, camps, institutions or military installations, where a mass outbreak of mumps would cause serious inconvenience."

Squirrel Attacks Preacher In Pulpit

MONTEREY, Va., Sept. 25 (AP) — The guest preacher reached the climax of his sermon.

All eyes were on the Rev. L. S. Shires, at the Victory Adventist Church yesterday, when there was a sudden patter up the aisle.

It was a red fox squirrel. He leaped to the pulpit, stood a moment on the Bible and then pounced on the minister's head.

A wild scramble ended in a draw. The squirrel fell off and retired. But the services ended abruptly while members of the congregation administered first aid to Mr. Shires.

Playwright's Son Commits Suicide

WOODSTOCK, N. Y., Sept. 25 (AP) —Eugene O'Neill, Jr., 40, son of the noted playwright, killed himself today by slashing a wrist. Ruth Lander, an artists' agent, said she had broken off an engagement with him last Saturday.

Friends reported he had been despondent since then.

"Everyone knows about my engagement being broken," Miss Lander said after learning of the suicide. "I'm very sorry, very unhappy and broken up about the whole thing."

Ulster County Coroner Earnest O. Kelly said O'Neill slashed his right wrist with a razor while in the bathtub at his home and "staggered downstairs while he was bleeding to death."

Kelly, listing the case as suicide, said O'Neill also had cut his leg with the razor but it was the wrist wound which caused his death.

His body was discovered by a neighbor, Mrs. Frank Meyer.

Many artists and writers reside in Woodstock and nearby.

School Aid Measure Signed By Truman

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25 (AP)—President Truman has signed a bill authorizing federal aid in the construction of school facilities in areas where an influx of government workers has swelled school enrollments.

A companion bill, awaiting presidential action, would authorize federal aid in maintaining and operating schools in such districts.

Both bills resulted from skyrocketing school costs and shortage of space for pupils in areas which have had sudden population growths due to the migration of government and military families. School districts surrounding Army posts especially asked for this aid.

'Bra Bandits' May Escape Prosecution

$100,000 Stolen From Phone Firm

MIAMI, Fla., Sept. 25 (AP)—Police today reported a series of systematic thefts from the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Co., counting room that totaled $100,000 in the past two years.

Fourteen persons, including eight women, their husbands and boy friends, were rounded up after West Miami Safety Director I. Ray Mills reported finding three suitcases stuffed with coins and currency totaling nearly $5,000 at the home of one of the telephone company employes.

$10,000 Recovered

Mills, who first broke the case yesterday, said thus far nearly $10,000 in coins, currency and negotiable bonds have been recovered.

The eight women were released to the custody of their attorneys following a habeas corpus hearing before Dade County Circuit Judge George E. Holt. A second hearing is scheduled for tomorrow.

Assistant Dade County Solicitor Michael F. Zarowny said all the thefts were from the counting room where a torrent of silver came each day from pay station phones.

He said the girls admitted stuffing rolls of quarters in their brassieres before putting the money in automatic counting machines.

No Crime Established

Zarowny indicated those involved may escape prosecution because he said, "the only thing we've got is a confession."

"We can't introduce that until we establish a crime and we can't establish a crime," he added. "There is no way to tell if the money was taken from the boxes, nor how much.

"The phone company is not in position to say if it lost anything. On advice of counsel, phone company officials won't sign affidavits to make a complaint to the detective bureau," Zarowny said.

"We have no date when the offense was committed, who got the money nor how much was taken," he added.

Paroled Ex-Leader Of Klan Disappears

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 25 (AP)—David Curtis Stephenson, 56-year-old paroled former grand dragon of the Indiana Ku Klux Klan, has disappeared from a Carbondale, Ill., rooming house.

Gov. Henry F. Schricker announced today that Stephenson, freed six months ago from Indiana State Prison after serving nearly 25 years for the murder of Miss Madge Oberholtzer, has been missing since Aug. 30.

An Illinois parole official said Stephenson disappeared while his parole agent and his sponsor were on vacation. This official added the former Klan leader left a note saying that he would return in a week.

A general police alarm has been broadcast for the balding, pudgy one-time political power who boasted "I am the law" in Indiana.

Top U. S. Reds Freed Pending Final Decision

Jurist Avoids Risk Of Embarrassment

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25 (AP)—Justice Jackson of the Supreme Court today allowed freedom on bond, pending an appeal, for 10 of the 11 U. S. communist leaders convicted of conspiracy to advocate forceable overthrow of the government.

Jackson's stay of sentence, as it is technically called, permits the convicted leaders to remain free until final Supreme Court action on a formal appeal to be filed later.

The appeal will ask the high tribunal to overturn the conviction of the red officials by a New York jury.

Jackson issued an eight-page formal opinion in explaining his action.

All Equal Under Law

In it he declared there would be a "disastrous effect on the reputation of American justice if I should now send these men to jail and the full court later decides that their conviction is invalid."

Jackson added:

"The right of every American to equal treatment before the law is wrapped up in the same constitutional bundle with those of these communists. If in anger or disgust with these defendants we throw out the bundle, we also cast aside protection for the liberties of more worthy critics who may be in opposition to the government of some future day."

The U. S. Circuit Court in New York City on August 28 ordered the convicted leaders jailed within 30 days unless they could get a stay of sentence from a Supreme Court justice. The Circuit Court specified that the leaders should be jailed sooner than 30 days if a Supreme Court justice denied a further stay before then.

Convicted Last October 14

The New York Circuit Court had upheld the conviction of all 11 leaders. They were convicted last October 14 after a prolonged trial before U. S. District Judge Harold R. Medina in New York.

The request for a stay did not include the name of Eugene Dennis, communist party general secretary, who was the eleventh person convicted. He is now in jail on a separate charge of contempt of Congress.

The stay was asked for Irving Potash, Jack Stachel, John B. Williamson, Gus Hall, Henry Winston, John Gates, Robert G. Thompson, Gilbert Green, Carl Winter and Benjamin J. Davis.

Thompson was sentenced to three years in federal prison and the others got five years each. All were fined $10,000 each.

Spy Trial May Produce Field

BERLIN, Sept. 25 (AP)—A forthcoming spy trial in East Germany of six purged communists may produce the long-missing American, Noel H. Field, as a witness.

Dr. Fritz Kaul, leading communist attorney in East Berlin, who is expected to be one of the prosecutors, said today that Field "could" be produced as a witness if the prosecution wished to call him.

Field has been named as an American spy by the communists at previous trials in Budapest and Sofia, but has never been called as a witness.

Field, a former U. S. State Department employe, a technical assistant to the American delegation to the London naval conference in 1935, who later joined the old League of Nations secretariat, was the first of four members of his family to disappear in one of the postwar period's strangest mysteries. Noel, said by communists to have been an American special agent in Switzerland during the war, vanished behind the iron curtain from Prague in May, 1949.

Harvest Moon Does Fadeout

NEW YORK, Sept. 25 (AP)—That harvest moon didn't shine on tonight. It did a fadeout, beginning shortly after dark.

The total eclipse of the moon was the last one visible from this country until Jan. 29, 1953.

Watching parties, including professional and amateur astronomers alike, were organized at communities across the nation.

Foster Succeeds Hoffman As ECA Administrator

President Truman Accepts Resignation

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25 (AP)—President Truman today accepted the resignation of Paul G. Hoffman as administrator of the Economic Cooperation Administration.

The President announced that he is appointing William C. Foster to succeed Hoffman. Foster now is deputy administrator.

The White House made public a friendly exchange of letters between Hoffman and Mr. Truman. Hoffman told the President that he wished to return to private life and to leave his job September 30.

Hoffman has been reported as planning to become director of the Ford Foundation, a research, educational and philantrophic organization set up by grants from the Ford automobile family.

Hoffman told the President that his resignation "carries no implication that the usefulness of the ECA is waning; on the contrary, I believe that the ECA's period of greatest usefulness may lie ahead."

He said he can leave in good conscience "only because of my complete confidence in the ECA organization in Washington, Europe, and Asia."

Mr. Truman replying, told Hoffman:

"You have achieved great things in dealing with one of the most difficult problems brought into being by a crisis in international affairs of world magnitude."

U. S. Plans Move To Reassure Asia

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25 (AP) — The administration is reported preparing a new two-fold move in the United Nations to reassure Asia that the United States seeks only peaceful solutions for Korea and Formosa.

Authorized officials said today that Secretary of State Acheson shortly may press for (1) a fresh declaration by the General Assembly for a united and free Korea and (2) creation of a special U.N. commission to study the disposition of Formosa.

Both proposals are aimed particularly at Communist China whose intentions toward Korea remain uncertain as U.N. forces drive closer to the 38th parallel dividing line.

Chairman Connally (D-Tex) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee suggested both actions by the U.N. in a detailed defense of administration foreign policy which had State Department authorization and was published in the Congressional Record.

"The great and over-riding problem in dealing with Formosa, and with the red regime in China is that under no circumstances should we allow ourselves to be tricked into a shooting war on the Chinese mainland," Connally said.

"While Formosa is important to our security it is certainly not that important."

Survivors Of Plane Crash Rescued From Wilderness

HALIFAX, N. S., Sept. 25 (AP)—All 16 persons aboard a United States B-50 bomber which crashed Thursday night in the Labrador wilderness were brought to Goose Bay today for medical treatment.

A trained first aid man who parachuted to the scene said the most serious injury suffered by the 12 crew members and four passengers was a leg fracture suffered when one of the men landed in a river. Other injuries were only minor. All aboard were American military personnel.

The 16 bailed out 95 miles southwest of Goose Bay when two engines of the B-50 caught fire and a third stalled. They were located yesterday, after spending three days in the Labrador wilds, by an RCAF Lancaster plane which observed smoke signals sent up from their improvised shelter. This capped a three-day search by Canadian and American planes that ranged from the far north to the Arizona Desert.

Parachutists and a medical officer dropped to the scene to aid the Americans. Plans were skillfully laid for speedy evacuation of the crash victims. A helicopter made the tricky flight necessary to reach them and flew them in relays to a nearby lake. There a Canadian amphibious plane picked them up and brought them to Goose Bay.

M'Arthur Says Flaming City Now Secured

Vicious Street Fighting Goes On

TOYKO, Tuesday, Sept. 26 (AP) — Gen. MacArthur announced today that United Nations forces have recaptured Seoul.

Vicious street fighting continued in the flame-swept city even as the announcement was made. American troops were engaged in savage combat with Reds defending from foxholes dug between streetcar tracks.

Smoke rose from devastating fires burning in four areas.

But, with marines in the heart of the 500-year-old capital and U. S. infantrymen on top of dominating South Mountain inside the city, Gen. MacArthur considered the city tactically secured.

"Liberation of the city was conducted in such a manner as to cause the least possible danger to civil installations," the General said in a communique.

Fires Visible For 10 Miles

The fires, which broke out last night and were visible for 10 miles, threatened to dash the hopes of American commanders that the 500-year-old Korean capital could be wrested from the reds without serious damage.

AP Correspondent Tom Lambert reported from Seoul that fires broke out in four areas at dusk shortly after U. S. Seventh Division infantrymen captured the key red defense position of South Mountain.

Lambert said the flames lit up the night skies while American forces were slugging their way near the center of the city in a bitter fight.

U. S. 10th Corps headquarters reported that U. S. Marines beat off a tank-led North Korean assault early today. Then the leathernecks jumped off in the embattled streets toward Duk Soo Palace near the city's center.

Seven Red Tanks Destroyed

The Marines destroyed seven red tanks.

Lambert's dispatch gave graphic evidence of the ferocity of the fighting. He said the marines had to oust reds from positions dug between street car tracks. They had to drive reds along twisting streets. Communist defenders were in houses, schools, a warehouse, a prison and even in a one-time Buddhist welfare home.

The biggest fire licked at railway marshalling yards. Its flames could be seen at American-held Kimpo Airfield, 10 miles to the northwest.

A U. S. Army spokesman in Tokyo had said the leathernecks reached granite-walled Duk Soo Palace. He also said the marines and infantrymen had established contact within the city.

Lambert, in his dispatch filed shortly before Monday midnight, reported:

"A good portion of the city, still red-held, lies between the Marine and Army lines."

Low-level attacks by planes added to a growing toll of red casualties. Air force evaluations estimated Tuesday that 1,400 North Koreans were killed or wounded in Korea, particularly along the old southeast front, Monday.

At the same time U. S. Eighth Army troops, racing northward from their rapidly expanding Pusan perimeter, narrowed the gap with Tenth Corps troops in the Seoul area to 40 miles or less.

Thief Gets Sermon For Wrongdoing

BALTIMORE, Sept. 25 (AP)—Repent and repent.

That's the advice of Dr. R. H. Riley, State Department of Health director, to the thief who robbed the car of the department's Garrett County sanitarian while it was parked on a street here.

The sanitarian, Alonzo F. Fike, also is a minister of the Church of the Brethren.

The loot: A suitcase, three suits and two sermons.

Light Bulb Prices Upped

CLEVELAND, Sept. 25 (AP)—General Electric Co's light bulbs are going to cost about six per cent more, beginning tomorrow.

The firm, announcing this today, listed the following as examples: The 60-watt lamp, from 12 to 14 cents; the 100-watt, from 15 to 16 cents; the 40-watt fluorescent, from $1 to $1.05.

Weather Forecast
Fair and warmer today; tomorrow partly cloudy and warmer.

Hike In Draft Age Opposed By Hershey

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25 (INS)—Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey declared today that veterans and men with dependents will have to be drafted to meet President Truman's call for a three-million-man armed force unless the age limit is raised above 25.

The draft director announced his opposition to raising the present 25-year-old limit because industrial production and scientific development would be crippled and also because the older men "are not as good physically."

Development Of Vaccine Against Mumps Announced

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25 (AP) — Developments of commercial vaccine against mumps was announced today.

The announcement was made in Washington by the National Institutes of Health (NIH) where research leading to the development was first done; and in Pearl River, N. Y., by Lederle Laboratories which produced the vaccine for commercial distribution.

Dr. Karl Habel of NIH said the commercial product, like its laboratory predecessor, was made from virus grown in hatching hen's eggs and then rendered incapable of producing active infection.

He said that limited human trials showed that his own laboratory vaccine, while "not 100 per cent protective," appears to give a three-fold reduction of mumps cases among vaccinated people, as compared with those not vaccinated.

The commercial product was developed by Dr. Victor Cabasso of the Lederle Laboratories.

The Lederle announcement said its "effective" vaccine is "designed primarily for the immunization (protection) of large groups of children or adults, housed together in close quarters, as in schools, camps, institutions or military installations, where a mass outbreak of mumps would cause serious inconvenience."

Squirrel Attacks Preacher In Pulpit

MONTEREY, Va., Sept. 25 (AP) — The guest preacher reached the climax of his sermon.

All eyes were on the Rev. L. S. Shires, at the Victory Adventist Church yesterday, when there was a sudden patter up the aisle.

It was a red fox squirrel. He leaped to the pulpit, stood a moment on the Bible and then pounced on the minister's head.

A wild scramble ended in a draw. The squirrel fell off and retired. But the services ended abruptly while members of the congregation administered first aid to Mr. Shires.

Playwright's Son Commits Suicide

WOODSTOCK, N. Y., Sept. 25 (AP) —Eugene O'Neill, Jr., 40, son of the noted playwright, killed himself today by slashing a wrist. Ruth Lander, an artists' agent, said she had broken off an engagement with him last Saturday.

Friends reported he had been despondent since then.

"Everyone knows about my engagement being broken," Miss Lander said after learning of the suicide. "I'm very sorry, very unhappy and broken up about the whole thing."

Ulster County Coroner Earnest O. Kelly said O'Neill slashed his right wrist with a razor while in the bathtub at his home and "staggered downstairs while he was bleeding to death."

Kelly, listing the case as suicide, said O'Neill also had cut his leg with the razor but it was the wrist wound which caused his death.

His body was discovered by a neighbor, Mrs. Frank Meyer.

Many artists and writers reside in Woodstock and nearby.

School Aid Measure Signed By Truman

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25 (AP)—President Truman has signed a bill authorizing federal aid in the construction of school facilities in areas where an influx of government workers has swelled school enrollments.

A companion bill, awaiting presidential action, would authorize federal aid in maintaining and operating schools in such districts.

Both bills resulted from skyrocketing school costs and shortage of space for pupils in areas which have had sudden population growths due to the migration of government and military families. School districts surrounding Army posts especially asked for this aid.

'Bra Bandits' May Escape Prosecution

$100,000 Stolen From Phone Firm

MIAMI, Fla., Sept. 25 (AP)—Police today reported a series of systematic thefts from the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Co., counting room that totaled $100,000 in the past two years.

Fourteen persons, including eight women, their husbands and boy friends, were rounded up after West Miami Safety Director I. Ray Mills reported finding three suitcases stuffed with coins and currency totaling nearly $5,000 at the home of one of the telephone company employes.

$10,000 Recovered

Mills, who first broke the case yesterday, said thus far nearly $10,000 in coins, currency and negotiable bonds have been recovered.

The eight women were released to the custody of their attorneys following a habeas corpus hearing before Dade County Circuit Judge George E. Holt. A second hearing is scheduled for tomorrow.

Assistant Dade County Solicitor Michael F. Zarowny said all the thefts were from the counting room where a torrent of silver came each day from pay station phones.

He said the girls admitted stuffing rolls of quarters in their brassieres before putting the money in automatic counting machines.

No Crime Established

Zarowny indicated those involved may escape prosecution because he said, "the only thing we've got is a confession."

"We can't introduce that until we establish a crime and we can't establish a crime," he added. "There is no way to tell if the money was taken from the boxes, nor how much.

"The phone company is not in position to say if it lost anything. On advice of counsel, phone company officials won't sign affidavits to make a complaint to the detective bureau," Zarowny said.

"We have no date when the offense was committed, who got the money nor how much was taken," he added.

Paroled Ex-Leader Of Klan Disappears

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 25 (AP)—David Curtis Stephenson, 56-year-old paroled former grand dragon of the Indiana Ku Klux Klan, has disappeared from a Carbondale, Ill., rooming house.

Gov. Henry F. Schricker announced today that Stephenson, freed six months ago from Indiana State Prison after serving nearly 25 years for the murder of Miss Madge Oberholtzer, has been missing since Aug. 30.

An Illinois parole official said Stephenson disappeared while his parole agent and his sponsor were on vacation. This official added the former Klan leader left a note saying that he would return in a week.

A general police alarm has been broadcast for the balding, pudgy one-time political power who boasted "I am the law" in Indiana.

Top U. S. Reds Freed Pending Final Decision

Jurist Avoids Risk Of Embarrassment

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25 (AP)—Justice Jackson of the Supreme Court today allowed freedom on bond, pending an appeal, for 10 of the 11 U. S. communist leaders convicted of conspiracy to advocate forceable overthrow of the government.

Jackson's stay of sentence, as it is technically called, permits the convicted leaders to remain free until final Supreme Court action on a formal appeal to be filed later.

The appeal will ask the high tribunal to overturn the conviction of the red officials by a New York jury.

Jackson issued an eight-page formal opinion in explaining his action.

All Equal Under Law

In it he declared there would be a "disastrous effect on the reputation of American justice if I should now send these men to jail and the full court later decides that their conviction is invalid."

Jackson added:

"The right of every American to equal treatment before the law is wrapped up in the same constitutional bundle with those of these communists. If in anger or disgust with these defendants we throw out the bundle, we also cast aside protection for the liberties of more worthy critics who may be in opposition to the government of some future day."

The U. S. Circuit Court in New York City on August 28 ordered the convicted leaders jailed within 30 days unless they could get a stay of sentence from a Supreme Court justice. The Circuit Court specified that the leaders should be jailed sooner than 30 days if a Supreme Court justice denied a further stay before then.

Convicted Last October 14

The New York Circuit Court had upheld the conviction of all 11 leaders. They were convicted last October 14 after a prolonged trial before U. S. District Judge Harold R. Medina in New York.

The request for a stay did not include the name of Eugene Dennis, communist party general secretary, who was the eleventh person convicted. He is now in jail on a separate charge of contempt of Congress.

The stay was asked for Irving Potash, Jack Stachel, John B. Williamson, Gus Hall, Henry Winston, John Gates, Robert G. Thompson, Gilbert Green, Carl Winter and Benjamin J. Davis.

Thompson was sentenced to three years in federal prison and the others got five years each. All were fined $10,000 each.

Spy Trial May Produce Field

BERLIN, Sept. 25 (AP)—A forthcoming spy trial in East Germany of six purged communists may produce the long-missing American, Noel H. Field, as a witness.

Dr. Fritz Kaul, leading communist attorney in East Berlin, who is expected to be one of the prosecutors, said today that Field "could" be produced as a witness if the prosecution wished to call him.

Field has been named as an American spy by the communists at previous trials in Budapest and Sofia, but has never been called as a witness.

Field, a former U. S. State Department employe, a technical assistant to the American delegation to the London naval conference in 1935, who later joined the old League of Nations secretariat, was the first of four members of his family to disappear in one of the postwar period's strangest mysteries. Noel, said by communists to have been an American special agent in Switzerland during the war, vanished behind the iron curtain from Prague in May, 1949.

Harvest Moon Does Fadeout

NEW YORK, Sept. 25 (AP)—That harvest moon didn't shine on tonight. It did a fadeout, beginning shortly after dark.

The total eclipse of the moon was the last one visible from this country until Jan. 29, 1953.

Watching parties, including professional and amateur astronomers alike, were organized at communities across the nation.

Foster Succeeds Hoffman As ECA Administrator

President Truman Accepts Resignation

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25 (AP)—President Truman today accepted the resignation of Paul G. Hoffman as administrator of the Economic Cooperation Administration.

The President announced that he is appointing William C. Foster to succeed Hoffman. Foster now is deputy administrator.

The White House made public a friendly exchange of letters between Hoffman and Mr. Truman. Hoffman told the President that he wished to return to private life and to leave his job September 30.

Hoffman has been reported as planning to become director of the Ford Foundation, a research, educational and philantrophic organization set up by grants from the Ford automobile family.

Hoffman told the President that his resignation "carries no implication that the usefulness of the ECA is waning; on the contrary, I believe that the ECA's period of greatest usefulness may lie ahead."

He said he can leave in good conscience "only because of my complete confidence in the ECA organization in Washington, Europe, and Asia."

Mr. Truman replying, told Hoffman:

"You have achieved great things in dealing with one of the most difficult problems brought into being by a crisis in international affairs of world magnitude."

U. S. Plans Move To Reassure Asia

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25 (AP) — The administration is reported preparing a new two-fold move in the United Nations to reassure Asia that the United States seeks only peaceful solutions for Korea and Formosa.

Authorized officials said today that Secretary of State Acheson shortly may press for (1) a fresh declaration by the General Assembly for a united and free Korea and (2) creation of a special U.N. commission to study the disposition of Formosa.

Both proposals are aimed particularly at Communist China whose intentions toward Korea remain uncertain as U.N. forces drive closer to the 38th parallel dividing line.

Chairman Connally (D-Tex) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee suggested both actions by the U.N. in a detailed defense of administration foreign policy which had State Department authorization and was published in the Congressional Record.

"The great and over-riding problem in dealing with Formosa, and with the red regime in China is that under no circumstances should we allow ourselves to be tricked into a shooting war on the Chinese mainland," Connally said.

"While Formosa is important to our security it is certainly not that important."

Survivors Of Plane Crash Rescued From Wilderness

HALIFAX, N. S., Sept. 25 (AP)—All 16 persons aboard a United States B-50 bomber which crashed Thursday night in the Labrador wilderness were brought to Goose Bay today for medical treatment.

A trained first aid man who parachuted to the scene said the most serious injury suffered by the 12 crew members and four passengers was a leg fracture suffered when one of the men landed in a river. Other injuries were only minor. All aboard were American military personnel.

The 16 bailed out 95 miles southwest of Goose Bay when two engines of the B-50 caught fire and a third stalled. They were located yesterday, after spending three days in the Labrador wilds, by an RCAF Lancaster plane which observed smoke signals sent up from their improvised shelter. This capped a three-day search by Canadian and American planes that ranged from the far north to the Arizona Desert.

Parachutists and a medical officer dropped to the scene to aid the Americans. Plans were skillfully laid for speedy evacuation of the crash victims. A helicopter made the tricky flight necessary to reach them and flew them in relays to a nearby lake. There a Canadian amphibious plane picked them up and brought them to Goose Bay.

M'Arthur Says Flaming City Now Secured

Vicious Street Fighting Goes On

TOYKO, Tuesday, Sept. 26 (AP) — Gen. MacArthur announced today that United Nations forces have recaptured Seoul.

Vicious street fighting continued in the flame-swept city even as the announcement was made. American troops were engaged in savage combat with Reds defending from foxholes dug between streetcar tracks.

Smoke rose from devastating fires burning in four areas.

But, with marines in the heart of the 500-year-old capital and U. S. infantrymen on top of dominating South Mountain inside the city, Gen. MacArthur considered the city tactically secured.

"Liberation of the city was conducted in such a manner as to cause the least possible danger to civil installations," the General said in a communique.

Fires Visible For 10 Miles

The fires, which broke out last night and were visible for 10 miles, threatened to dash the hopes of American commanders that the 500-year-old Korean capital could be wrested from the reds without serious damage.

AP Correspondent Tom Lambert reported from Seoul that fires broke out in four areas at dusk shortly after U. S. Seventh Division infantrymen captured the key red defense position of South Mountain.

Lambert said the flames lit up the night skies while American forces were slugging their way near the center of the city in a bitter fight.

U. S. 10th Corps headquarters reported that U. S. Marines beat off a tank-led North Korean assault early today. Then the leathernecks jumped off in the embattled streets toward Duk Soo Palace near the city's center.

Seven Red Tanks Destroyed

The Marines destroyed seven red tanks.

Lambert's dispatch gave graphic evidence of the ferocity of the fighting. He said the marines had to oust reds from positions dug between street car tracks. They had to drive reds along twisting streets. Communist defenders were in houses, schools, a warehouse, a prison and even in a one-time Buddhist welfare home.

The biggest fire licked at railway marshalling yards. Its flames could be seen at American-held Kimpo Airfield, 10 miles to the northwest.

A U. S. Army spokesman in Tokyo had said the leathernecks reached granite-walled Duk Soo Palace. He also said the marines and infantrymen had established contact within the city.

Lambert, in his dispatch filed shortly before Monday midnight, reported:

"A good portion of the city, still red-held, lies between the Marine and Army lines."

Low-level attacks by planes added to a growing toll of red casualties. Air force evaluations estimated Tuesday that 1,400 North Koreans were killed or wounded in Korea, particularly along the old southeast front, Monday.

At the same time U. S. Eighth Army troops, racing northward from their rapidly expanding Pusan perimeter, narrowed the gap with Tenth Corps troops in the Seoul area to 40 miles or less.

Thief Gets Sermon For Wrongdoing

BALTIMORE, Sept. 25 (AP)—Re and repent.

That's the advice of Dr. R. H Riley, State Department of Health director, to the thief who robbed the car of the department's Garrett County sanitarian while it was parked on a street here.

The sanitarian, Alonzo F. Fike, also is a minister of the Church of the Brethren.

The loot: A suitcase, three suits and two sermons.

Light Bulb Prices Upped

CLEVELAND, Sept. 25 (AP)—General Electric Co's light bulbs are going to cost about six per cent more, beginning tomorrow.

The firm, announcing this today, listed the following as examples: The 60-watt lamp, from 12 to 14 cents; the 100-watt, from 15 to 16 cents; the 40-watt fluorescent, from $1 to $1.05.

Taft "Handbook" Revised By CIO

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 25 (AP) — Two episodes that aroused the Taft campaign committee's ire have been left out of a revised edition of the labor "Speaker's Handbook" on U. S. Sen. Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio).

One incident, in the original handbook published by the CIO Political Action Committee, referred to a nurse depriving the infant Taft of sugar when he ate oatmeal. The other recounted how the boy Taft was stung by a jellyfish in the Philippines.

The authors speculated that both incidents may have affected Taft's thinking in the Senate.

The Taft committee described the stories as "two of the silliest statements of the entire book," and remarked:

"Can the CIO really believe the voters of Ohio will swallow this stuff and nonsense?"

A spokesman for the United Labor League, a coalition of CIO and AFL forces that published the revised handbook, said the two episodes were dropped for economy reasons.

Pope Calls On Priests To Resist Communism

VATICAN CITY, Sept. 25. (AP)—Pope Pius XII called on all priests of the Catholic Church today to stand boldly against the "iniquity of communism" as well as the "damaging consequences" of capitalism.

The exhortation, titled "Menti Nostrae" from its first two Latin words meaning "in our spirit," urged the clergy to beware of the "craze for novelty" in this modern age, and s[illegible] for greater sanctity and humili[illegible] keeping with its dignity.

Western Maryland Orders 90 Cars

GREENVILLE, Pa., Sept. 25 (AP)—Greenville Steel Car Company today received orders for 50 box cars and 40 flat cars from Western Maryland Railway and 50 covered hopper cars from the Akron, Canton and Youngstown Railroad. These and previous orders assure continuous operation of the plant until the middle of 1951.

Coalition Seeks Ober Act Defeat

BALTIMORE, Sept. 25 (AP)—A coalition organization aimed at defeating the Ober anti-subversive law in November has been formed, it was announced today.

The law passed by the 1949 Legislative forbids membership in subversive groups and calls for heavy penalties upon persons convicted of acts seeking to overthrow government.

It is on the November election ballot on a referendum petition.

The Maryland Civil Liberties Committee heads the new group. Affiliated with it are the Americans for Democratic Action, the Maryland Chapter of the American Association of Social Workers, the Johns Hopkins Chapter of the American Association of University Professors, the Baltimore Teachers Union, the Maryland Library Association, the Workmen's Circle and the Young Women's Christian Association.

Mrs. Edward Salner, executive secretary of the new group, said she wished to make it plain that the Maryland Civil Liberties Committee and all the others affiliated specifically bar communists from membership.

Program Too Much For Miss America

BALTIMORE, Sept. 25 (AP)—The strenuous program of the last two weeks proved too much for Miss America today, confining her to her hotel room with a fever and heavy cold.

Her engagements were cancelled for at least three days.

Miss America, Miss Yolande Betbeze of Mobile, Ala., was to have made several appearances in Baltimore today and then have gone on to Lancaster, Pa., tonight. Those engagements were cancelled along with others scheduled for tomorrow at Roanoke, Va.

All American Gets First Profit

All American Airways, Inc., carried a record-breaking 19,596 passengers in August and its president, Robert M. Love, said it represents its first operating profit since being inaugurated in 1949.

Love said the air line realized its profit for the first time after carrying the record number of passengers over 2,755,682 revenue miles.

Punkin Center To Mark Anniversary

Plans for the first anniversary banquet of the Town Creek Valley Club will be discussed at a meeting Saturday 7:30 p. m. at Slider's Garage, Punkin Center. A membership drive is due to start soon, and the club will participate in Maryland Land Week program here October 9. A movie will be shown at Saturday's meeting.

Roy C. Hawse was named a probationary member of the Police Department to replace Ralph Buser, who has entered military service.

On the recommendation of City Engineer Ralph L. Rizer, council refused a request by the Garland-Norton Petroleum Company for permission to install a 550-gallon undeground storage tank at 451 Pennsylvania Avenue for the personal use of Austin Godlove in dispensing gasoline.

Referred to Rizer for investigation and report was a request from the South Cumberland Planing Mill Company to install a 2,000-gallon gasoline storage tank on their premises at 33 Queen Street.

John M. Robb, local attorney, submitted an application of the National Jet Company for the third annual renewal of its tax exemption on tools and machinery.

The matter was tabled one week to permit Buchholtz to study the files and report.

Also tabled for one week was a request for the council to take an ad in the souvenir program being prepared in connection with the Golden Jubilee celebration of St. Mary's Catholic Church, which opens November 19.

Beer Prices Raised

CINCINNATI, Sept. 25 (AP)—Most Cincinnati breweries today increased the price of draft and bottled beer and a spokesman for a cafe owners' group said it probably would mean higher over-the-bar prices.

The breweries hiked prices by from seven to 10 cents a case on bottled beer and by about $1.23 a barrel on draft beer.

N. Y. Police Head Quits

NEW YORK, Sept. 25 (INS) — Police Commissioner William P. O'Brien resigned tonight in the face of an investigation of alleged police-bookmaking hook-ups and Acting Mayor Vincent Impellitteri named Assistant U. S. Attorney Thomas F. Murphy to replace him.

Maxim Scores KO

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Sept. 25 (AP) — Joey Maxim, light heavyweight champion of the world, knocked out Johnny Swanson of Buffalo, N. Y., in 2:35 of the third round tonight at Radio Center Arena.

Maxim, challenger of the winner of the Joe Louis-Ezzard Charles heavyweight title bout in Yankee Stadium Wednesday night, toyed with Swanson for two rounds of the scheduled 10-round non-title bout.

Deaths

MRS. NANCY HARE

Mrs. Nancy Jane Dyche Hare, 86, died yesterday afternoon at her home in Wiley Ford, W. Va. She had been in failing health for about five years.

She was the widow of Thomas Hare, former B. & O. worker, who died in 1946.

The body is at the Stein Funeral Home.

MRS. IDA ARBOGAST

PARSONS, W. Va. — Mrs. Ida Arbogast, 77, died suddenly yesterday morning at her home near Elk. She had been in good health and spent the weekend in Parsons.

She was born in Harman, W. Va., November 18, 1872, a daughter of the late Solomon and Elizabeth Bland Huffman. Her husband, Ora A. Arbogast, died in 1929.

She was a member of the Methodist Church and had been active in the Farming for Better Living program here and the Tucker County Farm Bureau.

Surviving are four sons, Roscoe, Delbert and Frank, all of Parsons, and Leo, Elkins; a brother, Earl R. Huffman, Harman, and nine grandchildren.

A funeral service will be held Wednesday at 2:30 p. m. in the Greenleif Funeral Home. Rev. Robert L. Greynolds and Rev. W. A. O'Dell will officiate and burial will be in Parsons Cemetery.

C. CLARK NEFF

FROSTBURG—C. Clark Neff, 64, Ellwood City, Pa., died Monday at 6:40 p. m. in Ellwood City Hospital after an illness of two months.

A native of Frostburg, he was a son of Mrs. Ella Neff, Frostburg, and the late Henry K. Neff. He left that city about 35 years ago.

Also surviving are his widow, Mrs. Nellie Miller Neff; one son, Curtis; a daughter, Maryland Thornhill; an adopted son, Samuel Gunnett Neff; a stepdaughter, Vivian Miller, all of Ellwood City; five sisters, Mrs. Eleanor Wilson, Washington, D. C., and Miss Pearl and Miss Virginia Neff, Mrs. Lillie Simons and Mrs. Margaret Allerdice, all of Frostburg.

A funeral service and burial will be held Thursday in Ellwood City.

DUNCAN ROOT RITES

A funeral service for Duncan W. Root, 72, retired Potomac Edison Company employe, who died yesterday, will be conducted Wednesday at 2 p. m. in the Stein Funeral Home.

Rev. Carl H. Clapp, pastor of St. Mark's Evangelical and Reformed Church, will officiate and burial will be in Hillcrest Cemetery.

Mr. Root was found dead yesterday morning in the garage at the rear of 824 Shriver Avenue, and Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner, said death was due to hanging.

Mr. Root had been in ill health for a number of years. His body was found in the garage by his son-in-law, Julius D. Lonnholm, 824 Shriver Avenue, with whom he made his home.

A native of Tucker County, W. Va., Mr. Root was a son of the late David and Margaret Root, of near Thomas, W. Va. He came here in 1914 and worked for a number of years as a street car conductor for the Potomac Edison Company.

About 1926 he operated a grocery store on Maryland Avenue and for eight years he worked as a bartender at the Fort Cumberland Hotel. Later he returned to the employment of the Potomac Edison Company and retired some time ago.

Besides his wife and a daughter, Mrs. Pauline Lonnholm, he is survived by a son, Walter G. Root, Westernport; three sisters, Mrs. Mary Wotring, Oakland; Mrs. Agnes Shaffer, Eglon, W. Va., and Mrs. Pearl Durr,, Cresaptown and five brothers, Thomas Root, Terra Alta, W. Va.; Julius Root, Douglas, W. Va.; J. J. Root, Cocoanut Grove, Fla.; William Root, Thomas W. Taft "Handbook" Revised By CIO

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 25 (AP) — Two episodes that aroused the Taft campaign committee's ire have been left out of a revised edition of the labor "Speaker's Handbook" on U. S. Sen. Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio).

One incident, in the original handbook published by the CIO Political Action Committee, referred to a nurse depriving the infant Taft of sugar when he ate oatmeal. The other recounted how the boy Taft was stung by a jellyfish in the Philippines.

The authors speculated that both incidents may have affected Taft's thinking in the Senate.

The Taft committee described the stories as "two of the silliest statements of the entire book," and remarked:

"Can the CIO really believe the voters of Ohio will swallow this stuff and nonsense?"

A spokesman for the United Labor League, a coalition of CIO and AFL forces that published the revised handbook, said the two episodes were dropped for economy reasons.

Pope Calls On Priests To Resist Communism

VATICAN CITY, Sept. 25. (AP)—Pope Pius XII called on all priests of the Catholic Church today to stand boldly against the "iniquity of communism" as well as the "damaging consequences" of capitalism.

The exhortation, titled "Menti Nostrae" from its first two Latin words meaning "in our spirit," urged the clergy to beware of the "craze for novelty" in this modern age, and s[illegible] for greater sanctity and humili[illegible] keeping with its dignity.

Western Maryland Orders 90 Cars

GREENVILLE, Pa., Sept. 25 (AP)—Greenville Steel Car Company today received orders for 50 box cars and 40 flat cars from Western Maryland Railway and 50 covered hopper cars from the Akron, Canton and Youngstown Railroad. These and previous orders assure continuous operation of the plant until the middle of 1951.

Coalition Seeks Ober Act Defeat

BALTIMORE, Sept. 25 (AP)—A coalition organization aimed at defeating the Ober anti-subversive law in November has been formed, it was announced today.

The law passed by the 1949 Legislative forbids membership in subversive groups and calls for heavy penalties upon persons convicted of acts seeking to overthrow government.

It is on the November election ballot on a referendum petition.

The Maryland Civil Liberties Committee heads the new group. Affiliated with it are the Americans for Democratic Action, the Maryland Chapter of the American Association of Social Workers, the Johns Hopkins Chapter of the American Association of University Professors, the Baltimore Teachers Union, the Maryland Library Association, the Workmen's Circle and the Young Women's Christian Association.

Mrs. Edward Salner, executive secretary of the new group, said she wished to make it plain that the Maryland Civil Liberties Committee and all the others affiliated specifically bar communists from membership.

Program Too Much For Miss America

BALTIMORE, Sept. 25 (AP)—The strenuous program of the last two weeks proved too much for Miss America today, confining her to her hotel room with a fever and heavy cold.

Her engagements were cancelled for at least three days.

Miss America, Miss Yolande Betbeze of Mobile, Ala., was to have made several appearances in Baltimore today and then have gone on to Lancaster, Pa., tonight. Those engagements were cancelled along with others scheduled for tomorrow at Roanoke, Va.

All American Gets First Profit

All American Airways, Inc., carried a record-breaking 19,596 passengers in August and its president, Robert M. Love, said it represents its first operating profit since being inaugurated in 1949.

Love said the air line realized its profit for the first time after carrying the record number of passengers over 2,755,682 revenue miles.

Punkin Center To Mark Anniversary

Plans for the first anniversary banquet of the Town Creek Valley Club will be discussed at a meeting Saturday 7:30 p. m. at Slider's Garage, Punkin Center. A membership drive is due to start soon, and the club will participate in Maryland Land Week program here October 9. A movie will be shown at Saturday's meeting.

Roy C. Hawse was named a probationary member of the Police Department to replace Ralph Buser, who has entered military service.

On the recommendation of City Engineer Ralph L. Rizer, council refused a request by the Garland-Norton Petroleum Company for permission to install a 550-gallon undeground storage tank at 451 Pennsylvania Avenue for the personal use of Austin Godlove in dispensing gasoline.

Referred to Rizer for investigation and report was a request from the South Cumberland Planing Mill Company to install a 2,000-gallon gasoline storage tank on their premises at 33 Queen Street.

John M. Robb, local attorney, submitted an application of the National Jet Company for the third annual renewal of its tax exemption on tools and machinery.

The matter was tabled one week to permit Buchholtz to study the files and report.

Also tabled for one week was a request for the council to take an ad in the souvenir program being prepared in connection with the Golden Jubilee celebration of St. Mary's Catholic Church, which opens November 19.

Beer Prices Raised

CINCINNATI, Sept. 25 (AP)—Most Cincinnati breweries today increased the price of draft and bottled beer and a spokesman for a cafe owners' group said it probably would mean higher over-the-bar prices.

The breweries hiked prices by from seven to 10 cents a case on bottled beer and by about $1.23 a barrel on draft beer.

N. Y. Police Head Quits

NEW YORK, Sept. 25 (INS) — Police Commissioner William P. O'Brien resigned tonight in the face of an investigation of alleged police-bookmaking hook-ups and Acting Mayor Vincent Impellitteri named Assistant U. S. Attorney Thomas F. Murphy to replace him.

Women Reserves Called

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25 (AP)—The Army today called 1,644 women reservists to active duty. It was the first call to women since the Army expansion began.

Union Meetings Set

Earl L. Snyder, president, announced yesterday the union's Executive Board will meet tonight at 7:30 p. m. The Policy Committee, comprising the Executive Board and shop chairmen, will meet Friday at 9 a. m. to discuss general union policies.

Maxim Scores KO

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Sept. 25 (AP) — Joey Maxim, light heavyweight champion of the world, knocked out Johnny Swanson of Buffalo, N. Y., in 2:35 of the third round tonight at Radio Center Arena.

Maxim, challenger of the winner of the Joe Louis-Ezzard Charles heavyweight title bout in Yankee Stadium Wednesday night, toyed with Swanson for two rounds of the scheduled 10-round non-title bout.

Deaths

MRS. NANCY HARE

Mrs. Nancy Jane Dyche Hare, 86, died yesterday afternoon at her home in Wiley Ford, W. Va. She had been in failing health for about five years.

She was the widow of Thomas Hare, former B. & O. worker, who died in 1946.

The body is at the Stein Funeral Home.

MRS. IDA ARBOGAST

PARSONS, W. Va. — Mrs. Ida Arbogast, 77, died suddenly yesterday morning at her home near Elk. She had been in good health and spent the weekend in Parsons.

She was born in Harman, W. Va., November 18, 1872, a daughter of the late Solomon and Elizabeth Bland Huffman. Her husband, Ora A. Arbogast, died in 1929.

She was a member of the Methodist Church and had been active in the Farming for Better Living program here and the Tucker County Farm Bureau.

Surviving are four sons, Roscoe, Delbert and Frank, all of Parsons, and Leo, Elkins; a brother, Earl R. Huffman, Harman, and nine grandchildren.

A funeral service will be held Wednesday at 2:30 p. m. in the Greenleif Funeral Home. Rev. Robert L. Greynolds and Rev. W. A. O'Dell will officiate and burial will be in Parsons Cemetery.

C. CLARK NEFF

FROSTBURG—C. Clark Neff, 64, Ellwood City, Pa., died Monday at 6:40 p. m. in Ellwood City Hospital after an illness of two months.

A native of Frostburg, he was a son of Mrs. Ella Neff, Frostburg, and the late Henry K. Neff. He left that city about 35 years ago.

Also surviving are his widow, Mrs. Nellie Miller Neff; one son, Curtis; a daughter, Maryland Thornhill; an adopted son, Samuel Gunnett Neff; a stepdaughter, Vivian Miller, all of Ellwood City; five sisters, Mrs. Eleanor Wilson, Washington, D. C., and Miss Pearl and Miss Virginia Neff, Mrs. Lillie Simons and Mrs. Margaret Allerdice, all of Frostburg.

A funeral service and burial will be held Thursday in Ellwood City.

DUNCAN ROOT RITES

A funeral service for Duncan W. Root, 72, retired Potomac Edison Company employe, who died yesterday, will be conducted Wednesday at 2 p. m. in the Stein Funeral Home.

Rev. Carl H. Clapp, pastor of St. Mark's Evangelical and Reformed Church, will officiate and burial will be in Hillcrest Cemetery.

Mr. Root was found dead yesterday morning in the garage at the rear of 824 Shriver Avenue, and Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner, said death was due to hanging.

Mr. Root had been in ill health for a number of years. His body was found in the garage by his son-in-law, Julius D. Lonnholm, 824 Shriver Avenue, with whom he made his home.

A native of Tucker County, W. Va., Mr. Root was a son of the late David and Margaret Root, of near Thomas, W. Va. He came here in 1914 and worked for a number of years as a street car conductor for the Potomac Edison Company.

About 1926 he operated a grocery store on Maryland Avenue and for eight years he worked as a bartender at the Fort Cumberland Hotel. Later he returned to the employment of the Potomac Edison Company and retired some time ago.

Besides his wife and a daughter, Mrs. Pauline Lonnholm, he is survived by a son, Walter G. Root, Westernport; three sisters, Mrs. Mary Wotring, Oakland; Mrs. Agnes Shaffer, Eglon, W. Va., and Mrs. Pearl Durr,, Cresaptown and five brothers, Thomas Root, Terra Alta, W. Va.; Julius Root, Douglas, W. Va.; J. J. Root, Cocoanut Grove, Fla.; William Root, Thomas W. Va. and David Root, Hambleton, W. Va.

JASPER HUFF RITES

A funeral service for Jasper L. Huff, 73, of 223 Race Street, well known blacksmith, who died Saturday, was conducted yesterday afternoon in Grace Methodist Church.

Rev. Allen B. L. Fisher, pastor, officiated and burial was in Hillcrest Cemetery.

Pallbearers were George V. Steele, David E. Allender, W. L. Ranck, James G. Stevenson, John W. Tederick and Carl R. Amtower.

A graveside service was conducted by Chapel Hill Lodge No. 53, IOOF.

Schnauffer Will Substitute For Judge Mish

Associate Judge Patrick M. Schnauffer, Frederick, was designated yesterday by Chief Judge Ogle Marbury of the Court of Appeals to substitute for Chief Judge Joseph D. Mish of the Fourth Judicial Circuit, who is ill.

Schnauffer is associate judge of the Sixth Circuit, which includes Frederick and Montgomery counties.

Judge Mish, who heads the circuit comprising Allegany, Garrett and Washington counties, suffered a heart attack last Wednesday at his home and drove to the home of his physician for treatment. The doctor ordered the jurist to the Washington County Hospital.

Indications are that Judge Mish will not be able to perform his judicial duties for some time.

Associate Judge George Henderson requested the appointment of a judge to assist in the Fourth Circuit as he could not handle the entire load alone.

Associate Judge Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., of this city has also been unable to fully handle the duties of Circuit Court due to a heart attack he suffered in May.

The necessity of another judge for the circuit was also made necessary due to a number of hearings at which at least two jurists are needed.

These include the hearing October 7 on the constitutionality of the anti-Communist ordinance recently enacted by the City of Cumberland. Judge Schnauffer will sit in on this case, according to court attaches here. He may also sit in on the case Wednesday involving the indictment of six Garrett County men in the school strike at Kitzmiller.

Md. Is To Observe Poetry Day Oct. 15

Poetry Day in Maryland is to be observed October 15, following issuance of a proclamation by Gov. William Preston Lane at the suggestion of Mrs. Charles M. See, 509 Maryland Avenue, wife of the Maryland legislator. Mrs. See has been named poetry advisor for Western Maryland and West Virginia by the Avalon World Art Academy.

Miss Mary G. Walsh will arrange a poetry exhibit for the two weeks of October 15-28. It will feature an exhibition of published works and some original manuscripts by Maryland poets. State Teachers' College, Frostburg, will also have an exhibit of works by Maryland and U. S. poets.

Mrs. See will present a half hour program over WCUM on October 15, featuring readings from the works of Maryland poets on a program that will include piano selections by Miss Lela Thomas, of Romney, W. Va.

Jaycees Plan Americanism Program

Maryland members of the Junior Association of Commerce moved unanimously Sunday to make "Selling the American Way of Life" its No. 1 project. The "Voice of Democracy" program will augment the plan.

Objectives of the state-wide program include:

Identifying socialism and communism, pointing out the superiority of the American way of life, supplying techniques and facts necessary to understand the American way of life, and providing inspiration to fight for the preservation of the American way of life.

Edward Rinner represented the Cumberland group at Sunday's meeting and assisted in presenting a resume of the advantages of the democratic way of life.

Force Is Not Enough

Percy Spender, Australia's minister for external affairs, has come up with a reminder of a truth it is easy to forget in times like these. He has put into clear words a principle that Americans understand but frequently lose sight of when the nation begins to concentrate its energies on weapons for defense.

Speaking to the Federal Bar Association at Washington, Spender called on the free nations to adopt a dynamic approach in opposing communist imperialism. What the free world must do, he said, is give the world "a faith to live by and, if need be, to die by." He explained his meaning by speaking of the need for American leadership in three directions:

Giving help to oppressed masses.

Blotting out social inequalities.

Providing opportunities for all.

He did not stop with generalities. He was specific. Nations like the United States and Australia, he said, ought to be among the first to give political and economic aid to newly-freed countries in Southeast Asia and others approaching freedom. He described this as a positive approach to block communism.

What America is doing now is largely negative. This nation is building up its military strength to oppose force with equal or greater force. Much less effort is being exerted in finding ways that will make it impossible for communism to resort to force.

If it were possible to win men's minds to believe in freedom and in the sanctity of the individual, in the free institutions that exist to preserve both, in justice under law—in all the concepts Americans hold dear—there would be no more Koreas.

Chemistry In War

The big role that chemistry plays in every role vital to the war effort was pointed out the other day by Gen. Anthony C. McAuliffe—the man who said "nuts" to the Germans at Bastogne. As chief chemical officer, Department of the Army, General McAuliffe enlarged on what Chemical Corps troops are doing in the front line in Korea.

The infantry is supporting combat operations with the 4.2 rifled mortar developed by the Chemical Corps. The Air Force is using napalm and incendiary bombs supplied by the Chemical Corps, and its pilots are guided by colored smoke grenades used for ground-to-air signalling. The Navy also uses napalm for fire bombs. It screens amphibious operations, like the one that recently took Inchon, with floating oil smoke pots, and hides ship concentrations, ports and docks with larger smoke screens produced by Chemical Corps smoke generators. The Marines get special fuels and flame-throwers from the corps.

All these are recent products of chemical enterprise. Many of them were used in World War II. But warfare has become increasingly a chemical operation ever since the gun replaced the sword. All fire used in war, from the campfires of Caesar's legions and the Greek fire used against naval armadas to the most modern incendiary bombs, is a chemical reaction. So are all explosions not produced by nuclear fission. Chemical reactions power the internal combustion motor in ships, planes, tanks and vehicles.

Chemical Corps laboratory units now in Korea are analyzing captured materiel, supplies and equipment. The corps is operating a maintenance service in Korea on such equipment as smoke generators, flame throwers and decontamination apparatus. It is a vital part of the nation's defense set-up.

Fifty years ago, when they set off an occasional bomb, they were called anarchists. That was before Russia rechristened them communists, not caring for anything with an American origin.

How To Save On Taxes

With taxes to go up on October 1—and up again, probably, after election—bachelors will be up against the proposition of deciding which they consider the lesser of two evils. They can escape paying an income tax increase by getting married, or vice versa. If freedom is the right to choose among evils, they are still free, either way.

Those who are already married have no such choice. But if any are contemplating divorce, they may want to reconsider. The added costs of divorce because of higher taxes will soon be higher than they were. Will the budget stand it?

This rather sounds as if being happily married, from the standpoint of the tax collector, were its own reward. That isn't strictly true, though. In states which had no community-property provisions in 1948, the application of such provisions under the 1948 income tax law works decidedly to the advantage of persons who are married. There seems to be no prospect that this relative advantage will not be retained.

Over and above the usual exemptions for dependents, the community-property feature of the law enables married persons to pay lower surtax rates. In the lower brackets these provisions make relatively little difference. But for higher incomes the difference is so great that a fellow can hardly afford to be a bachelor. Thus on the expected tax increase for 1951, a bachelor with an annual income of $5,000 will save only $184 in taxes if he marries, or 19 per cent of what he would otherwise pay. But the unmarried male with an income of $20,000 will save $2,070, or 30 per cent of what he would pay. Under such circumstances perhaps it is better to marry than to be burned up over tax increases.

If proper warning is given, casualties from enemy bombing may be reduced 50 per cent, the government announces. Canasta players should make a note of this.

Signs Of Fall

Summer is merging into fall, gradually but none the less surely. To be sure, autumn has started, according to the calendar, but such things cannot be determined by hard and fast rules. According to the calendar, spring should always begin in March, but some years it is anything but cooperative.

But there are other and more reliable signs that fall is here to stay. Leaves are falling, and baseball is giving way to football. But the most definite indice of a change of season, is the ending of daylight saving time. When standard time returns, fall begins for a large segment of the population.

Autumn no longer is as important as a season as it was in an earlier day, when it meant time had arrived to stock the cellar and the woodhouse for the long winter ahead. The thrift and forehanded then prepared for months instead of days.

Some persons still do, but now the practice is termed hoarding instead of foresight. A, well—new days, new ways.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

Disinfecting Schoolrooms

SCHOOL DAYS mean more infections for children. Because of the close contact of pupils, a cold that develops in one is likely to spread like wildfire thruout the class. The same can be said of measles, mumps, chicken pox, and all other contagious diseases.

This has been a hardship not only for the pupils but also the teachers, principals, parents, and school nurses and physicians. These maladies are believed to be transmitted by infected droplets that are spewed from the mouth and nose on coughing, sneezing, talking, and singing. It is little wonder that when ultra-violet and glycol vapors were introduced as a means of purifying the air, schools were among the first to try them out. They have been used for many years but we still are not thoroly convinced of their merit.

Recently experiments were performed in three separate grammar schools in the southwest. These institutions had approximately the same attendance and were located in areas where temperature and humidity were comparable. In an effort to produce similar surroundings, the same number of windows in the rooms were left open. Samples of the air for bacterial counts were taken in regular periods of study and after the rooms had been occupied for at least 20 minutes. One of the schools was equipped with ultra-violet irradiation; another had these devices in only one-half the rooms; and the third school had none. The results demonstrated that irradiation reduced the number of organisms in the air from 12 to 71 per cent over the four years in which the survey was conducted Other studies with ultraviolet also have shown the value of irradiation.

But the bacterial count is not enough. From the practical aspect the physician wants to know, "Does irradiation prevent disease?" Several tests have been done along this line and a recent survey concludes that it is approximately 20 per cent effective in lowering the incidence of respiratory infections. This is something but we wish the percentage were higher so that the plan could be recommended more enthusiastically.

Glycol vapor also is used in air sanitation. This product is dispersed from a vaporizer and, on reaching a certain concentration in the air, will kill certain organisms. To date the procedure has passed thru the laboratory stages but reports on its efficacy in preventing disease have bten so controversial that it cannot be recommended at this time. Furthermore, the bactericidal action of these vapors depends to a great extent upon the temperature of the room and the relative humidity. In addition, there have been many differences of opinion regarding the vaporizers that are now available for dispersing glycol. There is no assurance that all those on the market are capable of maintaining a satisfactory concentration. This is one of the major drawbacks to the plan.

Virtually all of this work is being done on the assumption that respiratory infections, including colds, are transmitted thru the air. Some authorities believe that direct contact with infected secretions from the nose and throat is a more common means of dissemination. An individual with a cold, for example, contaminates his fingers whenever he handles a handkerchief, rubs his nose, or places his fingers on his lips. He deposits these organisms upon whatever he touches and whoever happens to make the same contact is likely to pick up the germs.

TOMORROW: Exercise is good but don't go beserk about it.

KIDNEY DISEASE

M. J. writes What are the symptoms of kidney trouble?

REPLY

There are many forms of kidney disease. Infections often produce fever, backache, and frequency of urination. Bright's disease usually is associated with puffiness of the face, headache, high blood pressure, and changes in vision. Tumor may not produce any symptoms except perhaps a slight rise in temperature and a feeling of malaise. Stones are the meanest of the bunch, causing unbearable colic. If you do not believe this, ask the man who owns one.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Congressman Brehm Of Ohio Pads His Payroll; The Veep Gets Kissed; Truman Tells How He Fired Louis Johnson

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — While exposing the padded payrolls of GOP Congressman Parnell Thomas of New Jersey and Democrat Victor Wickersham of Oklahoma I have overlooked another quiet operator in the Congressional kickback circle.

He is Congressman Walter Brehm, Republican, of Millersville, Ohio, who has been performing some lucrative slight-of-hand with his office payroll which the voters are entitled to know about.

For three years Brehm carried an elderly lady, Mrs. Clara Soliday, on Uncle Sam's payroll, requiring her to kick back approximately one-half her salary to him. Then, when she broke her arm at the age of 72, she was summarily dismissed, and later the Congressman's son was hired in her place. What secret arrangements exist between father and son cannot be ascertained.

What many voters do not realize is that salaries paid to a Congressman's staff are not paid by him, but by all the taxpayers. They are paid for the purpose of helping the Congressman handle the affairs of his constituents, answer mail, and attend to 101 different problems put up to him by the people back home whom he represents.

To handle these matters, each member of Congress is given government money to pay a large office staff. And if he diverts this money to his own pocket, it is, in effect, cheating the government and the taxpayers. That was why Parnell Thomas was sent to jail and why Congressman Wickersham of Oklahoma is being investigated by the FBI.

Most members of Congress in my opinion are high-type citizens who do not fudge on their payrolls; some of them, such as Senator Lehman of New York, even dip into their own pockets to pay for extra office help.

Mrs. Soliday Kicks Back

Congressman Brehm on the other hand approached Mrs. Soliday in January, 1945, and asked if she would like to work in his office for $200 a month with the understanding that she kick back the balance of her salary to him. Mrs. Soliday was from Brehm's 11th district back in Ohio, so he felt such an arrangement would be safe. She was then working for the Treasury, but since he offered her a little more than she was making, and since she did not realize that kickbacks were illegal, she accepted.

Mrs. Soliday began work on Jan. 10, 1945, as a secondary clerk at a purported salary of $375 a month. On this total amount she paid a withholding tax, as well as a regular income tax. However, she kept only the agreed $200, returning the rest to Brehm.

Sometimes she put his kickback money in an envelope, after cashing her check from the taxpayers, and delivered it directly to Brehm. Sometimes the envelope was delivered by a son, Ray Soliday, an employe of the Interstate Commerce Commission, or a daughter, also working in Washington. On one occasion, Mrs. Soliday transmitted the kickback by registered letter.

Son Gets Job

In July, 1946, Mrs. Soliday's listed salary was hiked to $529.81 a month (a net of $442.01 after the withholding tax), though she continued to receive only $200, returning the remainder to her boss. In other words, the sprious raise also went into Brehm's pocket.

This arrangement continued until Mrs. Soliday left the payroll on Jan. 31, 1948, four months after breaking her arm during a visit in Ohio. The lady was then 72 years old, and her doctor bills were heavy, but she continued to keep her bargain with Brehm. In fact, in September, 1947, before the broken arm was set, and racked with pain, she returned to Washington to deliver her monthly kickback.

Four months later this misguided loyalty was rewarded by a discharge from her job. Brehm's account of the severance was that she "fell down the stars and had to resign."

However, the Ohio Congressman did not want to terminate the Brehm family's trip on the gravy train. So, a year after Mrs. Soliday departed, a son, James F. Brehm, popped up on his father's payroll—and he's still there at a salary of $638.40 a month.

A Kiss For the Veep

There's been quite a dispute as to whether Vice President Barkley did or did not kiss Miss America. Some newspapers reported he did; others reported that he didn't. However, here is what actually happened.

When Miss America—pretty Yolande Betbeze of Mobile, Ala.—called on the Vice President, he declined to kiss her for the photographers. After the newsmen cleared, out, however, Miss America kissed and told. She confessed blushingly that Barkley had smacked her "right on the lips."

Barkley kept reporters guessing, however, by denying the whole thing to reporter Milt Berliner of the Scripps-Howard press. But in the privacy of Senate Majority Leader Scott Lucas' office, the Veep was chided by Lucas and asked for the truth. With a slight blush Barkley admitted the osculation.

"And she didn't flinch, either," chuckled the Veep.

Synthetic Rubber Politics

It was probably not love of Louey Johnson so much as apprehension of the hard-hitting Senate watchdog committee that brought the abrupt resignation of Hubert E. Howard as chairman of the Munitions Board.

Only a few insiders know it, but the committee was all set to put Howard on the hot coals for pushing the sale of government-owned synthetic rubber plants. He was scheduled to appear before Sen. Lyndon Johnson's watchdogs at 10 a. m., Tuesday, when he suddenly resigned Monday afternoon.

The committee's first report scorched Howard and his Munitions Board for lack of "a firm aggressive" rubber program.

What the report does not reveal is that when Chairman Lyndon Johnson was moving heaven and earth behind the scenes to stop the sale of a synthetic rubber plant at Akron, Howard was urging its sale.

Johnson and Truman

A friend of ex-Secretary of Defense Louey Johnson dropped in to see the President recently, and the conversation drifted around to Johnson's resignation.

"I had to let him go," the President said. "He's an egomaniac. He's psychopathic. He would tell untruths."

"It was one of the hardest things I have ever had to do," Truman continued. "He sat down here, and I told him he would have to quit. He just said, 'I don't know what to say.' I told him, 'There's nothing for you to say. You will just have to quit.'"

The President added that he knew the whole story about Johnson's knifing Acheson and playing footsie with the Republicans.

A project of friendship for Korea in memory of a gallant general who died in action will be the theme of a reunion of U. S. Veterans of the Korean war.

The U. S. Armed Forces in Korea Association, composed of the 200,000 G. I.'s who served in the Korean occupation, will gather at Fort Meade, Md., October 7, at which time a plan will be launched to help educate the children of Americans who died fighting in Korea, plus Korean students who want to study in this country. The scholarships will be dedicated to the late Maj. Gen. William Dean.

Merry-Go-Round

Only two major cities are actually putting their civil defense plans into action and working on the physical protection or dispersal of vital facilities—St. Paul and Pittsburgh. Several others, including Seattle, San Antonio and Baltimore, are drawing plans ready for use when the need is more urgent . . . . The Voice of America receives 29,000 fan letters each month from all over the world. . . . Congressman Jacob Javits of New York wants more money for America's T-bomb (truth bomb). Says Javits: "The T-bomb is as potent a peace weapon as the H-bomb is a war weapon." . . . The FBI questioned 500 persons, alerted its offices in Newark, Albany, Los Angeles, Miami, Boston, New Haven and New York City in order to trace Henry Grunewald, the long-missing wire-tap witness. Meanwhile Grunewald hid out 50 miles from Washington in the horse-and-hound country around the Plains, Virginia. . . . General MacArthur will soon reopen the secret underground headquarters used by the Japanese army and navy during the last war. MacArthur wants to have these elaborate communications centers and map rooms available in the event of war with Russia. They're carved out of the cliffs around Tokyo and the important naval base of Kyushyu. . . . U. S. Ambassador Bruce has warned the French government that 30 communists are still working in the French atomic energy project. They will have to be fired, Ambassador Bruce warned, if France wants any secret information from the United States.

U. S. Military Weakness Not Really Being Cured

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25—What happened in Korea when U. S. Air Force planes fired by mistake on British troops causing 150 casualties in 30 minutes draws attention to a scandal of neglect and blundering judgment of the U. S. Joint Chiefs of Staff and the Defense Department in the last three years that ought to be exposed fully to view.

Unfortunately for the American people it is evidently more important for congressional investigating committees to protect the Truman administration and the Democratic Party from criticism just before the elections than it is to ferret out the men who have failed to provide America with air units especially trained to coordinate ground and air operations in combat.

The facts are on the record. The story is available to any committee of Congress which has the temerity to dig it out and demand the removal from high office of the men responsible for failing to give America a tactical air force.

Congress To Blame

Much of the blame must rest on Congress itself for not having preceived the line of demarcation between strategic air forces needed for bombing factories and communications far behind the battle lines and the tactical air units which operate closely with ground troops very much as artillery does—taking out guns of the enemy, throwing down a barrage of bombs a few yards ahead of an advancing column and otherwise serving the needs of the ground soldiers. "Air support" has been loosely used in the press to describe both types of operation and this has confused the public.

As a consequence, Congress has been asleep at the switch while advocates of strategic bombing were allowed to put most of the money into the large type of planes that cannot be used for tactical air operations.

Recently General Jacob Devers, who retired as chief of America's ground armies, was quoted in an interview as saying that he did not believe the same kind of plane could be used effectively for both strategic and tactical air operations. It was General Devers who twice in the last two years appealed to the Joint Chiefs to give the army a tactical air force. He never advocated a return of the air force to the army but he did say in effect that the U. S. Air Force must not lose sight of its basic responsibility to provide enough air units that could constantly train with ground troops.

Accidents, of course, will happen when there has been no coordinated training. It was inevitable that British troops and others in Korea would be fired on by mistake. There has been too much suppression of such incidents happening with our own troops. For this kind of coordinating is a delicate operation. This very issue is one of the reasons why the Marine Corps fought such a desperate battle behind the scenes in Washington to keep its own tactical air squadrons when deliberate efforts under the guise of economy were made to abolish them. The country should get the full story of this some day when various congressmen cease being politicians and really become interested in America's defense weaknesses.

In Korea, the close coordination of the air and ground operations by the Marines has been so effective—not only at Inchon in recent days but on the Southern front—that the Army G. I.'s have been begging for the same kind of support.

Tactical Units Inadequate

Russia has built up a huge number of tactical air units to work with her ground army. If the reds march across Europe the strategic air forces now available to the allies will not be ample to do both the strategic and the tactical air job. More than $50,000,000,000 has been allocated to our armed services by the U. S. Joint Chiefs and by the Defense Department these last five years and yet America did not have a single division of army troops equipped with tactical air units of their own in the Far East or elsewhere before Korea. Nor was there a pool of tactical air units adequate for large-scale operations involving several divisions.

A special kind of training and technique is required. It is not enough to know how to fly an airplane or how to handle a bomb rack. It is necessary for airmen to be trained in ground operations so as to be able to understand directions from ground directors. To separate the air forces from the army on the strategic side was right but to separate the tactical air squadrons from the ground troops was one of the worst blunders committe in our military history—all in the name of the word "unification."

America has apologized and expressed regret to Britain. But members of Congress who have failed to check up on the blunders of the top command should be troubled in conscience today as the tragic results of their indifference and the Pentagon's blunders come into perspective with no sign that the fundamental weakness is even now really being cured.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The Election

I HAVE received a letter from Robert F. Mackness, of Richland, Wash., who writes:

"I'm in a quandary.

"I'm 28 years old and have never voted. This time I'm determined to exercise my sacred right, but am faced with the question: Who is worth a vote?

"I may be a little choosey, but that's not why I failed to vote in previous elections. I happen to be one of the Americans who lost his citizenship rights at the hands of the draft board during World War II."

Mr. Mackness lost his opportunity to vote at the polls or by an absentee ballot by misadventure during the war years and he approaches the 1950 election seriously.

But he looks about him and finds no inspiration. Who are these great men for whom he is to cast his ballot? He looks at the Democratic Party and it leaves him hopeless. He looks at the Republican Party and that does nothing for him. He says:

"If the voters are offered a choice between two people they have no confidence in, there will be a small vote, a large part of which will be thrown away on splinter parties. Then the politicians and observers will moan as usual about public apathy. . ."

It seems to me that Mr. Mackness is right. His has been a broad experience in Europe at war. He served from 1942 until 1948, a long stretch, and he witnessed the confusions of Europe after V-E Day, and, of course, our own confusions.

Such errors as the Tydings whitewash, the Acheson Asia policy, the President's remarks about the Marines, the Denham dismissal, and the Republican opposition, which is split into bickering factions, indicate a retreat from public service to an exaltation of private career.

Here, at home, it grows increasingly difficult to know how to vote. For instance, in New York, there are three serious candidates for mayor, Ferdinand Pecora, Vincent Impellitteri, and Edward Corsi. These are good citizens. Pecora and Corsi were nominated, first of all, because they are of Italian descent. Impellitteri nominated himself as a protest against a boss-ruled city. Pecora, a distinguished judge, was nominated by the Bronx boss, Ed Flynn. Impellitteri has really been the acting mayor during much of the O'Dwyer regime because of the latter's frequent vacations. Corsi is a Republican with administrative experience.

An aroused population would elect Impellitteri to show the bosses that they have had enough of all of them. But the likelihood is that they will do no such thing. They will undoubtedly elect Pecora, who is not only supported by Tammany but by the labor bosses. A combination of Flynn and Dubinsky is hard to beat.

So many will stay away from the polls and let the election go by default.

Similarly, in my district, the candidate for Congress is Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., who does not live in the district and is alien to its population. He is also alien to the House of Representatives, which he apparently finds to be a bore, because he is rarely present. His opponent cannot be elected. So, how does one vote?

Harry Truman is a President of decreasing popularity. The other day a young man got his orders to go to war. I asked him which was his service. He said: "Better than Stalin's propaganda machine." He meant, of course, the Marine Corps. He expressed the hope that he would be back in time to vote against the Commander-in-Chief. This may be a straw in the wind, forgotten by 1952. But the President does not permit the citizens long to forget his inadequacies.

Yet, the Republicans will not defeat Truman by such remarks as appear in this column. If the people have a choice between two inadequacies, they are more likely to

MATTER OF FACT

Crossing The Han

WITH THE MARINES ON THE SEOUL FRONT

NOT every major military operation, thank God, is a blood bath. And sometimes these quieter efforts tell more about people, have more of human drama, than the great crises with their cruel, simple patterns. Of such was the crossing of the Han River, which this reporter made with the men of Easy Company of one of the Marine battalions, with whom he marched from Inchon to Seoul.

The crossing of the Han was the prelude, potentially as risky as any amphibious operation, to the final attack on Seoul. The prelude to the crossing of the Han was a bitter cold night on the hard, cold ground of Kimpo Airfield, interrupted by intimations of danger and disaster.

The commander of Easy Company, Capt. Samuel Jaskilka, had been called from his brief sleep to be told that the regimental reconnaissance company had been cut to pieces, after swimming across the Han River in the dark night hours. In the pale, chilly dawn, with only this information on its stomach, Easy Company marched off to the assembly area, to board the waiting amphibious tractors.

The amtracs were lined up on either side of a road about a mile from the airfield. Capt. Jaskilka skillfully threaded his way through the inevitable muddle of any big operation and got his men aboard the huge, lumbering steel boat-vehicles. Clammy C rations were opened. The breakfasting men watched another company of the battalion pass by, headed for the river, and a beardless young marine remarked in the curious, flat, emotionless tone reserved for this subject by the men in the line: "Gee, nearly all my buddies in Dog Company have got killed."

Spot Decisions

Jaskilka and his platoon commanders went over the day's plan. "It's one of those operations," said Jaskilka, "where a lot of decisions are going to have to be made on the spot, so keep your men well under control." In the long delay that always precedes any military jump-off, gunner Sgt. Robert W. Barnet admonished the men to "for God's sake keep down and keep off the skyline." Restless in the amtracs, the men passed around North Korean surrender leaflets, laughing at the wording of the suggestion that their deaths would wound their families with "an arrow of keen pang."

Suddenly the column of amtracs bumped off toward the river—a long, hard, rough ride. Now, before it was known what was to come, was the moment of greatest tension. In this moment, very naturally if you think about it, the talk was about simple, familiar things—children and others at home, good times had and hoped for, sweethearts and wives and little houses in California beach towns. The mood lasted until the amtrac clumsily turned into the river valley itself, disclosing only broad mud flats, a wide, muddy stream, a thatched village in flames, and rice paddies and eroded hills on the other shore.

The men in the amtrac straightened from their crouched positions and abandoned the simple past in favor of more recent reminiscence

Providing opportunities for all.

He did not stop with generalities. He was specific. Nations like the United States and Australia, he said, ought to be among the first to give political and economic aid to newly-freed countries in Southeast Asia and others approaching freedom. He described this as a positive approach to block communism.

What America is doing now is largely negative. This nation is building up its military strength to oppose force with equal or greater force. Much less effort is being exerted in finding ways that will make it impossible for communism to resort to force.

If it were possible to win men's minds to believe in freedom and in the sanctity of the individual, in the free institutions that exist to preserve both, in justice under law—in all the concepts Americans hold dear—there would be no more Koreas.

Chemistry In War

The big role that chemistry plays in every role vital to the war effort was pointed out the other day by Gen. Anthony C. McAuliffe—the man who said "nuts" to the Germans at Bastogne. As chief chemical officer, Department of the Army, General McAuliffe enlarged on what Chemical Corps troops are doing in the front line in Korea.

The infantry is supporting combat operations with the 4.2 rifled mortar developed by the Chemical Corps. The Air Force is using napalm and incendiary bombs supplied by the Chemical Corps, and its pilots are guided by colored smoke grenades used for ground-to-air signalling. The Navy also uses napalm for fire bombs. It screens amphibious operations, like the one that recently took Inchon, with floating oil smoke pots, and hides ship concentrations, ports and docks with larger smoke screens produced by Chemical Corps smoke generators. The Marines get special fuels and flame-throwers from the corps.

All these are recent products of chemical enterprise. Many of them were used in World War II. But warfare has become increasingly a chemical operation ever since the gun replaced the sword. All fire used in war, from the campfires of Caesar's legions and the Greek fire used against naval armadas to the most modern incendiary bombs, is a chemical reaction. So are all explosions not produced by nuclear fission. Chemical reactions power the internal combustion motor in ships, planes, tanks and vehicles.

Chemical Corps laboratory units now in Korea are analyzing captured materiel, supplies and equipment. The corps is operating a maintenance service in Korea on such equipment as smoke generators, flame throwers and decontamination apparatus. It is a vital part of the nation's defense set-up.

Fifty years ago, when they set off an occasional bomb, they were called anarchists. That was before Russia rechristened them communists, not caring for anything with an American origin.

How To Save On Taxes

With taxes to go up on October 1—and up again, probably, after election—bachelors will be up against the proposition of deciding which they consider the lesser of two evils. They can escape paying an income tax increase by getting married, or vice versa. If freedom is the right to choose among evils, they are still free, either way.

Those who are already married have no such choice. But if any are contemplating divorce, they may want to reconsider. The added costs of divorce because of higher taxes will soon be higher than they were. Will the budget stand it?

This rather sounds as if being happily married, from the standpoint of the tax collector, were its own reward. That isn't strictly true, though. In states which had no community-property provisions in 1948, the application of such provisions under the 1948 income tax law works decidedly to the advantage of persons who are married. There seems to be no prospect that this relative advantage will not be retained.

Over and above the usual exemptions for dependents, the community-property feature of the law enables married persons to pay lower surtax rates. In the lower brackets these provisions make relatively little difference. But for higher incomes the difference is so great that a fellow can hardly afford to be a bachelor. Thus on the expected tax increase for 1951, a bachelor with an annual income of $5,000 will save only $184 in taxes if he marries, or 19 per cent of what he would otherwise pay. But the unmarried male with an income of $20,000 will save $2,070, or 30 per cent of what he would pay. Under such circumstances perhaps it is better to marry than to be buried up over tax increases.

If proper warning is given, casualties from enemy bombing may be reduced 50 per cent, the government announces. Canasta players should make a note of this.

Signs Of Fall

Summer is merging into fall, gradually but none the less surely. To be sure, autumn has started, according to the calendar, but such things cannot be determined by hard and fast rules. According to the calendar, spring should always begin in March, but some years it is anything but cooperative.

But there are other and more reliable signs that fall is here to stay. Leaves are falling, and baseball is giving way to football. But the most definite indice of a change of season, is the ending of daylight saving time. When standard time returns, fall begins for a large segment of the population.

Autumn no longer is as important as a season as it was in an earlier day, when it meant time had arrived to stock the cellar and the woodhouse for the long winter ahead. The thrift and forehanded then prepared for months instead of days.

Some persons still do, but now the practice is termed hoarding instead of foresight. A, well—new days, new ways.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

Disinfecting Schoolrooms

SCHOOL DAYS mean more infections for children. Because of the close contact of pupils, a cold that develops in one is likely to spread like wildfire thruout the class. The same can be said of measles, mumps, chicken pox, and all other contagious diseases.

This has been a hardship not only for the pupils but also the teachers, principals, parents, and school nurses and physicians. These maladies are believed to be transmitted by infected droplets that are spewed from the mouth and nose on coughing, sneezing, talking, and singing. It is little wonder that when ultra-violet and glycol vapors were introduced as a means of purifying the air, schools were among the first to try them out. They have been used for many years but we still are not thoroly convinced of their merit.

Recently experiments were performed in three separate grammar schools in the southwest. These institutions had approximately the same attendance and were located in areas where temperature and humidity were comparable. In an effort to produce similar surroundings, the same number of windows in the rooms were left open. Samples of the air for bacterial counts were taken in regular periods of study and after the rooms had been occupied for at least 20 minutes. One of the schools was equipped with ultra-violet irradiation; another had these devices in only one-half the rooms; and the third school had none. The results demonstrated that irradiation reduced the number of organisms in the air from 12 to 71 per cent over the four years in which the survey was conducted Other studies with ultraviolet also have shown the value of irradiation.

But the bacterial count is not enough. From the practical aspect the physician wants to know, "Does irradiation prevent disease?" Several tests have been done along this line and a recent survey concludes that it is approximately 20 per cent effective in lowering the incidence of respiratory infections. This is something but we wish the percentage were higher so that the plan could be recommended more enthusiastically.

Glycol vapor also is used in air sanitation. This product is dispersed from a vaporizer and, on reaching a certain concentration in the air, will kill certain organisms. To date the procedure has passed thru the laboratory stages but reports on its efficacy in preventing disease have bten so controversial that it cannot be recommended at this time. Furthermore, the bactericidal action of these vapors depends to a great extent upon the temperature of the room and the relative humidity. In addition, there have been many differences of opinion regarding the vaporizers that are now available for dispersing glycol. There is no assurance that all those on the market are capable of maintaining a satisfactory concentration. This is one of the major drawbacks to the plan.

Virtually all of this work is being done on the assumption that respiratory infections, including colds, are transmitted thru the air. Some authorities believe that direct contact with infected secretions from the nose and throat is a more common means of dissemination. An individual with a cold, for example, contaminates his fingers whenever he handles a handkerchief, rubs his nose, or places his fingers on his lips. He deposits these organisms upon whatever he touches and whoever happens to make the same contact is likely to pick up the germs.

There are many forms of kidney disease. Infections often produce fever, backache, and frequency of urination. Bright's disease usually is associated with puffiness of the face, headache, high blood pressure, and changes in vision. Tumor may not produce any symptoms except perhaps a slight rise in temperature and a feeling of malaise. Stones are the meanest of the bunch, causing unbearable colic. The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Congressman Brehm Of Ohio Pads His Payroll; The Veep Gets Kissed; Truman Tells How He Fired Louis Johnson

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — While exposing the padded payrolls of GOP Congressman Parnell Thomas of New Jersey and Democrat Victor Wickersham of Oklahoma I have overlooked another quiet operator in the Congressional kickback circle.

He is Congressman Walter Brehm, Republican, of Millersville, Ohio, who has been performing some lucrative slight-of-hand with his office payroll which the voters are entitled to know about.

For three years Brehm carried an elderly lady, Mrs. Clara Soliday, on Uncle Sam's payroll, requiring her to kick back approximately one-half her salary to him. Then, when she broke her arm at the age of 72, she was summarily dismissed, and later the Congressman's son was hired in her place. What secret arrangements exist between father and son cannot be ascertained.

What many voters do not realize is that salaries paid to a Congressman's staff are not paid by him, but by all the taxpayers. They are paid for the purpose of helping the Congressman handle the affairs of his constituents, answer mail, and attend to 101 different problems put up to him by the people back home whom he represents.

To handle these matters, each member of Congress is given government money to pay a large office staff. And if he diverts this money to his own pocket, it is, in effect, cheating the government and the taxpayers. That was why Parnell Thomas was sent to jail and why Congressman Wickersham of Oklahoma is being investigated by the FBI.

Most members of Congress in my opinion are high-type citizens who do not fudge on their payrolls; some of them, such as Senator Lehman of New York, even dip into their own pockets to pay for extra office help.

Mrs. Soliday Kicks Back

Congressman Brehm on the other hand approached Mrs. Soliday in January, 1945, and asked if she would like to work in his office for $200 a month with the understanding that she kick back the balance of her salary to him. Mrs. Soliday was from Brehm's 11th district back in Ohio, so he felt such an arrangement would be safe. She was then working for the Treasury, but since he offered her a little more than she was making, and since she did not realize that kickbacks were illegal, she accepted.

Mrs. Soliday began work on Jan. 10, 1945, as a secondary clerk at a purported salary of $375 a month. On this total amount she paid a withholding tax, as well as a regular income tax. However, she kept only the agreed $200, returning the rest to Brehm.

Sometimes she put his kickback money in an envelope, after cashing her check from the taxpayers, and delivered it directly to Brehm. Sometimes the envelope was delivered by a son, Ray Soliday, an employe of the Interstate Commerce Commission, or a daughter, also working in Washington. On one occasion, Mrs. Soliday transmitted the kickback by registered letter.

Son Gets Job

In July, 1946, Mrs. Soliday's listed salary was hiked to $529.81 a month (a net of $442.01 after the withholding tax), though she continued to receive only $200, returning the remainder to her boss. In other words, the sprious raise also went into Brehm's pocket.

This arrangement continued until Mrs. Soliday left the payroll on Jan. 31, 1948, four months after breaking her arm during a visit in Ohio. The lady was then 72 years old, and her doctor bills were heavy, but she continued to keep her bargain with Brehm. In fact, in September, 1947, before the broken arm was set, and racked with pain, she returned to Washington to deliver her monthly kickback.

Four months later this misguided loyalty was rewarded by a discharge from her job. Brehm's account of the severance was that she "fell down the stars and had to resign."

However, the Ohio Congressman did not want to terminate the Brehm family's trip on the gravy train. So, a year after Mrs. Soliday departed, a son, James F. Brehm, popped up on his father's payroll—and he's still there at a salary of $638.40 a month.

A Kiss For the Veep

There's been quite a dispute as to whether Vice President Barkley did or did not kiss Miss America. Some newspapers reported he did; others reported that he didn't. However, here is what actually happened.

When Miss America—pretty Yolande Betbeze of Mobile, Ala.—called on the Vice President, he declined to kiss her for the photographers. After the newsmen cleared, out, however, Miss America kissed and told. She confessed blushingly that Barkley had smacked her "right on the lips."

Barkley kept reporters guessing, however, by denying the whole thing to reporter Milt Berliner of the Scripps-Howard press. But in the privacy of Senate Majority Leader Scott Lucas' office, the Veep was chided by Lucas and asked for the truth. With a slight blush Barkley admitted the osculation.

"And she didn't flinch, either," chuckled the Veep.

Synthetic Rubber Politics

It was probably not love of Louey Johnson so much as apprehension of the hard-hitting Senate watchdog committee that brought the abrupt resignation of Hubert E. Howard as chairman of the Munitions Board.

Only a few insiders know it, but the committee was all set to put Howard on the hot coals for pushing the sale of government-owned synthetic rubber plants. He was scheduled to appear before Sen. Lyndon Johnson's watchdogs at 10 a. m., Tuesday, when he suddenly resigned Monday afternoon.

The committee's first report scorched Howard and his Munitions Board for lack of "a firm aggressive" rubber program.

What the report does not reveal is that when Chairman Lyndon Johnson was moving heaven and earth behind the scenes to stop the sale of a synthetic rubber plant at Akron, Howard was urging its sale.

Johnson and Truman

A friend of ex-Secretary of Defense Louey Johnson dropped in to see the President recently, and the conversation drifted around to Johnson's resignation.

"I had to let him go," the President said. "He's an egomaniac. He's psychopathic. He would tell untruths."

"It was one of the hardest things I have ever had to do," Truman continued. "He sat down here, and I told him he would have to quit. He just said, 'I don't know what to say.' I told him, 'There's nothing for you to say. You will just have to quit.'"

The President added that he knew the whole story about Johnson's knifing Acheson and playing footsie with the Republicans.

A project of friendship for Korea in memory of a gallant general who died in action will be the theme of a reunion of U. S. Veterans of the Korean war.

The U. S. Armed Forces in Korea Association, composed of the 200,000 G. I.'s who served in the Korean occupation, will gather at Fort Meade, Md., October 7, at which time a plan will be launched to help educate the children of Americans who died fighting in Korea, plus Korean students who want to study in this country. The scholarships will be dedicated to the late Maj. Gen. William Dean.

The FBI questioned 500 persons, alerted its offices in Newark, Albany, Los Angeles, Miami, Boston, New Haven and New York City in order to trace Henry Grunewald, the long-missing wire-tap witness. Meanwhile Grunewald hid out 50 miles from Washington in the horse-and-hound country around the Plains, Virginia. . . . General MacArthur will soon reopen the secret underground headquarters used by the Japanese army and navy during the last war. MacArthur wants to have these elaborate communications centers and map rooms available in the event of war with Russia. They will have to be fired, Ambassador Bruce warned, if France wants any secret information from the United States.

U. S. Military Weakness Not Really Being Cured

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25—What happened in Korea when U. S. Air Force planes fired by mistake on British troops causing 150 casualties in 30 minutes draws attention to a scandal of neglect and blundering judgment of the U. S. Joint Chiefs of Staff and the Defense Department in the last three years that ought to be exposed fully to view.

Unfortunately for the American people it is evidently more important for congressional investigating committees to protect the Truman administration and the Democratic Party from criticism just before the elections than it is to ferret out the men who have failed to provide America with air units especially trained to coordinate ground and air operations in combat.

The facts are on the record. The story is available to any committee of Congress which has the temerity to dig it out and demand the removal from high office of the men responsible for failing to give America a tactical air force.

Congress To Blame

Much of the blame must rest on Congress itself for not having preceived the line of demarcation between strategic air forces needed for bombing factories and communications far behind the battle lines and the tactical air units which operate closely with ground troops very much as artillery does—taking out guns of the enemy, throwing down a barrage of bombs a few yards ahead of an advancing column and otherwise serving the needs of the ground soldiers. "Air support" has been loosely used in the press to describe both types of operation and this has confused the public.

As a consequence, Congress has been asleep at the switch while advocates of strategic bombing were allowed to put most of the money into the large type of planes that cannot be used for tactical air operations.

Recently General Jacob Devers, who retired as chief of America's ground armies, was quoted in an interview as saying that he did not believe the same kind of plane could be used effectively for both strategic and tactical air operations. It was General Devers who twice in the last two years appealed to the Joint Chiefs to give the army a tactical air force. He never advocated a return of the air force to the army but he did say in effect that the U. S. Air Force must not lose sight of its basic responsibility to provide enough air units that could constantly train with ground troops.

Accidents, of course, will happen when there has been no coordinated training. It was inevitable that British troops and others in Korea would be fired on by mistake. There has been too much suppression of such incidents happening with our own troops. For this kind of coordinating is a delicate operation. This very issue is one of the reasons why the Marine Corps fought such a desperate battle behind the scenes in Washington to keep its own tactical air squadrons when deliberate efforts under the guise of economy were made to abolish them. The country should get the full story of this some day when various congressmen cease being politicians and really become interested in America's defense weaknesses.

In Korea, the close coordination of the air and ground operations by the Marines has been so effective—not only at Inchon in recent days but on the Southern front—that the Army G. I.'s have been begging for the same kind of support.

Tactical Units Inadequate

Russia has built up a huge number of tactical air units to work with her ground army. If the reds march across Europe the strategic air forces now available to the allies will not be ample to do both the strategic and the tactical air job. More than $50,000,000,000 has been allocated to our armed services by the U. S. Joint Chiefs and by the Defense Department these last five years and yet America did not have a single division of army troops equipped with tactical air units of their own in the Far East or elsewhere before Korea. Nor was there a pool of tactical air units adequate for large-scale operations involving several divisions.

A special kind of training and technique is required. It is not enough to know how to fly an airplane or how to handle a bomb rack. It is necessary for airmen to be trained in ground operations so as to be able to understand directions from ground directors. To separate the air forces from the army on the strategic side was right but to separate the tactical air squadrons from the ground troops was one of the worst blunders committe in our military history—all in the name of the word "unification."

America has apologized and expressed regret to Britain. But members of Congress who have failed to check up on the blunders of the top command should be troubled in conscience today as the tragic results of their indifference and the Pentagon's blunders come into perspective with no sign that the fundamental weakness is even now really being cured.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The Election

I HAVE received a letter from Robert F. Mackness, of Richland, Wash., who writes:

"I'm in a quandary.

"I'm 28 years old and have never voted. This time I'm determined to exercise my sacred right, but am faced with the question: Who is worth a vote?

"I may be a little choosey, but that's not why I failed to vote in previous elections. I happen to be one of the Americans who lost his citizenship rights at the hands of the draft board during World War II."

Mr. Mackness lost his opportunity to vote at the polls or by an absentee ballot by misadventure during the war years and he approaches the 1950 election seriously.

But he looks about him and finds no inspiration. Who are these great men for whom he is to cast his ballot? He looks at the Democratic Party and it leaves him hopeless. He looks at the Republican Party and that does nothing for him. He says:

"If the voters are offered a choice between two people they have no confidence in, there will be a small vote, a large part of which will be thrown away on splinter parties. Then the politicians and observers will moan as usual about public apathy. . ."

It seems to me that Mr. Mackness is right. His has been a broad experience in Europe at war. He served from 1942 until 1948, a long stretch, and he witnessed the confusions of Europe after V-E Day, and, of course, our own confusions.

Such errors as the Tydings whitewash, the Acheson Asia policy, the President's remarks about the Marines, the Denham dismissal, and the Republican opposition, which is split into bickering factions, indicate a retreat from public service to an exaltation of private career.

Here, at home, it grows increasingly difficult to know how to vote. For instance, in New York, there are three serious candidates for mayor, Ferdinand Pecora, Vincent Impellitteri, and Edward Corsi. These are good citizens. Pecora and Corsi were nominated, first of all, because they are of Italian descent. Impellitteri nominated himself as a protest against a boss-ruled city. Pecora, a distinguished judge, was nominated by the Bronx boss, Ed Flynn. Impellitteri has really been the acting mayor during much of the O'Dwyer regime because of the latter's frequent vacations. Corsi is a Republican with administrative experience.

An aroused population would elect Impellitteri to show the bosses that they have had enough of all of them. But the likelihood is that they will do no such thing. They will undoubtedly elect Pecora, who is not only supported by Tammany but by the labor bosses. A combination of Flynn and Dubinsky is hard to beat.

So many will stay away from the polls and let the election go by default.

Similarly, in my district, the candidate for Congress is Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., who does not live in the district and is alien to its population. He is also alien to the House of Representatives, which he apparently finds to be a bore, because he is rarely present. His opponent cannot be elected. So, how does one vote?

Harry Truman is a President of decreasing popularity. The other day a young man got his orders to go to war. I asked him which was his service. He said: "Better than Stalin's propaganda machine." He meant, of course, the Marine Corps. He expressed the hope that he would be back in time to vote against the Commander-in-Chief. This may be a straw in the wind, forgotten by 1952. But the President does not permit the citizens long to forget his inadequacies.

Yet, the Republicans will not defeat Truman by such remarks as appear in this column. If the people have a choice between two inadequacies, they are more likely to

MATTER OF FACT

Crossing The Han

WITH THE MARINES ON THE SEOUL FRONT

NOT every major military operation, thank God, is a blood bath. And sometimes these quieter efforts tell more about people, have more of human drama, than the great crises with their cruel, simple patterns. Of such was the crossing of the Han River, which this reporter made with the men of Easy Company of one of the Marine battalions, with whom he marched from Inchon to Seoul.

The crossing of the Han was the prelude, potentially as risky as any amphibious operation, to the final attack on Seoul. The prelude to the crossing of the Han was a bitter cold night on the hard, cold ground of Kimpo Airfield, interrupted by intimations of danger and disaster.

The commander of Easy Company, Capt. Samuel Jaskilka, had been called from his brief sleep to be told that the regimental reconnaissance company had been cut to pieces, after swimming across the Han River in the dark night hours. In the pale, chilly dawn, with only this information on its stomach, Easy Company marched off to the assembly area, to board the waiting amphibious tractors.

The amtracs were lined up on either side of a road about a mile from the airfield. Capt. Jaskilka skillfully threaded his way through the inevitable muddle of any big operation and got his men aboard the huge, lumbering steel boat-vehicles. Clammy C rations were opened. The breakfasting men watched another company of the battalion pass by, headed for the river, and a beardless young marine remarked in the curious, flat, emotionless tone reserved for this subject by the men in the line:

"Gee, nearly all my buddies in Dog Company have got killed."

Spot Decisions

Jaskilka and his platoon commanders went over the day's plan. "It's one of those operations," said Jaskilka, "where a lot of decisions are going to have to be made on the spot, so keep your men well under control." In the long delay that always precedes any military jump-off, gunner Sgt. Robert W. Barnet admonished the men to "for God's sake keep down and keep off the skyline." Restless in the amtracs, the men passed around North Korean surrender leaflets, laughing at the wording of the suggestion that their deaths would wound their families with "an arrow of keen pang."

Suddenly the column of amtracs bumped off toward the river—a long, hard, rough ride. Now, before it was known what was to come, was the moment of greatest tension. In this moment, very naturally if you think about it, the talk was about simple, familiar things—children and others at home, good times had and hoped for, sweethearts and wives and little houses in California beach towns. The mood lasted until the amtrac clumsily turned into the river valley itself, disclosing only broad mud flats, a wide, muddy stream, a thatched village in flames, and rice paddies and eroded hills on the other shore.

The men in the amtrac straightened from their crouched positions and abandoned the simple past in favor of more recent reminiscence

Street Work Standards Set Up By FHA

The Federal Housing Administration has set up street improvement standards as an aid to sponsors of housing developments, E. Lester Muller, state director, said yesterday, pointing out that the order includes Cumberland as well as Baltimore, Hagerstown and Frederick.

Copies of the specifications are available to engineers, builders, subdivision developers and others through the FHA office at Baltimore.

"A considerable amount of new land will need to be developed in meeting the present housing shortage," Muller pointed out.

"We believe this bulletin will be helpful to sponsors of housing developments who want to provide home sites in stable attractive areas, with street improvements suitable to the type of development planned. It will be valuable to developers in in the early planning stages, and the individual data sheets selected will be of value during the stage of letting contracts.

Worked Out By Engineers

"Technical information provided in the booklet has been worked out by FHA land planning engineers who have had long experience with residential developments. In all cases, plans and specifications for a development must conform with local regulations; where they equal or exceed standards recommended by FHA, they will be considered acceptable. Sponsors of developments should employ competent planning and engineering technicians who can develop economical plans and specifications."

The Federal Housing Administration in its mortgage insurance activities recognizes that suitable street improvements are essential to the creation of stable residential areas, Muller said. Valuations and riskratings of individual properties under FHA underwriting practice usually reflect the typical cost of street improvements suitable for the type of development under consideration and the contemplated use and maintenance.

"The owner of an individual property in a development or subdivision is vitally interested in the street improvements," Muller pointed out. "If the streets which serve his property have not been suitably improved or fall into disrepair, the individual owner cannot correct these conditions although they may seriously affect the use and value of his property. He must petition local authorities or undertake the difficult task of creating an effective property owners' maintenance or improvement association.

Can Stop Bad Conditions

"Unsatisfactory street conditions can be prevented by complete and durable installation of all street improvements simultaneously with the opening of the new residential area. Such installations not only prevent difficulties and expense which plague the home owner but facilitate acceptance of the streets for public maintenance, help create better neighborhoods, and increase the value and marketability of the property.

Local authorities are encouraged by FHA to adopt street standards and regulations of their own to assure good street improvements in all new residential areas. This is done by locally adopted subdivision regulations under which good subdivision design and assurance of suitable improvements are obtained in connection with the approval and recording of new subdivision maps. The FHA is making available to local authorities, the services of its land planning consultants to give advice on the preparation of such regulations.

Street Work Standards Set Up By FHA

The Federal Housing Administration has set up street improvement standards as an aid to sponsors of housing developments, E. Lester Muller, state director, said yesterday, pointing out that the order includes Cumberland as well as Baltimore, Hagerstown and Frederick.

Copies of the specifications are available to engineers, builders, subdivision developers and others through the FHA office at Baltimore.

"A considerable amount of new land will need to be developed in meeting the present housing shortage," Muller pointed out.

"We believe this bulletin will be helpful to sponsors of housing developments who want to provide home sites in stable attractive areas, with street improvements suitable to the type of development planned. It will be valuable to developers in in the early planning stages, and the individual data sheets selected will be of value during the stage of letting contracts.

Worked Out By Engineers

"Technical information provided in the booklet has been worked out by FHA land planning engineers who have had long experience with residential developments. In all cases, plans and specifications for a development must conform with local regulations; where they equal or exceed standards recommended by FHA, they will be considered acceptable. Sponsors of developments should employ competent planning and engineering technicians who can develop economical plans and specifications."

The Federal Housing Administration in its mortgage insurance activities recognizes that suitable street improvements are essential to the creation of stable residential areas, Muller said. Valuations and risk-ratings of individual properties under FHA underwriting practice usually reflect the typical cost of street improvements suitable for the type of development under consideration and the contemplated use and maintenance.

"The owner of an individual property in a development or subdivision is vitally interested in the street improvements," Muller pointed out. "If the streets which serve his property have not been suitably improved or fall into disrepair, the individual owner cannot correct these conditions although they may seriously affect the use and value of his property. He must petition local authorities or undertake the difficult task of creating an effective property owners' maintenance or improvement association.

Can Stop Bad Conditions

"Unsatisfactory street conditions can be prevented by complete and durable installation of all street improvements simultaneously with the opening of the new residential area. Such installations not only prevent difficulties and expense which plague the home owner but facilitate acceptance of the streets for public maintenance, help create better neighborhoods, and increase the value and marketability of the property.

Local authorities are encouraged by FHA to adopt street standards and regulations of their own to assure good street improvements in all new residential areas. This is done by locally adopted subdivision regulations under which good subdivision design and assurance of suitable improvements are obtained in connection with the approval and recording of new subdivision maps. The FHA is making available to local authorities, the services of its land planning consultants to give advice on the preparation of such regulations.

Norma Jean Lovell Becomes Bride Of Albert Gary Moler

Ceremony Takes Place In Towson

Norman M. Lovell, 13 Laing Avenue, announces the marriage of his daughter, Miss Norma Jean Lovell, to Albert Gary Moler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert G. Moler, 3920 Cranston Avenue, Baltimore, former residents of here.

The wedding ceremony was solemnized in Babcock Memorial Church, Towson, June 29 with Rev. August Wessells officiating. Mrs. Alvin Reif, Hoisington, Kans., was her cousin's matron of honor and only attendant. William Wessells served as Mr. Moler's best man.

Mrs. Moler is a graduate of Fort Hill High School, class of 1950. While in school she participated in many activities, being a member of the Fort Hill Players, and served as secretary of the group; she also was a member of the cheerleading squad, voted a member of the National Honor Society and the Verse Speaking Choir. In her senior year she was chosen Queen Football I, by popular vote of the football squad. She also was elected to be a senior attendant in the May Queen court.

Mr. Moler also is a graduate of Fort Hill High School, being a member of the class of 1948. For the past two years he has attended Towson State Teachers College, Towson. He now is employed by the Bethlehem Steel Company, at Sparrows Point.

Rev. and Mrs. Wessells entertained with an informal wedding reception honoring Mr. Moler and his bride at their home following the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Moler are now residing in Baltimore.

Norma Jean Lovell Becomes Bride Of Albert Gary Moler

Norman M. Lovell, 13 Laing Avenue, announces the marriage of his daughter, Miss Norma Jean Lovell, to Albert Gary Moler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert G. Moler, 3920 Cranston Avenue, Baltimore, former residents of here.

The wedding ceremony was solemnized in Babcock Memorial Church, Towson, June 29 with Rev. August Wessells officiating. Mrs. Alvin Reif, Hoisington, Kans., was her cousin's matron of honor and only attendant. William Wessells served as Mr. Moler's best man.

Mrs. Moler is a graduate of Fort Hill High School, class of 1950. While in school she participated in many activities, being a member of the Fort Hill Players, and served as secretary of the group; she also was a member of the cheerleading squad, voted a member of the National Honor Society and the Verse Speaking Choir. In her senior year she was chosen Queen Football I, by popular vote of the football squad. She also was elected to be a senior attendant in the May Queen court.

Mr. Moler also is a graduate of Fort Hill High School, being a member of the class of 1948. For the past two years he has attended Towson State Teachers College, Towson. He now is employed by the Bethlehem Steel Company, at Sparrows Point.

Rev. and Mrs. Wessells entertained with an informal wedding reception honoring Mr. Moler and his bride at their home following the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Moler are now residing in Baltimore.

KEEPING UP WITH

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 25 (INS) — Connie Haines, that sweet singer and swell gal, gets a headline part in "The Strip," with Mickey Mooney. Joe Pasternak closed the deal with Connie over the weekend.

Connie Haines

Lest you get the wrong idea, "The Strip" isn't about a lady doing a disrobing act. To Los Angeles and all of Southern California it's that narrow piece of county land joining Beverly Hills to Hollywood—the famed night life locale of the Mocambo, Ciro's, and dozens of other cafes.

Before reporting to MGM, Connie plays three weeks at the Copley Plaza in Boston. I might add, the MGM lot isn't new to her. She recently appeared in "Duchess of Idaho" there. By the time Connie gets here she may be Mrs. Robert M. Haven. He's the jet pilot at Hughes Aircraft.

• — • — •

Over the long distance telephone, Leo McCarey made a deal with Jose Ferrer to play the lead in "Born in a Trunk." Seems Jose, who certainly has few equals on either stage or screen, sings and dances as well as he acts.

He'll play the son of an old vaudeville couple who is brought up backstage. And watch and see what Leo McCarey does with him. I think Ferrer has the most expressive hands I have ever seen. He used them to good effect in "The Silver Whistle." I haven't yet seen "Cyrano de Bergerac.'

• — • — •

George Murphy, a solid citizen if ever there was one, was called into Dore Schary's office just before he left on a tour of 18 cities for better relations for Hollywood. He was told when he gets back he will be given an important role in "No Questions Asked," with Barry Sullivan.

While on tour George will talk about M-G-M pictures—but natch. He'll speak before several clubs, as well as newspaper editors, Chamber of Commerce heads and civic leaders. He has always done a great job for better relations, and that's why he has been sent out, both for the industry and for Leo the lion.

Deborah Kerr goes to England to visit her husband's parents as soon as she finishes "Quo Vadis" in Rome. She wants to take 2-year-old Melanie to visit Tony Bartley's mother and father. Her own mother was killed in a motor accident not long ago.

While she is there, "King Solomon's Mines" will have its premiere, and Deborah's British fans are sure to like it. There's plenty of romance, adventure and excitement, and let me say that all of this went over big at the preview in Hollywood the other eve.

• — • — •

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Don't ever think Pat De Cicco and Gussie Moran are actually cooling, even though they step out with other people. They were a happy twosome at the Windsor House.

Oscar Hammerstein is heading a drive to establish a George Gershwin theater workshop at Boston University as a memorial to the late composer. Fred Astaire, George Jessel and Jeanette MacDonald have contributed money for the project which will train students in the theater, motion pictures and radio.

Robert Young, Betty and their four girls are appearing in a short called "A Day in the Life of the Youngs." Yes, it's all for sweet charity—the March of Dimes drive.

Josephine Hull spent last week in Johns Hopkins Hospital for a complete checkup before going into a new play on Broadway.

John Carradine plans to tour the country with his own Shakespearean repertory company. What? Cape and all?

Charles Laughton starts his Biblical and Shakespearean readings tour in San Quentin Prison!

Half of Hollywood goes to Palm Springs October 18 for the opening of the new Starlight Room at the Chi Chi Cafe. The big attraction is Desi Arnaz and his band, plus a show which will include Jack Benny, who has just become a new Palm Springs resident; Lucille Ball, who will do the act she did at the screen writer's party, and Bob Hope.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

Laughter in the air.

Yes, sir, a scientist at Johns Hopkins University has just discovered laughing gas in the atmosphere high above the earth.

Maybe now we'll find out what the man in the moon has been laughing about.

But this may have a strong influence on radio and video comedy programs. The problem is how to get the studio audiences up that high.

Of course, laughing gas has long been used by dentists and doctors. This has kept the patients happy and laughing right up to the minute they get the bill.

This laughing gas may even lead to an entirely new kind of comedy show with no script and no comedian. All they have to do is spray the audience.

And they need not worry even if the laughing gas in the atmosphere gives out. To get more, all they have to do is wait for Don Wilson to exhale.

Try And Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

Cedric Adams was having a soda in a Minneapolis drugstore when a man confounded the pharmacist by demanding a concoction that would make his eyes sore and red. "You must be slightly nuts," decided he clerk. "Not at all," insisted the customer. "Do you think I want all my friends to know I don't own a television set?"

• — • — •

M. Musselman, in his amusing book, "It Took Nine Tailors," tells about the time an important studio conference called by Charlie Chaplain was interrupted by the buzzing of a particularly large and active horsefly. After missing it with several wild swipes, Chaplin lost his patience and called for a swatter. He continued the discussion, with the watter poised for action. At last the fly settled on a table directly in front of him and Chaplin tensed for the kill. Slowly he raised the swatter. Just as he was about to deliver the death blow, however, he deliberately lowered his weapon and allowed the fly to escape. "For Heaven's sake," blurted someone, "why didn't you swa it?" Chaplin shrugged his shoulders and pointed out: "It wasn't the same fly."

MIRROR OF YOUR MIND

By LAWRENCE GOULD
Consulting Psychologist

Would being rich make you "selfish"?

Answer: That depends upon what sort of "drive" led you to spend your life in piling up a fortune. The rich man who is indifferent to other people's needs and feelings probably is trying to use money to make up for other things—like love and understanding—which he has lost hope of finding, and would have been equally self-centered if he had remained poor. And the fellow who insists on stressing his superiority to those who are less "successful" feels at heart that but for his success he'd be inferior to them.

Will force keep children in order?

Answer: No, writes Dr. Percival M. Symonds in the Teachers College Review. Classroom misbehavior generally involves a neurotic effort to satisfy an emotional need (like the need to feel important) and neither punishment nor neglect will correct it. Helping a child solve his conflicts is more useful in the long run than "making him be good". If teachers and pupils face their tasks with interest and enthusiasm, and if teachers try to see their pupils' good points, not their failings, discipline will cease to be a problem.

Do nerves cause "phantom limb" pain?

Answer: Apparently not, in most cases, reports Dr. K. E. Kallio, of Copenhagen, Denmark. In sixty-eight cases in which patients complained of severe pain in limbs which had been amputated, Dr. Kallio severed the connection between the brain and the nerves that had served the lost limb. In thirty-nine cases there was no effect whatever, and in twenty-nine improvement was only temporary. Real as it is to those who suffer from it, "phantom limb" pain is presumably an emotional reaction to an injury that is still resented.

Is there a fountain of youth? Yes, says J. R. P. It's a routine that keeps your muscles and skin firm!

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

MORE and more the world is acclaiming among its most enchanting and loveliest, women who are well beyond what is technically middle age. More than one box-office favorite among the movie stars proudly baby sits with her own grandchild. Many of the most attractive models pose with their teen-age children.

Is this because ideals and standards have changed? Definitely not. What has changed is our knowledge of how to keep figures and skin looking as ageless as every woman who gives herself proper care has the right to feel.

Fountain Of Youth

The fountain of youth springs from a lithe body and firm skin. When any woman allows her muscles to become soft and her skin flabby—her age is showing. What a pity, when just ten minutes a day of an easy muscle-toning routine will keep the compliments coming her way!

Here's one which, if you are faithful to it daily, will help you accumulate beauty assets so quickly that you'll say it's almost miraculous. Almost immediately it will put a new lilt into your step and enable you to sit with the eye-filling grace that always distinguishes the young. After just a few months, your body will recapture its firmness. It will not only tighten your muscles and skin but it will give a limberness and lithesomeness to all your actions.

Ten Minutes Daily Does It!

It's not strenuous, but actually pleasant to do: Lie flat on your back on the floor with legs straight out and arms down at your side. Then tense every muscle in your body progressively. Begin with your toes. Tense them; hold for a count of five; relax.

Now move upward: Tense the ankles, hold and release; the calves, hold and relax; the thighs, hold and relax. Don't stop until you have given every muscle in your body a workout including your jaw. If you do it right, you'll feel as if you're "vibrating"—and that's good!

At first, some parts of your body may not respond, such as your back and neck, because through disuse have forgotten how to control these muscles. But you'll learn again and fast with a little practice. In the beginning, three times a day for the entire routine is enough. Work up gradually to ten times.

It's a sure cure for that foolishness called "forty-itis!"

KEEPING UP WITH HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 25 (INS) — Connie Haines, that sweet singer and swell gal, gets a headline part in "The Strip," with Mickey Mooney. Joe Pasternak closed the deal with Connie over the weekend.

Connie Haines

Lest you get the wrong idea, "The Strip" isn't about a lady doing a disrobing act. To Los Angeles and all of Southern California it's that narrow piece of county land joining Beverly Hills to Hollywood—the famed night life locale of the Mocambo, Ciro's, and dozens of other cafes.

Before reporting to MGM, Connie plays three weeks at the Copley Plaza in Boston. I might add, the MGM lot isn't new to her. She recently appeared in "Duchess of Idaho" there. By the time Connie gets here she may be Mrs. Robert M. Haven. He's the jet pilot at Hughes Aircraft.

• — • — •

Over the long distance telephone, Leo McCarey made a deal with Jose Ferrer to play the lead in "Born in a Trunk." Seems Jose, who certainly has few equals on either stage or screen, sings and dances as well as he acts.

He'll play the son of an old vaudeville couple who is brought up backstage. And watch and see what Leo McCarey does with him. I think Ferrer has the most expressive hands I have ever seen. He used them to good effect in "The Silver Whistle." I haven't yet seen "Cyrano de Bergerac.'

• — • — •

George Murphy, a solid citizen if ever there was one, was called into Dore Schary's office just before he left on a tour of 18 cities for better relations for Hollywood. He was told when he gets back he will be given an important role in "No Questions Asked," with Barry Sullivan.

While on tour George will talk about M-G-M pictures—but natch. He'll speak before several clubs, as well as newspaper editors, Chamber of Commerce heads and civic leaders. He has always done a great job for better relations, and that's why he has been sent out, both for the industry and for Leo the lion.

Deborah Kerr goes to England to visit her husband's parents as soon as she finishes "Quo Vadis" in Rome. She wants to take 2-year-old Melanie to visit Tony Bartley's mother and father. Her own mother was killed in a motor accident not long ago.

While she is there, "King Solomon's Mines" will have its premiere, and Deborah's British fans are sure to like it. There's plenty of romance, adventure and excitement, and let me say that all of this went over big at the preview in Hollywood the other eve.

• — • — •

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Don't ever think Pat De Cicco and Gussie Moran are actually cooling, even though they step out with other people. They were a happy twosome at the Windsor House.

Oscar Hammerstein is heading a drive to establish a George Gershwin theater workshop at Boston University as a memorial to the late composer. Fred Astaire, George Jessel and Jeanette MacDonald have contributed money for the project which will train students in the theater, motion pictures and radio.

Robert Young, Betty and their four girls are appearing in a short called "A Day in the Life of the Youngs." Yes, it's all for sweet charity—the March of Dimes drive.

Josephine Hull spent last week in Johns Hopkins Hospital for a complete checkup before going into a new play on Broadway.

John Carradine plans to tour the country with his own Shakespearean repertory company. What? Cape and all?

Charles Laughton starts his Biblical and Shakespearean readings tour in San Quentin Prison!

Half of Hollywood goes to Palm Springs October 18 for the opening of the new Starlight Room at the Chi Chi Cafe. The big attraction is Desi Arnaz and his band, plus a show which will include Jack Benny, who has just become a new Palm Springs resident; Lucille Ball, who will do the act she did at the screen writer's party, and Bob Hope.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

Laughter in the air.

Yes, sir, a scientist at Johns Hopkins University has just discovered laughing gas in the atmosphere high above the earth.

Maybe now we'll find out what the man in the moon has been laughing about.

But this may have a strong influence on radio and video comedy programs. The problem is how to get the studio audiences up that high.

Of course, laughing gas has long been used by dentists and doctors. This has kept the patients happy and laughing right up to the minute they get the bill.

This laughing gas may even lead to an entirely new kind of comedy show with no script and no comedian. All they have to do is spray the audience.

And they need not worry even if the laughing gas in the atmosphere gives out. To get more, all they have to do is wait for Don Wilson to exhale.

Try And Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

Cedric Adams was having a soda in a Minneapolis drugstore when a man confounded the pharmacist by demanding a concoction that would make his eyes sore and red. "You must be slightly nuts," decided he clerk. "Not at all," insisted the customer. "Do you think I want all my friends to know I don't own a television set?"

• — • — •

M. Musselman, in his amusing book, "It Took Nine Tailors," tells about the time an important studio conference called by Charlie Chaplain was interrupted by the buzzing of a particularly large and active horsefly. After missing it with several wild swipes, Chaplin lost his patience and called for a swatter. He continued the discussion, with the watter poised for action. At last the fly settled on a table directly in front of him and Chaplin tensed for the kill. Slowly he raised the swatter. Just as he was about to deliver the death blow, however, he deliberately lowered his weapon and allowed the fly to escape. "For Heaven's sake," blurted someone, "why didn't you swa it?" Chaplin shrugged his shoulders and pointed out: "It wasn't the same fly."

MIRROR OF YOUR MIND

By LAWRENCE GOULD
Consulting Psychologist

Would being rich make you "selfish"?

Answer: That depends upon what sort of "drive" led you to spend your life in piling up a fortune. The rich man who is indifferent to other people's needs and feelings probably is trying to use money to make up for other things—like love and understanding—which he has lost hope of finding, and would have been equally self-centered if he had remained poor. And the fellow who insists on stressing his superiority to those who are less "successful" feels at heart that but for his success he'd be inferior to them.

Will force keep children in order?

Answer: No, writes Dr. Percival M. Symonds in the Teachers College Review. Classroom misbehavior generally involves a neurotic effort to satisfy an emotional need (like the need to feel important) and neither punishment nor neglect will correct it. Helping a child solve his conflicts is more useful in the long run than "making him be good". If teachers and pupils face their tasks with interest and enthusiasm, and if teachers try to see their pupils' good points, not their failings, discipline will cease to be a problem.

Do nerves cause "phantom limb" pain?

Answer: Apparently not, in most cases, reports Dr. K. E. Kallio, of Copenhagen, Denmark. In sixty-eight cases in which patients complained of severe pain in limbs which had been amputated, Dr. Kallio severed the connection between the brain and the nerves that had served the lost limb. In thirty-nine cases there was no effect whatever, and in twenty-nine improvement was only temporary. Real as it is to those who suffer from it, "phantom limb" pain is presumably an emotional reaction to an injury that is still resented.

Is there a fountain of youth? Yes, says J. R. P. It's a routine that keeps your muscles and skin firm!

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

MORE and more the world is acclaiming among its most enchanting and loveliest, women who are well beyond what is technically middle age. More than one box-office favorite among the movie stars proudly baby sits with her own grandchild. Many of the most attractive models pose with their teen-age children.

Is this because ideals and standards have changed? Definitely not. What has changed is our knowledge of how to keep figures and skin looking as ageless as every woman who gives herself proper care has the right to feel.

Fountain Of Youth

The fountain of youth springs from a lithe body and firm skin. When any woman allows her muscles to become soft and her skin flabby—her age is showing. What a pity, when just ten minutes a day of an easy muscle-toning routine will keep the compliments coming her way!

Here's one which, if you are faithful to it daily, will help you accumulate beauty assets so quickly that you'll say it's almost miraculous. Almost immediately it will put a new lilt into your step and enable you to sit with the eye-filling grace that always distinguishes the young. After just a few months, your body will recapture its firmness. It will not only tighten your muscles and skin but it will give a limberness and lithesomeness to all your actions.

Ten Minutes Daily Does It!

It's not strenuous, but actually pleasant to do: Lie flat on your back on the floor with legs straight out and arms down at your side. Then tense every muscle in your body progressively. Begin with your toes. Tense them; hold for a count of five; relax.

Now move upward: Tense the ankles, hold and release; the calves, hold and relax; the thighs, hold and relax. Don't stop until you have given every muscle in your body a workout including your jaw. If you do it right, you'll feel as if you're "vibrating"—and that's good!

At first, some parts of your body may not respond, such as your back and neck, because through disuse have forgotten how to control these muscles. But you'll learn again and fast with a little practice. In the beginning, three times a day for the entire routine is enough. Work up gradually to ten times.

It's a sure cure for that foolishness called "forty-itis!"

Includes real cotton swatches to guide you. Also sketches to illustrate points. Just write to me in care of this newspaper, enclosing stamped, self-addressed return envelope and 10c in coin to help cover cost.

742 Persons Get Old Age Assistance

An average of $33.92 was paid to 742 persons who qualified for old age assistance from the State Department of Public Welfare during August. The total sum was listed at $25,169.78.

Garrett County received assistance for 307 persons, totaling $10,128.37 or an average of $32.99.

Allegany County totals show 369 families with 931 children received help under the aid to dependent children program. The payments amounted to $25,657.73 for an average per family of $69.53 and per child of $27.56. Twenty were added to the rolls during the month.

Garrett County aid went to 127 families and 369 children, totaling $9,267.22 for an average of $72.97 per family and $25.11 a child.

Twenty six blind persons received aid in Allegany. The payments totaled $942.95 and averaged $36.27. In Garrett County paymen's to five blind persons amounted to $229.61 or an average of $45.92.

In its summary of cases receiving payments from general public assistance funds, the department listed 264 persons with payments of $9,036.04, averaging $34.23. Twenty-eight applicants were received, nine added and two cancelled. Children for whom payments were made totaled 52. Savings Account Coverage Hiked

Announcement was made yesterday by officials of Allegany county banks and the First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Cumberland that effective immediately federal insurance coverage will be provided on all savings accounts up to $10,000. The previous maximum coverage was $5,000.

The increased coverage follows the signing into law by President Truman of legislation boosting protection of savings accounts in banks insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation and for savings accounts in savings and loan associations insured by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporations.

Nine-Foot Man Is Still Growing

LONDON, (INS) — Twenty - six year old Ted Evans of Englefield, Green, County Surrey, is a very unhappy man.

He just cannot stop growing. Standing 9 feet 3½ inches in his stocking feet at latest check, he is said to be the world's tallest man.

"I have grown six inches since January," said Ted today, "I am still growing. I can feel it. Where is it all going to end?"

Ted is finding life none too easy. The only things he can buy not made to measure are collar studs and shoe laces. Specially tailored suits, made with difficulty and at great expense, are too small within a few months.

Travelling is also difficult for Ted. There is no comfort for him on a bus, and his head catches the parcels rack when he sits in a train. Hotels have no beds to fit him, and he must sleep on the floor.

In 1947 Ted only stood seven feet 7 inches tall, and doctors then told him: "We are afraid you will keep growing until you are eight feet."

That was 20½ inches ago.

Trust Building Offices Robbed

City police last night were investigating the report that four offices in the Liberty Trust Company building were entered and "considerable money" taken "probably Sunday night."

Detective Thomas J. See listed the places entered as:

Cumberland Credit Bureau, All States Life Insurance Company, Quaker City Life Insurance Company and the Cumberland Improvement Company. All are located on the upper floors of the building at the intersection of Baltimore and Centre Streets.

Entrance was gained to each office by using a pinch bar to force the doors, Detective See said. The four companies were taking inventory yesterday before listing their losses for police.

Savings Account Coverage Hiked

Announcement was made yesterday by officials of Allegany county banks and the First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Cumberland that effective immediately federal insurance coverage will be provided on all savings accounts up to $10,000. The previous maximum coverage was $5,000.

The increased coverage follows the signing into law by Persident Truman of legislation boosting protection of savings accounts in banks insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation and for savings accounts in savings and loan associations insured by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporations.

Nine-Foot Man Is Still Growing

LONDON, (INS) — Twenty - six year old Ted Evans of Englefield, Green, County Surrey, is a very unhappy man.

He just cannot stop growing. Standing 9 feet 3½ inches in his stocking feet at latest check, he is said to be the world's tallest man.

"I have grown six inches since January," said Ted today, "I am still growing, I can feel it. Where is it all going to end?"

Ted is finding life none too easy. The only things he can buy not made to measure are collar studs and shoe laces. Specially tailored suits, made with difficulty and at great expense, are too small within a few months.

Travelling is also difficult for Ted. There is no comfort for him on a bus, and his head catches the parcels rack when he sits in a train. Hotels have no beds to fit him, and he must sleep on the floor.

In 1947 Ted only stood seven feet 7 inches tall, and doctors then told him: "We are afraid you will keep growing until you are eight feet."

That was 20½ inches ago.

Trust Building Offices Robbed

City police last night were investigating the report that four offices in the Liberty Trust Company building were entered and "considerable money" taken "probably Sunday night."

Detective Thomas J. See listed the places entered as:

Cumberland Credit Bureau, All States Life Insurance Company, Quaker City Life Insurance Company and the Cumberland Improvement Company. All are located on the upper floors of the building at the intersection of Baltimore and Centre Streets.

Entrance was gained to each office by using a pinch bar to force the doors, Detective See said. The four companies were taking inventory yesterday before listing their losses for police.

Giants Jolt Dodgers 4-3 After Being Eliminated

New York Loses, 3-2, Maglie Cops Second

NEW YORK, Sept. 25 (INS) — The New York Giants, eliminated from the National League pennant race in the afternoon, came back tonight to deal a lethal blow to Brooklyn's chances when they downed the Dodgers, 4 to 3, in a wild thriller at Ebbets Field.

The Dodgers had downed the Giants, 3 to 2, in the afternoon part of a day-night twin bill. But the Durochermen came from behind with three runs in the eighth inning of the arclight contest to snap Brooklyn's seven-game winning streak.

The loss also dropped the Dodgers five games behind the Phillies, who also split a pair with the Braves. Box.

Little League To Honor Champs, And Top Players

The most valuable players of the eight teams in the Cumberland Dapper Dan Club's Little Baseball League will be presented awards at the Strand Theatre tonight between 9 and 9:15 p. m., it was announced last night by Peter J. Carpenti.

Trophies also will be presented to the 18 members of Manager Robert V. "Sparky" Chisholm's Tigers who won the league championship by winning three straight games from the Red Sox in the series between Dapper and Dan Division winners.

Carpenti announced that the Dapper Dan Club also wil' present $150 to the Allegany League for Crippled Children at tonight's exercises.

Members of the Little League will be guests of the Strand management at tonight's show.

Heintzelman Scores 12-4 Win In Opener

BOSTON, Sept. 25 (AP)—Pitcher Max Surkont spoiled Jim Konstanty's record-tying 70th relief job today with a game-winning single that gave Boston a 5-3 second game victory and an even break with the league-leading Philadelphia Phillies. Ken Heintzelman pitched the Phils to a 12-4 first game win behind an 18-hit attack.

The split left the Phillies with a 4½ game lead over the second-place Brooklyn Dodgers. The Phils need any combination of five wins or Brooklyn defeats to clinch their first pennant since 1915. Brooklyn, an afternoon winner over New York plays the second game of the day-night doubleheader tonight.

Boston saved itself from mathematic elimination by pulling out the second game with two runs in the eighth inning. Surkont's single broke a 3-3 tie, scoring pinch runner Sibby Sisti. Then Gene Mauch added a double that scored pinch hitter Willard Marshall.

It was Konstanty's sixth loss after 16 wins. His appearance tied the modern major league mark of 70 games pitched, set by Ace Adams of the Giants in 1943. Box:

NEARS AL BATTING TITLE—Billy Goodman, shown above, lost his Boston Red Sox first base job to rookie Walt Dropo early this year but he's the toast of Beantown today as he leads the American League hitters with an average of .355 with only eight games to go before the end of the season. Billy has not only pounded the ball but he has filled in very capably in various infield and outfield posts.

THOMAS, W. Va., Sept. 25—Coach Johnny Paugh's Moorefield High School Yellow Jackets crashed the win column for the first time in three starts this season by defeating Thomas High School here today by the score of 25-6.

The game was postponed from last Friday on account of wet grounds.

The Hardy Countians scored in every period but the second and Bobby Wilson, right halfback, accounted for three of the visitors' four touchdowns. The other six-pointer was registered by Eugene Whetzel and the extra point was made by Kenny Vance.

Moorefield was penalized for unnecessary roughness in the final quarter and the ball was moved to the Jackets' one-yard line from where Danny Gennantino scored to avert a shutout for the home team.

The Yellow Jackets rolled up 378 yards rushing while Thomas picked up 81 yards on five completed aerials and 140 yards on the ground. The winners completed only one of nine passes for eight yards. Lineups:

Williams-Salas Fight Postponed

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25 (AP) — A scheduled non-title 10-round outdoor bout tonight between lightweight champ Ike Williams and Charley Salas was postponed today until tomorrow because of cold weather.

Matchmaker Gabe Mendendez announced the postponement at a weighing in ceremony. He said the bout would be held tomorrow night at Griffith Stadium if the weather permits.

The temperature then was 58 degrees, with a drop to 48 tonight predicted. Warmer weather was forecast for tomorrow.

Navy-Maryland Game Is Reported Sellout

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Sept. 25 (AP) — Saturday's Navy-Maryland football game is a sellout.

The contest will be the first played in Maryland's new 47,000-seat stadium.

The university announced tonight that it has disposed of the last batch of end stand tickets.

It is a game many Marylanders have been waiting to see for the last 16 years.

The two schools, which have dominated football in this area for many years, have not played each other since 1934. Navy won that one, 16-13.

Oma Gets Nod

BUFFALO, N. Y., Sept. 25 (AP)—Lee Oma won a unanimous decision over Bob Satterfield tonight in a fast heavyweight battle that had the crowd of 8,000 shouting through all 10 rounds.

Oma, the Buffalo adonis who weighed 194½, carried the fight to the Chicago negro who at 181½ was trying to duplicate his knockout win over Oma last May.

Red Sox Score Double Shutout Over Athletics

Parnell And Taylor Bag 8-0, 3-0 Wins

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 25 (AP)—The Boston Red Sox may not win the 1950 American League pennant, but they'll long remember a cold, raw day in September, when two of their pitchers turned in performances almost unheard of from their hurlers—a doubleheader shut out.

Lefty Mel Parnell and newcomer Harry Taylor today turned back the last place Philadelphia Athletics 8 to 0 and 3 to 0.

Only 1,773 braver than wise fans huddled in Shiber Park to see Manager Steve O'Neill's Bostonians keep alive their slim mathematical chance of copping the junior circuit flag. When frozen fingers and frosted faces were finally carried back into the clubhouse, the Red Sox found themselves still third and at least four games behind the league leading New York Yankees, with six games remaining to play.

Parnell, the classy left hander, started off the eventful day for Boston by turning Back Connie Mack's hapless band, 8 to 0, on three hits. He picked up his 18th victory of the season against nine defeats to snap a four game Boston losing streak which virtually blasted the Sox pennant hopes.

Parnell walked two and struck out three in chalking up his 10th straight win over Philadelphia teams since 1948.

In the second game, Boston trotted out Talyor for whom they recently paid Brooklyn a reported $50,000 to acquire from St. Paul, in the American Association.

Only Paul Lehner and Eddie Joost—in the first and second innings—nicked Taylor for hits. The right hander faced 32 batters and retired the last 15 men in order. Meanwhile, the Boston sluggers rapped little Bobby Shantz for four hits and two runs in the third inning. Dom DiMaggio and Johnny Pesky singled short right for one run. Vern Stephens, whose fielding support bordered on the sensational, doubled home a second tally. Box:

Louis, Charles Finish Training

Both Predict They'll Win Via K.O. Route

NEW YORK, Sept. 25 (AP)—Both Joe Louis and Ezzard Charles completed serious training today for Wednesday night's heavyweight title fight at Yankee Stadium.

Each banged his sparring partners around for a final four rounds, issued a pre-battle statement expressing confidence in his ring destiny and wrapped it up until they face each other under the lights.

Each plans to "taper off" at his camp tomorrow. Charles, the N.B.A.—recognized world champion, expects to spend tomorrow night at a local hotel, while Louis, cast in the strange role of challenger, will motor in from Pompton Lakes, N. J., only in time for the weigh-in at noon on Wednesday.

"I expect to win by a knockout somewhere before the end of the 15th round," said Louis. "I won't try to call the round."

The 36-year-old negro who held the crown for nearly 12 years before "retiring" on March 1, last year, has looked great in his closing workouts.

Charles, the sharpshooter from Cincinnati, remained calmly certain that he packs the implements needed to chop the old champion down to his size.

"I'll knock out Louis," he said, "To prove that a man can't lend me his title and hope to take it back."

He's talked that way ever since he pitched his training camp up at South Fallsburg, N. Y., studiously ignoring the odds of approximately 2 to 1 quoted against him.

Allie Reynolds Chalks Up 15th Win In Opener

Cherokee Victor, 8-3, Ford Cops 2nd, 7-4, Mize Wallops Homer

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK, Sept. 25 (AP)—The Yankees did everything but announce their opening world series pitcher today as they battered the fifth-place Washington Senators twice at the stadium, 8-3 and 7-4, in two typical Bomber performances.

That just about did it. In running their home stretch victory streak to five, the World Champions lengthened their lead over the idle Detroit Tigers to three and one-half games, and that appears too many at this late stage.

The so-called "magic" number was reduced to four. That is, the Yanks with six games remaining on their calendar, can clinch the flag by winning four. Or any combination of Yankee victories and Detroit defeats adding up to four will serve the same purpose. Three Yank wins erase Boston.

It was not for want of trying that the Senators failed to stem the Yankee vicory surge today. Bucky Harris, their manager, has no love for the club which fired him two years ago, and he had his athletes keyed up for this one.

But it wasn't enough. Even though Mickey Vernon, their tall first baseman, walloped two home runs off young Eddie Ford in the second game, the Nats could not match the combination of sustained hitting and sudden explosive power exhibited by Casey Stengel's wrecking crew.

In the opener the champs rattled 15 hits all over the outfield grass, and 14 of them were singles. It was not a spectacular display, exactly, but it served to give Allie Reynolds his 15th win of the year. Staked to a 7-3 lead in the first five frames, the Cherokee never weavered.

Clipper Clears Bases

The second game, by contrast, was over all of a sudden. Joe DiMaggio came to bat in the third inning with one out, the bases loaded and the Nats leading 2-0 by virtue of Vernon's first four-master.

The Clipper socked a double down the left field line to clear the decks.

Next to face lefthanded Bob Kuzava was big Jawn Mize. The gigantic Georgian unloaded his 24th home run of the year into the far distant right field seats. The Yanks made a couple more runs after that, but they were strictly an afterthought. The 20,238 chilled customers had seen what they paid their money for. Box:

"Skip" Alexander Is Reported Doing Fine

EVANSVILLE, Ind., Sept. 25 (AP)—Stewart (Skip) Alexander, professional tourney golfer, was fighting a winning battle today against severe injuries he suffered last night in a plane crash that killed three Civil Air Patrol officers.

Deaconess Hospital reported the lean athlete, whose home is in Lexington, N. C., "is doing fine, considering the nature of his injuries."

Alexander was listed as "serious" with third-degree burns on the arms, face and upper body and a broken left leg.

The golfer had hitched a ride in the CAP plane from Olathe, Kans., to Louisville after finishing sixth Sunday in the $15,000 Kansas City Open Golf Tournament. It crashed in railroad yards a quarter-mile from the Evansville Municipal Airport.

Patsy Cline, 58, Ex-Fighter, Dies

NEWARK, N. J., Sept. 25 (AP)—Patsy Kline, 58, onetime featherweight boxer who four times fought for the championship, died today of a heart ailment.

A hard hitting fighter, Kline fought in the early part of the century. During his seven years in the ring he met Johnny Dundee, Benny Leonard, Young Britt, Johnny Kilbane and Abe Attell, who was then featherweight champion.

After his boxing days, Kline, who was born Patsy Gengro, became a referee and later a tavern owner. He was a native of Italy.

Ewell Blackwell, Reds' Mound Ace, Loses Appendix

CINCINNATI, Sept. 25. (AP) — An attack of appendicitis did today what other National League baseball clubs haven't been able to accomplish—halt the late season hot pitching streak by Ewell Blackwell of the Cincinnati Reds.

Blackwell became ill last night while he and his teammates were enroute from Pittsburgh to St. Louis. He was removed from the train in Indianapolis, brought here by ambulance and promptly underwent an operation for removal of the appendix.

Dr. Reed Shank, who performed the operation, said there were "no complications." Several hours later hospital attaches reported the hurler's condition was "fairly good."

County League Game Halted By Darkness

Darkness halted the third and deciding game of the County Softball League series between Potomac Valley's Cubs and Wellersburg yesterday and arrangements were made to replay the contest Wednesday at 4:30 p. m. at Wellersburg.

Wellersburg held a 4-1 lead at the close of the 4th frame when darkness brought a halt to hostilities yesterday. The pitchers were Frank Toler for Wellersburg and Hayden Phillips for Potomac Valley.

Charley O'Baker homered for Wellersburg with one aboard in the 4th.

The winner of the Wellersburg-Potomac Valley series will battle it out with LaVale for the title.

Roman Picks Louis — 4 Locals With Rams

Tie Games Are Rare — Bill Bradley Ailing

By C. V. BURNS

Gene Roman, former Cumberlander who is now in the wholesale grocery business at Paterson, N. J., and is a boxing referee for the State of New Jersey, drops a few lines to say that he's picking Joe Louis to whip Ezzard Charles in the heavyweight title match at Yankee Stadium tomorrow night.

Roman sends along a clipping from a Paterson newspaper in which he is pictured with Joe Louis, Robert Williams, former Princeton boxing coach, and Sports Editor Ed Harvey, who has been with the Paterson Call for 52 years. One picture shows the quartet in 1939 and the other in 1950 and the photos are entitled "Then and Now."

"Who said you can't grow hair?" Gene asks.

Roman is a regular visitor at Louis' camp at Pompton Lakes. Gene says:

"Louis is really in condition. One thing we can't figure out he is easy to hit but when he opens up the sparring partners really go for cover. He has slowed up a little but his legs are good.

"Spoke with Joe yesterday and he feels the fight will not go the limit and should win by a knockout or TKO. I have not seen Charles work but I am not taking him too cheap.

"I'll be at the ringside and from there will leave for my vacation. Hope to see you Thursday or Friday. Am picking Joe to win. I like a puncher."

Edgar "Barney" Tucker and Larry McKenzie, who excelled in track and football at Fort Hill several years ago, will be in the backfield, and Willard Robertson and Olin Yoder, ex-Allegany athletes, will be on the line when Coach Don Phillips' Shepherd College Rams invade Keyser on Friday to do battle with Potomac State's Catamounts in the latter's Homecoming Game.

Tucker and McKenzie starred for the Rams last year. As freshmen the two were outstanding in every game. They were two of the 10 leading ground gainers in the state conference. "Barney" is right halfback and Larry is fullback. Robertson is slated to start at left end and Yoder at left tackle.

Shepherd spilled the Catamounts 19-6 last year and last week opened the 1950 grid by battling West Virginia Tech, undefeated conference champions of 1949, to a scoreless tie. Tech warped Potomac, 43-14, in the final game last season.

Don Decker, Fort Hill's place-kicking star who hung up a city record last year, made his bow with the Maryland Freshmen on Saturday and blew his first try for the extra point at College Park. His kick split the uprights the second time, however, as the Little Terps defeated William and Mary Frosh, 13-7.

St. John's, the Christian Brothers School of Washington, D. C., where Brother Clement, formerly of LaSalle is principal, must have a powerhouse on the gridiron this season. The Cadets steam-rolled Randolph-Macon Academy at Front Royal, Va., Saturday, 64-6. St. John's meets LaSalle in home-and-home basketball games.

Tie football games seem to be a rare article in the tri-state area.

LaSalle was the only team among 16 scholastic and collegiate elevens in the area to figure in one last year and that was a 13-13 affair with Johnstown Catholic.

Petersburg's 12-12 deadlock with Strasburg (Va.) on Friday is the first of the current season.

There hasn't been a scoreless tie game played by a district team since mid-season 1948 when Ridgeley and Keyser went on a one-day goose egg diet.

Pat O'Brien, the Midland (Md.) jockey, grabbed the spotlight at Wheeling the other day when he won with Talcum Spray, a 14-1 shot, over Annie's Dream, one-time ace of the half milers. The winner paid $32, $15.80 and $7.60.

• — • — •

As the Wheeling race meet goes into its final week, Jockey Jack Haycock needs only three more winners to establish a new track record. He's got 66 now. Jimmy Baird, who topped 'em all at Fairgo this year, hung to the record of 68 at Wheeling several years ago.

City Rec League Meets Tomorrow

An important meeting of representatives from all teams in the City Recreation Softball League will be held Wednesday at 8 p. m. at the City Hall auditorium.

It is very urgent that each team be represented.

Final arrangements will be made for the annual banquet. Representatives will be expected to have their division all-star selections and their choice of the league's most valuable player.

Trinity And Central Set Pace In League

Trinity Methodist and Central Methodist remained tied for first place in the City Church Bowling League by sweeping three games each last night.

Trinity Methodist won three via the forfeit route from Trinity Lutheran while Central Methodist defeated St. Luke's. St. John's topped St. Paul's, Centre Street downed Emmanuel Episcopal and Grace Methodist won over Second Baptist by 2-1 margins.

High scorers included:

Ray Light, Trinity, 468; C. Dickerhoof, St. Luke's 433; J. Shriver, Central 449; G. Williams, St. Paul's 479; C. Davis, St. John's 454; Cessna, Centre Street, 365; Virgil Bishop, Emmanuel, 360; John Hull, Grace, 437; Bob Grove, Second Baptist 392.

The standings:

Trinity Methodist 7-2, Central Methodist 7-2, St. Luke's Lutheran 6-3, St. John's Lutheran 6-3, Grace Methodist 5-4, Emmanuel Methodist 4-5, St. Paul's Lutheran 4-5, Second Baptist 1-8, Trinity Lutheran 0-9.

Giants Jolt Dodgers 4-3 After Being Eliminated

New York Loses, 3-2, Maglie Cops Second

NEW YORK, Sept. 25 (INS) — The New York Giants, eliminated from the National League pennant race in the afternoon, came back tonight to deal a lethal blow to Brooklyn's chances when they downed the Dodgers, 4 to 3, in a wild thriller at Ebbets Field.

The Dodgers had downed the Giants, 3 to 2, in the afternoon part of a day-night twin bill. But the Durochermen came from behind with three runs in the eighth inning of the arclight contest to snap Brooklyn's seven-game winning streak.

The loss also dropped the Dodgers five games behind the Phillies, who also split a pair with the Braves. Box.

Trophies also will be presented to the 18 members of Manager Robert V. "Sparky" Chisholm's Tigers who won the league championship by winning three straight games from the Red Sox in the series between Dapper and Dan Division winners.

Carpenti announced that the Dapper Dan Club also wil' present $150 to the Allegany League for Crippled Children at tonight's exercises.

Members of the Little League will be guests of the Strand management at tonight's show.

Heintzelman Scores 12-4 Win In Opener

BOSTON, Sept. 25 (AP)—Pitcher Max Surkont spoiled Jim Konstanty's record-tying 70th relief job today with a game-winning single that gave Boston a 5-3 second game victory and an even break with the league-leading Philadelphia Phillies. Ken Heintzelman pitched the Phils to a 12-4 first game win behind an 18-hit attack.

The split left the Phillies with a 4½ game lead over the second-place Brooklyn Dodgers. The Phils need any combination of five wins or Brooklyn defeats to clinch their first pennant since 1915. Brooklyn, an afternoon winner over New York plays the second game of the day-night doubleheader tonight.

Boston saved itself from mathematic elimination by pulling out the second game with two runs in the eighth inning. Surkont's single broke a 3-3 tie, scoring pinch runner Sibby Sisti. Then Gene Mauch added a double that scored pinch hitter Willard Marshall.

It was Konstanty's sixth loss after 16 wins. His appearance tied the modern major league mark of 70 games pitched, set by Ace Adams of the Giants in 1943. Box:

NEARS AL BATTING TITLE—Billy Goodman, shown above, lost his Boston Red Sox first base job to rookie Walt Dropo early this year but he's the toast of Beantown today as he leads the American League hitters with an average of .355 with only eight games to go before the end of the season. Billy has not only pounded the ball but he has filled in very capably in various infield and outfield posts.

THOMAS, W. Va., Sept. 25—Coach Johnny Paugh's Moorefield High School Yellow Jackets crashed the win column for the first time in three starts this season by defeating Thomas High School here today by the score of 25-6.

The game was postponed from last Friday on account of wet grounds.

The Hardy Countians scored in every period but the second and Bobby Wilson, right halfback, accounted for three of the visitors' four touchdowns. The other six-pointer was registered by Eugene Whetzel and the extra point was made by Kenny Vance.

Moorefield was penalized for unnecessary roughness in the final quarter and the ball was moved to the Jackets' one-yard line from where Danny Gennantino scored to avert a shutout for the home team.

The Yellow Jackets rolled up 378 yards rushing while Thomas picked up 81 yards on five completed aerials and 140 yards on the ground. The winners completed only one of nine passes for eight yards. Lineups:

Williams-Salas Fight Postponed

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25 (AP) — A scheduled non-title 10-round outdoor bout tonight between lightweight champ Ike Williams and Charley Salas was postponed today until tomorrow because of cold weather.

Matchmaker Gabe Mendendez announced the postponement at a weighing in ceremony. He said the bout would be held tomorrow night at Griffith Stadium if the weather permits.

The temperature then was 58 degrees, with a drop to 48 tonight predicted. Warmer weather was forecast for tomorrow.

Navy-Maryland Game Is Reported Sellout

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Sept. 25 (AP) — Saturday's Navy-Maryland football game is a sellout.

The contest will be the first played in Maryland's new 47,000-seat stadium.

The university announced tonight that it has disposed of the last batch of end stand tickets.

It is a game many Marylanders have been waiting to see for the last 16 years.

The two schools, which have dominated football in this area for many years, have not played each other since 1934. Navy won that one, 16-13.

Oma Gets Nod

BUFFALO, N. Y., Sept. 25 (AP)—Lee Oma won a unanimous decision over Bob Satterfield tonight in a fast heavyweight battle that had the crowd of 8,000 shouting through all 10 rounds.

Oma, the Buffalo adonis who weighed 194½, carried the fight to the Chicago negro who at 181½ was trying to duplicate his knockout win over Oma last May.

Red Sox Score Double Shutout Over Athletics

Parnell And Taylor Bag 8-0, 3-0 Wins

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 25 (AP)—The Boston Red Sox may not win the 1950 American League pennant, but they'll long remember a cold, raw day in September, when two of their pitchers turned in performances almost unheard of from their hurlers—a doubleheader shut out.

Lefty Mel Parnell and newcomer Harry Taylor today turned back the last place Philadelphia Athletics 8 to 0 and 3 to 0.

Only 1,773 braver than wise fans huddled in Shiber Park to see Manager Steve O'Neill's Bostonians keep alive their slim mathematical chance of copping the junior circuit flag. When frozen fingers and frosted faces were finally carried back into the clubhouse, the Red Sox found themselves still third and at least four games behind the league leading New York Yankees, with six games remaining to play.

Parnell, the classy left hander, started off the eventful day for Boston by turning Back Connie Mack's hapless band, 8 to 0, on three hits. He picked up his 18th victory of the season against nine defeats to snap a four game Boston losing streak which virtually blasted the Sox pennant hopes.

Parnell walked two and struck out three in chalking up his 10th straight win over Philadelphia teams since 1948.

In the second game, Boston trotted out Talyor for whom they recently paid Brooklyn a reported $50,000 to acquire from St. Paul, in the American Association.

Only Paul Lehner and Eddie Joost—in the first and second innings—nicked Taylor for hits. The right hander faced 32 batters and retired the last 15 men in order. Meanwhile, the Boston sluggers rapped little Bobby Shantz for four hits and two runs in the third inning. Dom DiMaggio and Johnny Pesky singled short right for one run. Vern Stephens, whose fielding support bordered on the sensational, doubled home a second tally. Box:

"Skip" Alexander Is Reported Doing Fine

EVANSVILLE, Ind., Sept. 25 (AP)—Stewart (Skip) Alexander, professional tourney golfer, was fighting a winning battle today against severe injuries he suffered last night in a plane crash that killed three Civil Air Patrol officers.

Deaconess Hospital reported the lean athlete, whose home is in Lexington, N. C., "is doing fine, considering the nature of his injuries."

Alexander was listed as "serious" with third-degree burns on the arms, face and upper body and a broken left leg.

The golfer had hitched a ride in the CAP plane from Olathe, Kans., to Louisville after finishing sixth Sunday in the $15,000 Kansas City Open Golf Tournament. It crashed in railroad yards a quarter-mile from the Evansville Municipal Airport.

Patsy Cline, 58, Ex-Fighter, Dies

NEWARK, N. J., Sept. 25 (AP)—Patsy Kline, 58, onetime featherweight boxer who four times fought for the championship, died today of a heart ailment.

A hard hitting fighter, Kline fought in the early part of the century. During his seven years in the ring he met Johnny Dundee, Benny Leonard, Young Britt, Johnny Kilbane and Abe Attell, who was then featherweight champion.

After his boxing days, Kline, who was born Patsy Gengro, became a referee and later a tavern owner. He was a native of Italy.

Louis, Charles Finish Training

Both Predict They'll Win Via K.O. Route

NEW YORK, Sept. 25 (AP)—Both Joe Louis and Ezzard Charles completed serious training today for Wednesday night's heavyweight title fight at Yankee Stadium.

Each banged his sparring partners around for a final four rounds, issued a pre-battle statement expressing confidence in his ring destiny and wrapped it up until they face each other under the lights.

Each plans to "taper off" at his camp tomorrow. Charles, the N.B.A.—recognized world champion, expects to spend tomorrow night at a local hotel, while Louis, cast in the strange role of challenger, will motor in from Pompton Lakes, N. J., only in time for the weigh-in at noon on Wednesday.

"I expect to win by a knockout somewhere before the end of the 15th round," said Louis, "I won't try to call the round."

The 36-year-old negro who held the crown for nearly 12 years before "retiring" on March 1, last year, has looked great in his closing workouts.

Charles, the sharpshooter from Cincinnati, remained calmly certain that he packs the implements needed to chop the old champion down to his size.

"I'll knock out Louis," he said, "To prove that a man can't lend me his title and hope to take it back."

He's talked that way ever since he pitched his training camp up at South Fallsburg, N. Y., studiously ignoring the odds of approximately 2 to 1 quoted against him.

Allie Reynolds Chalks Up 15th Win In Opener

Cherokee Victor, 8-3, Ford Cops 2nd, 7-4, Mize Wallops Homer

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK, Sept. 25 (AP)—The Yankees did everything but announce their opening world series pitcher today as they battered the fifth-place Washington Senators twice at the stadium, 8-3 and 7-4, in two typical Bomber performances.

That just about did it. In running their home stretch victory streak to five, the World Champions lengthened their lead over the idle Detroit Tigers to three and one-half games, and that appears too many at this late stage.

The so-called "magic" number was reduced to four. That is, the Yanks with six games remaining on their calendar, can clinch the flag by winning four. Or any combination of Yankee victories and Detroit defeats adding up to four will serve the same purpose. Three Yank wins erase Boston.

It was not for want of trying that the Senators failed to stem the Yankee vicory surge today. Bucky Harris, their manager, has no love for the club which fired him two years ago, and he had his athletes keyed up for this one.

But it wasn't enough. Even though Mickey Vernon, their tall first baseman, walloped two home runs off young Eddie Ford in the second game, the Nats could not match the combination of sustained hitting and sudden explosive power exhibited by Casey Stengel's wrecking crew.

In the opener the champs rattled 15 hits all over the outfield grass, and 14 of them were singles. It was not a spectacular display, exactly, but it served to give Allie Reynolds his 15th win of the year. Staked to a 7-3 lead in the first five frames, the Cherokee never weavered.

Clipper Clears Bases

The second game, by contrast, was over all of a sudden. Joe DiMaggio came to bat in the third inning with one out, the bases loaded and the Nats leading 2-0 by virtue of Vernon's first four-master.

The Clipper socked a double down the left field line to clear the decks.

Next to face lefthanded Bob Kuzava was big Jawn Mize. The gigantic Georgian unloaded his 24th home run of the year into the far distant right field seats. The Yanks made a couple more runs after that, but they were strictly an afterthought. The 20,238 chilled customers had seen what they paid their money for. Box:

Culmone Rides Five Winners

Joe Has Field Day At Atlantic City

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 25 (AP)—Joe Culmore, the country's second leading rider, enjoyed one of his better days today when he won with five mounts.

At the start of today Culmore was pressing Willie Shoemaker for leading rider honors of the country with the California saddle-smith setting the pace with 248 victories against 241 for the local favorite.

The Sicilian-born rider accounted for the daily double races aboard seventy-seven and Mess Cook. The winners of the first and second races, respectively, paid $6.00 and $10.00 straight mutuels and combined for a $30.20 double payoff. Culmore made it three for three in the third event with Bubs C. at $11.80 straight. After resting in the fourth race he returned to capture the fifth with Repetoire at odds of $7.80 for $2 and won the 9th with Townhouse.

Tea-Maker Scores

ELMONT, L. I., Sept. 25 (AP)—Mrs. F. Ambrose Clark's Tea-Maker, who has been a consistent performer in his three years of racing, today won his first stakes when he led all the way to take the 11th running of the $15,000 added Vosburgh Handicap at seven furlongs before 19,282 fans at Belmont Park.

Tea-maker, a 7-year-old gelded son of Only One-Tea Leaves, won by a length and a quarter from Brookmeade Stable's More Sun with P. A. Markey's Piet a rapid closing third another half length back.

Mrs. Louis Lazare Sheila's Reward, the favorite, was used up chasing Tea-Maker, finishing fourth, the second time the 3-year-old has been out of the money in his racing career.

Jack Robertson had the leg up on TeaMaker, who was timed in 1:23, one second off the track mark.

Lightly held in the mutuels, Tea-Maker paid $15.20, $8.10 and $5.70. More Sun was $25.60 and $13.30 and Piet was $6.000 to show.

Tea-Maker did not race until he was five years old. He has been a consistent performer in allowance races. His victory was the seventh in 12 starts.

Culmone Rides Five Winners

Joe Has Field Day At Atlantic City

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 25 (AP)—Joe Culmore, the country's second leading rider, enjoyed one of his better days today when he won with five mounts.

At the start of today Culmore was pressing Willie Shoemaker for leading rider honors of the country with the California saddle-smith setting the pace with 248 victories against 241 for the local favorite.

The Sicilian-born rider accounted for the daily double races aboard seventy-seven and Mess Cook. The winners of the first and second races, respectively, paid $6.00 and $10.00 straight mutuels and combined for a $30.20 double payoff. Culmore made it three for three in the third event with Bubs C. at $11.80 straight. After resting in the fourth race he returned to capture the fifth with Repetoire at odds of $7.80 for $2 and won the 9th with Townhouse.

Tea-Maker Scores

ELMONT, L. I., Sept. 25 (AP)—Mrs. F. Ambrose Clark's Tea-Maker, who has been a consistent performer in his three years of racing, today won his first stakes when he led all the way to take the 11th running of the $15,000 added Vosburgh Handicap at seven furlongs before 19,282 fans at Belmont Park.

Tea-maker, a 7-year-old gelded son of Only One-Tea Leaves, won by a length and a quarter from Brookmeade Stable's More Sun with P. A. Markey's Piet a rapid closing third another half length back.

Mrs. Louis Lazare Sheila's Reward, the favorite, was used up chasing Tea-Maker, finishing fourth, the second time the 3-year-old has been out of the money in his racing career.

Jack Robertson had the leg up on TeaMaker, who was timed in 1:23, one second off the track mark.

Lightly held in the mutuels, Tea-Maker paid $15.20, $8.10 and $5.70. More Sun was $25.60 and $13.30 and Piet was $6.000 to show.

Tea-Maker did not race until he was five years old. He has been a consistent performer in allowance races. His victory was the seventh in 12 starts.

Farrady Post Will Ask For Anti-Red Law

Frostburg Legion To Appeal To Council

FROSTBURG—Farrady Post No. 24, American Legion, has instructed its post adjutant, John F. Rowe, to contact the Mayor and City Commissioners requesting that they adopt an anti-communist ordinance similar to that recently adopted by Cumberland.

A committee of Legionnaires, consisting of Frank T. Powers, Ralph M. Race and Francis Moore, Jr., will appear at the next council meeting to urge the passage of the ordinance.

The Legion post, now in the midst of a membership drive, has selected two teams to solicit all war veterans to join the post. Captains are Alfred Drew, past post commander, and Robert Holmes, vice commander. In the event that members of the two teams have secured two members each by the first of November, they will be honored with banquet.

Members of Drew's team are Hugh Watson, James Olin Spiker, Charles Merrbaugh, Lester Snyder, Harold Blocher, Fred Boettner, William Powers, Vincent Bollino, Samuel LaPorta, John F. Rowe, Robert Powers, William Harden and William Fabri.

Mission Society To Buy Vitamins

FROSTBURG—The Women's Missionary Society of Welsh Memorial Church met Friday evening at the home of Mrs. Maude Chidester, Taylor Street. Miss Betty Ann Hanna, Frostburg, was guest speaker, her subject relating to her experiences as a counselor in a Girls Baptist camp, near Baltimore this summer.

During the business meeting the society voted to send vitamin tablets to a Baptist missionary in a foreign field for distribution to persons in her territory. Mrs. Chidester will receive gifts of these tablets or money with which to purchase them, from interested church members from the present time to October 1.

Others attending the meeting were Mrs. Margaret Walsh, Mrs. Emily Reese, Mrs. Janet Aldridge and Miss Elizabeth Workman.

The next meeting of the group will be held Thursday, October 19, in the church, when World Day of Prayer will be observed. This meeting will be open to members of all churches interested in the observance of World Day of Prayer.

What Editor Bill Hart Has to Say About Your Congressman—
REPRESENTATIVE HARLEY O. STAGGERS

In the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD of August 30, 1950, Rep. M. G. Burnside, Democrat of Huntington, Fourth West Virginia District, inserted the following article from the Morgantown Dominion News, published here in our own Second District. This article was written by Editor Bill Hart, and in that article he set down his own impression of Rep. Harley O. Staggers.

Here is the article, presented for the consideration and judgment of the voters of the Second District. It will speak for itself:

IT MAY INTEREST YOU

(By Bill Hart)

More than 2 years ago—it is now 3— I first saw him. He came into the office with that boyish grin, a lilting laugh in his voice and his step was quick and firm, but he had country about him for all his assurances and city clothes. We knew him then as a stanch worker in his own home county, a chap who had won his own way, been chosen by ballot to office and now he was saying: "I'm thinking about running for Congress. Are you people going to have any candidate for the nomination from Monongalia?" The negative answer was forthcoming and thus we knew that Harley Staggers was thinking about seeking the Democratic nomination for Congress from the Second Congressional District of which Monongalia is the pivotal area from several standpoints including population as well as having the only Democratic daily newspaper in all of the congressional district.

How well he would campaign we didn't know even after he emerged with a solid victory in the Democratic primary with several opponents all of whom made more noise and breathed a great deal more confidence than our friend who throughout the general as in the primary just kept working away, going to see people and telling them in his frank, open-face sincere way that if he went to Congress he would work as hard as he knew how to represent them as he knew they'd want him to represent 'em—looking after his district after playing whatever role fate might cast him in as the national affairs cycle rolls along the corridors of the halls of Congress. The people heard, they believed, and they sent him to Congress—and now, the time comes to see if he will be returned.

What has this Congressman—this Harley Staggers been doing since the people took him at his word and elected him to Congress? Probably no man has ever gone to Congress who has tried harder and few have worked harder. The day has not been too long, the night not too dark for Staggers not to be out pitchin' at his job of being a Congressman and no person has written him who didn't get an answer and a helping hand, if possible. The truth is that many people knowing how much he is capable of doing have imposed upon him trivial things that they should have performed themselves or better still never thought about. But of such is the life of a Congressman who is never in conference and whose door stands open, whose hand is outstretched and his heart is sympathetic to any worthy cause.

Thusly, we are now moving into a campaign to determine whether this man of the people is to remain in the Halls of Congress or to be turned out in favor of another gentleman whose backers have unlimited funds and will undoubtedly strive with might and main to send him to the seat now held by Staggers. Against this money and the admitted talents of the Republican nominee; against this great force, Staggers must depend almost entierly upon his record the past 2 years, his sincerity, his honesty, his frankness, his warm handclasp, his infectious grin, his ability to get around to a lot of places a lot of the time. He has a tough battle for talent and money combined are not easily beaten and the Republican nominee for Congress has both. Staggers has the talents, talents-plus, but he has no financial angel. He has no slush fund, he has nothing save his friends and all of them are poor.

In Monongalia County — where politics are meat and fiber for many throughout all of the days of the year—the Democratic workers are finding legions of their Republican friends who are saying to each other: "Staggers is a worker; he's our friend; he is always around when we need him; he's winning his fight for the synthetic liquid fuels laboratory—the greatest boost Morgantown and West Virginia University will have ever had if it comes about—we're for him and we're going to ask our friends to vote for him." Yes; more and more people every day are saying in words or effect the foregoing. They are saying these words with the best of feelings for the Republican nominee who is a fine gentleman with a good war record. Staggers' war record, too, stands out, but like his Republican opponent, he boasts not of it. Both did their wartime jobs and well.

Labor Day, Staggers comes here to once again be amongst some of his warmest friends for here in Monongalia where we usually accept people slowly and with reservations Staggers has come to number his friends by the hundreds and hundreds and he is the living example of the time-tested principle that any person who looks for friends and wishes to be a friend to people usually realizes that ambition. Staggers will be among friends her on Labor Day. Let us hope that on election day his friends will remember the great record he has compiled. Staggers must rely on his friends. He is poor, he has no great financial angel.

Farrady Post Will Ask For Anti-Red Law

Frostburg Legion To Appeal To Council

FROSTBURG—Farrady Post No. 24, American Legion, has instructed its post adjutant, John F. Rowe, to contact the Mayor and City Commissioners requesting that they adopt an anti-communist ordinance similar to that recently adopted by Cumberland.

A committee of Legionnaires, consisting of Frank T. Powers, Ralph M. Race and Francis Moore, Jr., will appear at the next council meeting to urge the passage of the ordinance.

The Legion post, now in the midst of a membership drive, has selected two teams to solicit all war veterans to join the post. Captains are Alfred Drew, past post commander, and Robert Holmes, vice commander. In the event that members of the two teams have secured two members each by the first of November, they will be honored with banquet.

Members of Drew's team are Hugh Watson, James Olin Spiker, Charles Merrbaugh, Lester Snyder, Harold Blocher, Fred Boettner, William Powers, Vincent Bollino, Samuel LaPorta, John F. Rowe, Robert Powers, William Harden and William Fabri.

Mission Society To Buy Vitamins

FROSTBURG—The Women's Missionary Society of Welsh Memorial Church met Friday evening at the home of Mrs. Maude Chidester, Taylor Street. Miss Betty Ann Hanna, Frostburg, was guest speaker, her subject relating to her experiences as a counselor in a Girls Baptist camp, near Baltimore this summer.

During the business meeting the society voted to send vitamin tablets to a Baptist missionary in a foreign field for distribution to persons in her territory. Mrs. Chidester will receive gifts of these tablets or money with which to purchase them, from interested church members from the present time to October 1.

Others attending the meeting were Mrs. Margaret Walsh, Mrs. Emily Reese, Mrs. Janet Aldridge and Miss Elizabeth Workman.

The next meeting of the group will be held Thursday, October 19, in the church, when World Day of Prayer will be observed. This meeting will be open to members of all churches interested in the observance of World Day of Prayer.

Brief greetings were extended to the family by Mrs. Pearl M. Boor, S. K. Fike and M. Roy Harrison.

A duet, "When There's Love at Home" was sung by Anna and Carol Lee Burke and a reading, "Bless This House" was given by Housley.

Various members of the family participated in the candle lighting ceremony by each lighting a candle to love, cooperation, happiness, friendship, appreciation, spiritual enrichment and christian service. One member of the family, Delores was unable to be present since she is giving one year to Missionary work and is now at Rose Pine, La.

The Hartman family served refreshments to the sixty-five guests.

Swanton Girl Is Married

SWANTON — Mr. and Mrs. W. Bernard Swanton announce the marriage of their daughter, Dorothy Eleanor, to Clark Cathell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Cathell, Rowlesburg, W. Va. The ceremony was performed by Rev. L. L. Hare September 2, in St. Mark's Lutheran Church, Oakland.

The bride was attired in a hunter-green suit with black accessories and a red rosebud corsage.

Mrs. Cathall is a graduate of Oakland High School, Class of 1947. The bridegroom graduated from Rowlesburg High School in 1944. He spent two years in the South Pacific with the Air Force.

Folk Dancing Class Planned

KEYSER, W. Va.—American Folk Dancing, known as Recreation subject 296, will be taught in Keyser in an extension course class in which graduate credit will be given by West Virginia University, provided enough persons express a desire for it.

The announcement was made yesterday by John R. Shelton, teacher in Keyser High School, in behalf of John Sherlacher, in charge of the recreation department at W. Va. University.

Some local teachers have expressed a desire to take up the work and it is presumed others will be glad of the opportunity to take the course for graduate credit work.

There will be a meeting in the Keyser High School gymnasium, Wednesday, October 11 at 7:30 p. m., at which the matter will be fully discussed. Any persons in the Keyser area interested in taking the course are privileged to attend.

The first Lenoir car, built in 1863, had a 1½-horsepower motor.

Mt. Savage Boy Is Burned When Matches Ignite

MT. SAVAGE—A four-year-old Mt. Savage boy was critically burned yesterday at 2 p. m. when a box of matches with which he was playing ignited.

The child, Tommy King, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles King, Mt. Savage, was admitted to Miners Hospital suffering from third degree burns of the face, neck and upper part of the body.

His father is chief of the Mt. Savage Volunteer Fire Company.

The child's mother said the box of strike anywhere matches which caused the accident was the first of that type to be in the home for about seven months.

He was taken to the hospital in the Mt. Savage Volunteer Fire Company ambulance.

What Editor Bill Hart Has to Say About Your Congressman—

REPRESENTATIVE HARLEY O. STAGGERS

In the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD of August 30, 1950, Rep. M. G. Burnside, Democrat of Huntington, Fourth West Virginia District, inserted the following article from the Morgantown Dominion News, published here in our own Second District. This article was written by Editor Bill Hart, and in that article he set down his own impression of Rep. Harley O. Staggers.

Here is the article, presented for the consideration and judgment of the voters of the Second District. It will speak for itself:

IT MAY INTEREST YOU

(By Bill Hart)

More than 2 years ago—it is now 3— I first saw him. He came into the office with that boyish grin, a lilting laugh in his voice and his step was quick and firm, but he had country about him for all his assurances and city clothes. We knew him then as a stanch worker in his own home county, a chap who had won his own way, been chosen by ballot to office and now he was saying: "I'm thinking about running for Congress. Are you people going to have any candidate for the nomination from Monongalia?" The negative answer was forthcoming and thus we knew that Harley Staggers was thinking about seeking the Democratic nomination for Congress from the Second Congressional District of which Monongalia is the pivotal area from several standpoints including population as well as having the only Democratic daily newspaper in all of the congressional district.

How well he would campaign we didn't know even after he emerged with a solid victory in the Democratic primary with several opponents all of whom made more noise and breathed a great deal more confidence than our friend who throughout the general as in the primary just kept working away, going to see people and telling them in his frank, open-face sincere way that if he went to Congress he would work as hard as he knew how to represent them as he knew they'd want him to represent 'em —looking after his district after playing whatever role fate might cast him in as the national affairs cycle rolls along the corridors of the halls of Congress. The people heard, they believed, and they sent him to Congress—and now, the time comes to see if he will be returned.

What has this Congressman—this Harley Staggers been doing since the people took him at his word and elected him to Congress? Probably no man has ever gone to Congress who has tried harder and few have worked harder. The day has not been too long, the night not too dark for Staggers not to be out pitchin' at his job of being a Congressman and no person has written him who didn't get an answer and a helping hand, if possible. The truth is that many people knowing how much he is capable of doing have imposed upon him trivial things that they should have performed themselves or better still never thought about. But of such is the life of a Congressman who is never in conference and whose door stands open, whose hand is outstretched and his heart is sympathetic to any worthy cause.

Thusly, we are now moving into a campaign to determine whether this man of the people is to remain in the Halls of Congress or to be turned out in favor of another gentleman whose backers have unlimited funds and will undoubtedly strive with might and main to send him to the seat now held by Staggers. Against this money and the admitted talents of the Republican nominee; against this great force, Staggers must depend almost entierly upon his record the past 2 years, his sincerity, his honesty, his frankness, his warm handclasp, his infectious grin, his ability to get around to a lot of places a lot of the time. He has a tough battle for talent and money combined are not easily beaten and the Republican nominee for Congress has both. Staggers has the talents, talents-plus, but he has no financial angel. He has no slush fund, he has nothing save his friends and all of them are poor.

In Monongalia County — where politics are meat and fiber for many throughout all of the days of the year—the Democratic workers are finding legions of their Republican friends who are saying to each other: "Staggers is a worker; he's our friend; he is always around when we need him; he's winning his fight for the synthetic liquid fuels laboratory—the greatest boost Morgantown and West Virginia University will have ever had if it comes about—we're for him and we're going to ask our friends to vote for him." Yes; more and more people every day are saying in words or effect the foregoing. They are saying these words with the best of feelings for the Republican nominee who is a fine gentleman with a good war record. Staggers' war record, too, stands out, but like his Republican opponent, he boasts not of it. Both did their wartime jobs and well.

Labor Day, Staggers comes here to once again be amongst some of his warmest friends for here in Monongalia where we usually accept people slowly and with reservations Staggers has come to number his friends by the hundreds and hundreds and he is the living example of the time-tested principle that any person who looks for friends and wishes to be a friend to people usually realizes that ambition. Staggers will be among friends her on Labor Day. Let us hope that on election day his friends will remember the great record he has compiled. Staggers must rely on his friends. He is poor, he has no great financial angel.

Stars Over Hollywood Without Stars

INTIMATIONS Of The Revolution: My three-year-old son, whose life span is almost exactly that of commercial television, deserted the set the other night right smack in the middle of "Howdy Doody" and demanded that someone read to him. Took quite a while to find a book.

John Crosby

On "Lights Out," the NBC-TV show, a couple of weeks ago, a disfigured playwright locked himself in a tenement of an office to write a play. He created a couple of characters, as playwrights do, but these characters, unlike those of, say, Robert E. Sherwood, instantly sprang into existence in his dirty little office. One was a blind girl. The playwright had deliberately created her that way so she couldn't see his maimed face. Love ensued. The other character was her brother, a reptilian individual, who was the playwright's self or Inner Self, or something like that. I forget how it ended.

The other day on "Stars Over Hollywood," a TV show filmed in Hollywood, another author set himself down in an old New England town to write a novel about the Puritans and was immediately confronted by a Puritan girl who had been dead for 289 years. She wanted her diary back. The author, as authors will, was shamefully pilfering ideas from it. He kissed her, her first kiss since 1668, and all sorts of complications arose.

I bring it all up now because the device of authors creating characters who suddenly loom up in front of the typewriter had better be given a rest for a while. Years ago, Wyllis Cooper did the same thing on the old "Lights Out," the radio version. On this one, a radio writer created a bunch of pirates who chased him all over the house. And, of course, Pirandello experimented with the same thing in "Six Characters in Search of an Author." (Nowadays they find the author.)

• — • — •

"Stars Over Hollywood" is the latest of the programs filmed especially for television in Hollywood and has all the conspicuous weaknesses of the others. In the first place, "Stars Over Hollywood" is a misnomer, like its counterpart, "Fireside Theater," a Bing Crosby enterprie, which also films TV shows on the West Coast, and has produced no genuine stars, in fact, no name actors of any importance of all. (Leading role in the one I mentioned was filled by Gloria Saunders, whoever she is.)

If you want to look for genuine stars on television, you'll have to look in New York. Regularly broadcasting from New York are Ed Wynn, Eddie Cantor, Fred Allen, Milton Berle, Jimmy Durante, Don Ameche, Danny Thomas, Frank Sinatra and many others. Irregularly broadcasting—that is, commuting East for television guest spots, or single performances as stars of individual shows—will be Bob Hope, Joan Caulfield, Luise Rainer and Veronica Lake. And that's a very incomplete list.

New York can command the services of the biggest screen and radio names, whereas Hollywood can't seem to command any at all. The marquee value of a name is not something I take very seriously, but in this case it illustrates a Hollywood attitude that is going to do it no good. All the TV productions emanating from Hollywood are slipshod. The actors seem insufficiently rehearsed; the quality of the writing is painfully bad; the casting seems to have been done out of card catalogues, and the direction, to put it mildly, is superficial.

The main idea seems to be to cut costs to the bone. And this is a very real problem in Hollywood, because film studio costs are high. But the attitude appears to be: "Get it in the can. You can sell a half-hour of film, no matter what's on it, to television." Well, that's true enough. But then, in the early days of the movies, you could sell almost any film footage to the movie theaters, too. The situation is changed. Hollywood is gambling with its own prestige by showing so openly its contempt of television and the television audience. The New York TV drama programs are selecting great books, fine plays, even fine movies—then casting, rehearsing and directing them as well as they know how. Hollywood could easily compete in every department. But so far, it hasn't shown the desire to do so.

is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

For A Better Figure

Marian Martin

Follow these lines to a slimmer figure! No waist seam front and back means all lines are more slenderizing. Accent with smart contrast touches, button-trimmed.

Pattern T9358: sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48. Size 36 takes 4⅝ yds. 35-inch; ⅜yd. contrast.

Send THIRTY cents in coins for special pattern to Martin Martin, care of The Cumberland News, 39, Pattern Dept., 232 West 18th St., New York, 11, N. Y. Print plainly NAME, ADDRESS WITH ZONE, SIZE and STYLE NUMBER.

New season styles for you to sew! Send Twenty Cents for our Marian Martin Fall and Winter Pattern Book. Fashions for the young in heart plus Christmas ideas galore! A free pattern of a blouse to make from a yard of 39-inch fabric is printed in the book.

When an airplane propeller is located at the front of the engine and pulls the plane through the air, it is called a tractor. If it is located behind the engine and pushes the plane, it is called pusher.

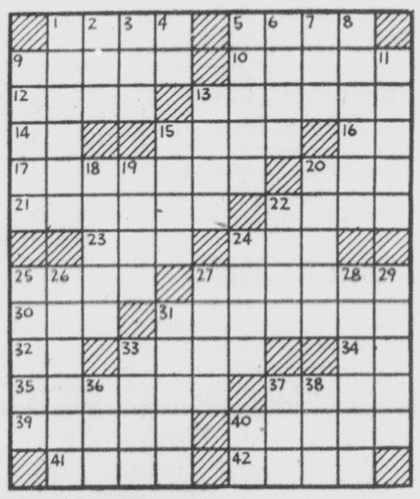
Yesterday's Answer



DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

J EPSI IVFKF CJBBCF UJKCQ LKF QFPB ZSK BFCCJPU BLKLYJYYCFQ—CFJUV.

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: WE HAVE LEARNED THE LESSON OF TIME, AND WE KNOW THREE THINGS OF WORTH—LE GALLIENNE.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear son and brother, Mr. W. A. Laurent, who died 2 years ago, September 26, 1948.
Memories and treasures none can steal;
Death leaves a heartache none can heal.
Some have forgotten you, now that you're gone,
But we will remember you, no matter how long.
Sadly missed by Father, Brothers and Sisters

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear son and brother, Mr. W. A. Laurent, who died 2 years ago, September 26, 1948.
Memories and treasures none can steal;
Death leaves a heartache none can heal.
Some have forgotten you, now that you're gone,
But we will remember you, no matter how long.
Sadly missed by Father, Brothers and Sisters

Homemakers Will See Demonstration

LONACONING—The Lonaconing Homemakers club will meet Thursday at 7:30 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Nettie Stafford, Detmold.

Miss Khrista McKenzie, senior 4-H club member, will present a demonstration on "How to Wash a Sweater." Misses Patsy Murphy and Louise Dilfer, senior 4-H girls also, will present a demonstration on "Baby Sitting."

Miss Maude A. Bean, county home demonstration agent, will exhibit Theme Booth pictures of the Cumberland 1950 Fair and discuss judging of the prize winning booths.

Each member of the Lonaconing club will bring an apron to the club meeting and an apron sale will be held.

Mrs. James Hadley, chairman of Blue Cross, will collect dues of members of Blue Cross hospital insurance.

Brothers Assigned To Same Air Base

KEYSER, W. Va.—Keith B. Welch, Keyser, AL 3, U. S. Navy, who is stationed at Westover Field, Mas., writes home that he was very much surprised last week when his younger brother, Pfc. Adrian L. Welch, who has been stationed at St. John's, Newfoundland, was transferred to Westover Field, and they met for the first time in many months. Neither of them knew the other was at Westover Field.

On the same day of their meeting, they received information from another brother, Pfc. Douglas L. Welch, who is serving with the 38th Infantry regiment in Korea. He wrote that he is in good physical condition.

The three service members are sons of Mr. and Mrs. Harry H. Welch, 29 Armstrong Street, Keyser.

Miss Rohrbaugh Becomes Bride

SWANTON—Mr. and Mrs. Dolph O'Brien have announced the marriage of their son, Randall, to Jacqueline Rohrmaugh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rohrbaugh, Kitzmiller.

The marriage was performed August 30 by Rev. Trowbridge at the Methodist parsonage in Kitzmiller.

Mona Rohrbaugh, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid and Paul Barnard acted as best man. The bride wore a green suit with white accessories and a corsage of white rosebuds.

She graduated from Kitzmiller High School in 1949. The bridegroom graduated from Oakland High School in 1946. He is a veteran of World War II and is employed now by the State Roads Commission.

Mr. and Mrs. O'Brien spent a short honeymoon visiting in Akron, Detroit, Cleveland and Lake Erie. They will reside in Oakland.

Fire Company Called Twice Within Hour

LONACONING—Good Will Fire Company was summoned twice within an hour Sunday evening to extinguish a flue fire and an automobile wiring fire.

At 6 p. m. a flue fire was extinguished at the Alex Sloan residence, Jackson street, causing no damage.

At 6:50 p. m. William Shockey's auto wiring was ablaze in the vicinity of the VFW home, Hanekamp street, and the fire company was summoned to extinguish it.

Mrs. Davis Is Wed To Howard Smith

PARSONS, W. Va.—Announcement is being made of the marriage of Mrs. Aldeane Davis, daughter of Mrs. Laura Warden, Davis, to Howard Smith, Dante, Va. in St. John's Lutheran Church, Red House, Md., September 12, with Rev. R. W. Morrow, Jr., pastor of Davis Methodist Church officiating.

Mrs. Smith has been employed for several years in the Worden Hotel in Davis. Smith was formerly manager of the Buxton and Landstreet Stores in Pierce, Thomas, Coketon and Benbush and recently moved to Dante, Va.

Matter Of Fact

of girls in Osaka and Kobe. While the amtrac wallowed across the river, and lumbered inland, light heartedness ruled. Then the second assembly area was reached at last—a little, hill-encircled amphitheater of bean and millet patches, with another village where the people offered fruit and water. The men of Easy Company shouldered their heavy packs, grasped their well-oiled weapons, and set off to do the day's work.

Long, Hot March

The long file of men, which somehow you can never see without remembering the phrase "an army with banners," wound its way through rice paddies, across a threshing floor, along the main railroad tracks. The march was long. The sun was bright and hot. There was some small arms fire from the hills. But Easy Company did not pause until within sight of its final goal, the range of almost mountainous heights that rise from the suburbs of Seoul. There was a halt to reconnoiter and to lay mortar fire on the crests. Then, by late afternoon, Easy Company had taken its objectives, rounded up its quota of naked, scrawny prisoners, and was engaged in a brisk fight with pockets of the enemy nearer to the city.

The night was bleak. The radios failed, as our wretched communications equipment always seems to do when it is most needed. Even patrols could not precisely tell whether the company's forward platoon had come down off the highest ground to protect the rear. The North Korean forces unlimbered their artillery and occasionally a shrill incoming whistle and loud neighboring explosion would indicate that Easy Company's positions were being gone over. Again the cold was very bitter, and at first light the men of Easy Company seemed downright glad to clamber stiffly out of their well-dug foxholes.

There had been the usual infiltration, and there was the usual exchange of fire—a sharp, prebreakfast rattle—with the infiltrators. On the highest hill crest, not long before occupied by the forward platoon, enemy movements were suddenly observed by gunner Sgt. Barnett. It was a hard decision, for this crest was the main objective, yet it was only almost, but not absolutely sure, that the forward platoon had obeyed its orders to move to the rear. After he had studied the crest through his glasses, Capt. Jaskilka's face suddenly hardened. The artillery, the mortars, the air were down upon the naked peak. The company's remaining two platoons rapidly moved out to re-occupy the lost ground.

It was a long, lung-testing climb. Just as the marines reached the peak, word came that the forward platoon, lost in the blackness of the night, had been found again on a hill beyond the one allotted to it.

The casualty reports of the previous twenty-four hours were made—of the company's few score, two men had been rather badly wounded and were being carried back by the stretcher bearers. The men of Easy Company, who all recalled the bloody fights of the southern beach head, wondered at the enemy's new softness. And a turning point in the Korean fighting was thus passed.

select the one they already know. An inspiring leadership, a stimulating personality, a fine figure of a man—as the remark is—would stir this nation.

Yet such men do not appear on the political horizon. What we are offered are either political wheelhorses whose pattern of life is to get into politics and stay there, or occasionally a successful business man who likes to feel important. There is no inspiration in such men.

Robert Mackness hit the nail on the head, when he asks the parties for "competent candidates and national platforms."

30 Poultry Men Tour Area Farms

Various phases of management featured a talk given by W. H. Rice, poultry specialist of the University of Maryland, during a tour and demonstration held yesterday for about 30 Allegany County poultry men.

The group, led by Ralph F. McHenry, county farm agent, visited the farms of Roy and James Twigg, Spring Gap; Paul Robinette, Murleys Branch Road; and Richard Stegmaier, Williams Road.

Rice commented that Stegmaier is one of seven or eight Allegany County poultry men who are conducting a business of producing eggs for hatching.

In his talk on management, Rice stressed the importance of starting out with healthy chicks, increasing number of hours of using electric light to encourage laying, and disinfection and disease control.

The group held a session yesterday afternoon at City Hall, when Francis Richardson, of the Farmers Feed and Supply Company, gave a demonstration on detecting and treating poultry diseases.

Richardson and Rice answered questions at a roundtable discussion.

PARSONS, W. Va.—Miss Mary Elizabeth Wigman, daughter of Mrs. Alfred J. Harman, Cleveland, O., was married to Wallace S. Luce, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Luce of Salem, O., August 2, with the bride's grandmother, Mrs. C. G. Holcombe, Davis as their only attendant. The bride is a graduate of Davis High School.

Carriers Down As Market Stays Virtually Unchanged

NEW YORK, Sept. 25 (AP) — Conflicting trading pressures surged through the stock market today and left it virtually unchanged.

At the close the losses and gains spread out over a range of a little more than a dollar either way.

There was persistent selling in steels, motors, and aircraft. And rails were generally lower with the exception of two strong carriers.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks ended down .1 of a point at 82.5. Industrials were lower, rails higher and utilities unchanged.

The volume amounted to 2,010,000 shares as against 2,510,000 on Friday. Not a little of that was added during buying flurries touched off from time to time by individual issues.

Curtis Publishing Co. opened on a block of 10,000 shares up ⅝ at 9¼, was the third most active issue, and closed at 9⅛. United Corp., the most active, sold frequently including one block of 10,000 and one of 24,800 shares at 4, up ⅛, the price at which it closed.

Canadian Pacific, second most active, closed at a new high of 20⅜ up ⅞.

Rails were helped by Santa Fe up 2⅝ at 134⅞ and Nickel Plate up 1½ at 153½. Most of the other carriers were down fractionally including New York Central, Chesapeake and Ohio, and Union Pacific.

U. S. Steel lost ½ at 38¾, Chrysler off ¾ at 72, General Motors unchanged at 95⅜, Douglas off ⅞ at 83¾, International Telephone & Telegraph off ⅜ at 13⅞, and du Pont off 1¼ at 79½.

Higher were Goodrich up 1 at 112¼, Philco ¾ at 42⅞, American Tobacco 1¾ at 66⅜, Homestake Mining ¼ at 39¼, McIntyre Porcupine ¾ at 53, Paramount ⅜ at 21¾, Twentieth Century-Fox ⅝ at 25, and Loew's ⅜ at 17¾.

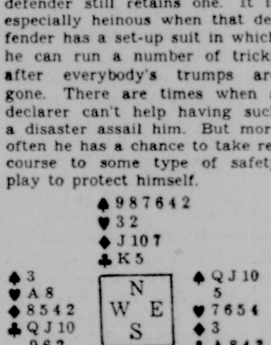
"The Authority on Authorities"

AN UNPARDONABLE SIN

ONE of the truly unpardonable sins committable by a declarer is getting himself unnecessarily into a position whereby his own last trump may be removed while a defender still retains one. It is especially heinous when that defender has a set-up suit in which he can run a number of tricks after everybody's trumps are gone. There are times when a declarer can't help having such a disaster assail him. But more often he has a chance to take recourse to some type of safety play to protect himself.



(Dealer: North. North - South vulnerable.)

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	2 ♥	Pass
2 NT	Pass	3 ♦	Pass
3 ♠	Pass	4 ♦	Pass

Most not-vulnerable players would have bid 3-Clubs over that two bid with West's hand, and the denouement might have been a 6-Club sacrifice which could not have been beaten badly. But East and West were glad the bid was not made, for South managed to defeat himself through a careless slip.

The club Q lead brought the K and A, and the 3 was ruffed by the diamond 6. The diamond 9 was led to the J and the 7 to the K. When East discarded on this, showing that West had two more trumps, South should have discontinued leads of the suit. But he didn't. He scored the A, then led the heart K. West won with the A and returned the club J. South had to use his last trump to win this while West still had the 8 left. Helpless, South now won his spade A, but West ruffed the K and then scored his last three clubs to put South down four tricks.

As soon as East discarded on the second trump lead, South should have switched to the heart K. West probably would have held up, but would have had to use his A then on the Q. If West now led a third-round club, it could have been ruffed in dummy, which still would have held a trump. South could have reached his own hand with the spade A, taken out trumps with his last two diamonds and had a solid hand remaining to make his contract.

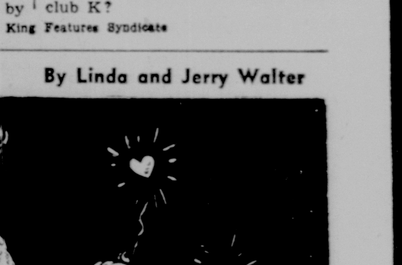
Tomorrow's Problem



How should South play for 4 Hearts after West leads the club K?

Homemakers Will See Demonstration

LONACONING—The Lonaconing Homemakers club will meet Thursday at 7:30 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Nettie Stafford, Detmold.

Miss Khrista McKenzie, senior 4-H club member, will present a demonstration on "How to Wash a Sweater." Misses Patsy Murphy and Louise Dilfer, senior 4-H girls also, will present a demonstration on "Baby Sitting."

Miss Maude A. Bean, county home demonstration agent, will exhibit Theme Booth pictures of the Cumberland 1950 Fair and discuss judging of the prize winning booths.

Each member of the Lonaconing club will bring an apron to the club meeting and an apron sale will be held.

Mrs. James Hadley, chairman of Blue Cross, will collect dues of members of Blue Cross hospital insurance.

Brothers Assigned To Same Air Base

KEYSER, W. Va.—Keith B. Welch, Keyser, AL 3, U. S. Navy, who is stationed at Westover Field, Mas., writes home that he was very much surprised last week when his younger brother, Pfc. Adrian L. Welch, who has been stationed at St. John's, Newfoundland, was transferred to Westover Field, and they met for the first time in many months. Neither of them knew the other was at Westover Field.

On the same day of their meeting, they received information from another brother, Pfc. Douglas L. Welch, who is serving with the 38th Infantry regiment in Korea. He wrote that he is in good physical condition.

The three service members are sons of Mr. and Mrs. Harry H. Welch, 29 Armstrong Street, Keyser.

Miss Rohrbaugh Becomes Bride

SWANTON—Mr. and Mrs. Dolph O'Brien have announced the marriage of their son, Randall, to Jacqueline Rohrmaugh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rohrbaugh, Kitzmiller.

The marriage was performed August 30 by Rev. Trowbridge at the Methodist parsonage in Kitzmiller.

Mona Rohrbaugh, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid and Paul Barnard acted as best man. The bride wore a green suit with white accessories and a corsage of white rosebuds.

She graduated from Kitzmiller High School in 1949. The bridegroom graduated from Oakland High School in 1946. He is a veteran of World War II and is employed now by the State Roads Commission.

Mr. and Mrs. O'Brien spent a short honeymoon visiting in Akron, Detroit, Cleveland and Lake Erie. They will reside in Oakland.

Fire Company Called Twice Within Hour

LONACONING—Good Will Fire Company was summoned twice within an hour Sunday evening to extinguish a flue fire and an automobile wiring fire.

At 6 p. m. a flue fire was extinguished at the Alex Sloan residence, Jackson street, causing no damage.

At 6:50 p. m. William Shockey's auto wiring was ablaze in the vicinity of the VFW home, Hanekamp street, and the fire company was summoned to extinguish it.

Mrs. Davis Is Wed To Howard Smith

PARSONS, W. Va.—Announcement is being made of the marriage of Mrs. Aldeane Davis, daughter of Mrs. Laura Warden, Davis, to Howard Smith, Dante, Va. in St. John's Lutheran Church, Red House, Md., September 12, with Rev. R. W. Morrow, Jr., pastor of Davis Methodist Church officiating.

Mrs. Smith has been employed for several years in the Worden Hotel in Davis. Smith was formerly manager of the Buxton and Landstreet Stores in Pierce, Thomas, Coketon and Benbush and recently moved to Dante, Va.

Matter Of Fact

of girls in Osaka and Kobe. While the amtrac wallowed across the river, and lumbered inland, light heartedness ruled. Then the second assembly area was reached at last—a little, hill-encircled amphitheater of bean and millet patches, with another village where the people offered fruit and water. The men of Easy Company shouldered their heavy packs, grasped their well-oiled weapons, and set off to do the day's work.

Long, Hot March

The long file of men, which somehow you can never see without remembering the phrase "an army with banners," wound its way through rice paddies, across a threshing floor, along the main railroad tracks. The march was long. The sun was bright and hot. There was some small arms fire from the hills. But Easy Company did not pause until within sight of its final goal, the range of almost mountainous heights that rise from the suburbs of Seoul. There was a halt to reconnoiter and to lay mortar fire on the crests. Then, by late afternoon, Easy Company had taken its objectives, rounded up its quota of naked, scrawny prisoners, and was engaged in a brisk fight with pockets of the enemy nearer to the city.

The night was bleak. The radios failed, as our wretched communications equipment always seems to do when it is most needed. Even patrols could not precisely tell whether the company's forward platoon had come down off the highest ground to protect the rear. The North Korean forces unlimbered their artillery and occasionally a shrill incoming whistle and loud neighboring explosion would indicate that Easy Company's positions were being gone over. Again the cold was very bitter, and at first light the men of Easy Company seemed downright glad to clamber stiffly out of their well-dug foxholes.

There had been the usual infiltration, and there was the usual exchange of fire—a sharp, pre-breakfast rattle—with the infiltrators. On the highest hill crest, not long before occupied by the forward platoon, enemy movements were suddenly observed by gunner Sgt. Barnett. It was a hard decision, for this crest was the main objective, yet it was only almost, but not absolutely sure, that the forward platoon had obeyed its orders to move to the rear. After he had studied the crest through his glasses, Capt. Jaskilka's face suddenly hardened. The artillery, the mortars, the air were down upon the naked peak. The company's remaining two platoons rapidly moved out to re-occupy the lost ground.

It was a long, lung-testing climb. Just as the marines reached the peak, word came that the forward platoon, lost in the blackness of the night, had been found again on a hill beyond the one allotted to it.

The casualty reports of the previous twenty-four hours were made—of the company's few score, two men had been rather badly wounded and were being carried back by the stretcher bearers. The men of Easy Company, who all recalled the bloody fights of the southern beach head, wondered at the enemy's new softness. And a turning point in the Korean fighting was thus passed.

These Days

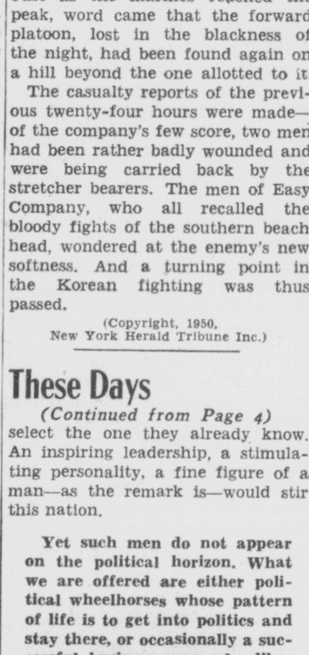
select the one they already know. An inspiring leadership, a stimulating personality, a fine figure of a man—as the remark is—would stir this nation.

Yet such men do not appear on the political horizon. What we are offered are either political wheelhorses whose pattern of life is to get into politics and stay there, or occasionally a successful business man who likes to feel important. There is no inspiration in such men.

Robert Mackness hit the nail on the head, when he asks the parties for "competent candidates and national platforms."



30 Poultry Men Tour Area Farms

Various phases of management featured a talk given by W. H. Rice, poultry specialist of the University of Maryland, during a tour and demonstration held yesterday for about 30 Allegany County poultry men.

The group, led by Ralph F. McHenry, county farm agent, visited the farms of Roy and James Twigg, Spring Gap; Paul Robinette, Murleys Branch Road; and Richard Stegmaier, Williams Road.

Rice commented that Stegmaier is one of seven or eight Allegany County poultry men who are conducting a business of producing eggs for hatching.

In his talk on management, Rice stressed the importance of starting out with healthy chicks, increasing number of hours of using electric light to encourage laying, and disinfection and disease control.

The group held a session yesterday afternoon at City Hall, when Francis Richardson, of the Farmers Feed and Supply Company, gave a demonstration on detecting and treating poultry diseases.

Richardson and Rice answered questions at a roundtable discussion.

Carriers Down As Market Stays Virtually Unchanged

NEW YORK, Sept. 25 (AP) — Conflicting trading pressures surged through the stock market today and left it virtually unchanged.

At the close the losses and gains spread out over a range of a little more than a dollar either way.

There was persistent selling in steels, motors, and aircraft. And rails were generally lower with the exception of two strong carriers.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks ended down .1 of a point at 82.5. Industrials were lower, rails higher and utilities unchanged.

The volume amounted to 2,010,000 shares as against 2,510,000 on Friday. Not a little of that was added during buying flurries touched off from time to time by individual issues.

Curtis Publishing Co. opened on a block of 10,000 shares up ⅝ at 9¼, was the third most active issue, and closed at 9⅛. United Corp., the most active, sold frequently including one block of 10,000 and one of 24,800 shares at 4, up ⅛, the price at which it closed.

Canadian Pacific, second most active, closed at a new high of 20⅜ up ⅞.

Rails were helped by Santa Fe up 2⅝ at 134⅞ and Nickel Plate up 1½ at 153½. Most of the other carriers were down fractionally including New York Central, Chesapeake and Ohio, and Union Pacific.

U. S. Steel lost ½ at 38¾, Chrysler off ¾ at 72, General Motors unchanged at 95⅜, Douglas off ⅞ at 83¾, International Telephone & Telegraph off ⅜ at 13⅞, and du Pont off 1¼ at 79½.

Higher were Goodrich up 1 at 112¼, Philco ¾ at 42⅞, American Tobacco 1¾ at 66⅜, Homestake Mining ¼ at 39¼, McIntyre Porcupine ¾ at 53, Paramount ⅜ at 21¾, Twentieth Century-Fox ⅝ at 25, and Loew's ⅜ at 17¾.

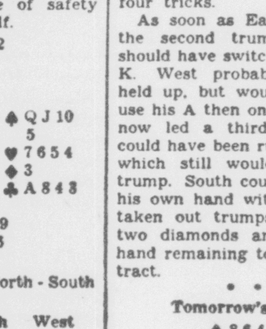
"The Authority on Authorities"

AN UNPARDONABLE SIN

ONE of the truly unpardonable sins committable by a declarer is getting himself unnecessarily into a position whereby his own last trump may be removed while a defender still retains one. It is especially heinous when that defender has a set-up suit in which he can run a number of tricks after everybody's trumps are gone. There are times when a declarer can't help having such a disaster assail him. But more often he has a chance to take recourse to some type of safety play to protect himself.



(Dealer: North. North - South vulnerable.)

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	2 ♥	Pass
2 NT	Pass	3 ♦	Pass
3 ♠	Pass	4 ♦	Pass

Most not-vulnerable players would have bid 3-Clubs over that two bid with West's hand, and the denouement might have been a 6-Club sacrifice which could not have been beaten badly. But East and West were glad the bid was not made, for South managed to defeat himself through a careless slip.

The club Q lead brought the K and A, and the 3 was ruffed by the diamond 6. The diamond 9 was led to the J and the 7 to the K. When East discarded on this, showing that West had two more trumps, South should have discontinued leads of the suit. But he didn't. He scored the A, then led the heart K. West won with the A and returned the club J. South had to use his last trump to win this while West still had the 8 left. Helpless, South now won his spade A, but West ruffed the K and then scored his last three clubs to put South down four tricks.

As soon as East discarded on the second trump lead, South should have switched to the heart K. West probably would have held up, but would have had to use his A then on the Q. If West now led a third-round club, it could have been ruffed in dummy, which still would have held a trump. South could have reached his own hand with the spade A, taken out trumps with his last two diamonds and had a solid hand remaining to make his contract.

How should South play for 4 Hearts after West leads the club K?

Police Arrest 2 Bookies, 2 On Liquor Sales

Officers Commended By Commissioner

Using two undercover men to secure the evidence, city police last night moved in on two race horse booking establishments and arrested two other persons on charges of illegally selling alcoholic beverages.

Facing the bookmaking charges are Richard Fox, arrested at the Score Board pool room, 20 North Mechanic Street, and Frankie Frantz, arrested at the Queen City Billiard Hall, 19 North Liberty Street. Each posted $100 bond.

Charged with selling whisky without a license are Clarence Minnicks, proprietor of Glenora Inn, Valley Road, and Dewey Shoemaker, 320 Pennsylvania Avenue, independent taxicab driver. Minnicks posted $300 bond and Shoemaker was given until 5 p. m. today to raise $200 bond.

Got Warrants Earlier

Lt. James E. Van and Detective E. M. Powell made the arrests between 7 and 8 p. m. after securing the warrants from Magistrate Frank A. Perdew earlier in the day.

A short time later Commissioner of Police John J. Long said "Lt. Van and the men responsible for this work are to be commended for alertness and enforcing the law as it is written."

In his statement Commissioner Long also revealed a temporary change of commanding officers in the local department and said Chief of Police R. Emmett Flynn "has been doing special communistic investigation."

The commissioner's statement in full said:

"Since last week Chief of Police R. Emmett Flynn has been doing special communistic investigation. Assistant Chief of Police B. Frank Gaffney moved to the daylight platoon with Lt. James E. Van supervising the 5 p. m. to 1 a. m. platoon, and Lt. R. R. Johnston and Lt. Edwin R. Lilya supervising the 1 to 9 a. m. platoon. Lt. Van and the men responsible for this work are to be commended for alertness and enforcing the law as it is written." enforcing the law as it is written."

Lt. Van declined to name the undercover men who secured the evidence but said their work "is praiseworthy and without it we could not have made these arrests."

Hearings Set October 3

The warrants were issued to Van and Powell. The undercover men's names did not appear.

Shoemaker, police said, was selling the whisky from his cab throughout the business district of Cumberland. Lt. Van explained Minnicks posted a $300 bond because "it is his second offense."

The men were taken to police headquarters but with the exception of Shoemaker were released after posting bond. He was given a time extention. Hearings for the quartet were set for October 3 at 9 a. m.

Firemen Plan Training Course

Plans for a fire fighting training course in Western Maryland are underway by the Allegany-Garrett Fire Chiefs Association.

The five-night course will include classes on ladder and hose evolutions, use of gas masks, overhaul duties, first aid and the use of fire extinguishers.

The committee planning the course includes H. A. Lasher, chairman; Joseph Wenrich, Cresaptown, and Oklen Geiger, Corriganville.

The University of Maryland's Extension Service will be asked to assist in the program.

The course is planned to take the place of the Short Course for firemen held each year at College Park.

Since it will be offered in a central location, officials hope a large percentage of the 1,000 volunteer firemen of Western Maryland can attend the refresher course.

Playground Group Lists Nominees

The nominating committee for the Cumberland Playground Association met last night at the home of Mrs. John Turley, 122 Springdale Street, and selected a slate of nominees for the several elective offices.

The committee report will be presented at the next regular meeting of the association October 5 at 7:30 p. m. in the City Hall. The election and installation of officers is scheduled for the same night.

The committee includes Lawrence L. Grim, chairman, Mrs. R. C. Diehl, Mrs. R. J. Tayloe, Mrs. Turley and F. Allan Weatherholt.

Weather

It was a grand fall day after the weird atmospheric conditions Sunday. Clear skies helped everyone see the memorable eclipse of the moon last night. Yesterday's official high was 57 with a low of 39. The thermometer stood at 44 at 9 p. m. The weatherman promises fair and warmer today.

Maryland Dentists Meet Here

Surveys Made For Pumping Station Here

Fire Alarm Boxes To Be Installed

Surveys have been completed for the proposed pumping station in the vicinity of Holland Street and Piedmont Avenue, Street Commissioner Lucile W. Roeder reported last night to the Mayor and Council.

Mrs. Roeder said a topographic map showing areas of "unsatisfactory pressure and service" have been submitted to George M. Hitchcock, superintendent of the city water plant.

Pressure surveys will be made in critical sections, she added.

With regard to the Bedford Road sewage project, Mrs. Roeder said maps have been prepared and the proper type of pumping station discussed.

Work of cleaning the Mill Race sewer has started, Mrs. Roeder said, adding that the interceptor sewer on the West Side and other sewers should be cleaned.

She asked enforcement of the city ordinance requiring oiling or paving of parking and used car lots to keep dirt from blowing on the streets.

Boxes Planned

Police and Fire Commissioner John J. Long said the Fire Department plans to install alarm boxes at Fort Hill and Allegany High Schools and on Virginia Avenue below the railroad. The Fire Department's inspection division is being set up, and the telephone system for reporting fires will be revised, he added.

Former City Attorney Thomas B. Finan requested consideration by the council of zoning changes on Williams Street and on Lots 12-16, Block 17, Johnson Heights Addition, at Hill Top Drive and Louisiana Avenue.

Both places remained residential when the council approved numerous changes to the zoning ordinance last August to create new business zones. Finan asked reconsideration and recalled the Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission had recommended that the two areas be changed to business classifications.

Council voted last night to donate $9,000 to the Community Chest campaign, the same amount as last year.

Randolph Millholland, Sr., was reappointed a member of the Smoke Control Advisory and Appeals Board for a three-year term, retroactive to June 27. Expiration dates for the terms of the other members, Charles Z. Heskett and John R. Connelly, were set at June 27, 1952, and June 27, 1951, respectively.

Refund of $4.68 for overpayment on water rent was ordered paid to Forest B. Corley, 221½ Oak Street.

Payroll Approved

The payroll for the second period in September was approved.

On the recommendation of Chief of Police R. Emmett Flynn, the council approved the request of City Cab Service for extension telephones to be located at Cresap Street and Virginia Avenue; Fifth Street at York; Nu-Acme Market on Centre Street; Decatur Street; and Winton Place and Paca Street.

The company's request for a telephone at Fayette Street near Chase was rejected because of a complaint from a resident.

Filed was a letter from Mountain City Council No. 11, Junior Order United American Mechanics, Frost-

GOP CHAIRMAN—Earl E. Manges, Cumberland attorney, last night was elected chairman of the Republican State Central Committee for Allegany County at the organization meeting of the body elected in last Monday's primary. Other officers elected are Edgar M. Lewis, vice chairman; James Park, secretary-treasurer, and Victor M. Hebb, assistant to the treasurer. The committee followed its past procedure of keeping the seven-man elected committee intact so that geographic allocations for each man would not be disturbed. The new chairman was selected by the committee and makes an eight-man organization. Edgar M. Lewis, retiring chairman, presided for the nominations.

Terrorism Is Charged By Reds

BALTIMORE, Sept. 25 (AP)—The heads of Maryland's communist party said today the resignations of two Cumberland members came because of the "terrorism being exercised over America."

Philip Frankfeld, chairman, and George A. Meyers, labor secretary of the party in Maryland and the District of Columbia, made the statement after the resignations of William B. Coleman and Arthur M. Schusterman.

The two men who have been convicted under Cumberland's own ordinance requiring communists to register, announced last night they were quitting the party. They added that they intended to cease "all political activities of any kind."

Frankfeld and Meyers said that the resignations are "a sad commentary on the times we live in." They added:

"Courageous men have divorced themselves from their beliefs because of the terrorism being exercised over America by the 1950 version of the Spanish Inquisition (the Anti-Communist Bill passed by Congress Saturday) and Hitler's Gestapo.'

The communist officials said the party intends to "intensify its struggle, together with all peace-loving, democratic-minded Americans to prevent fascism from being victorious in our country and prevent World War III."

Bryon To Head Beall's Campaign

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25 (AP) — Rep. Beall (R-Md) announced today Joseph W. Bryon, Hagerstown, Md., will head his re-election campaign committee.

Committee vice chairman will be Charles F. Wagaman, of Hagerstown. Arthur J. Hilland, of Bethesda, Md., will serve as treasurer.

Organizations Asked To Donate To Chest Campaign

Civic clubs, fraternal organizations and labor unions are being asked to make contributions from their treasuries to the 1950 Red Feather Chest campaign, according to Frederic W. Eiler, general chairman of the appeal.

Last year 31 organizations made contributions totaling nearly $1,500 in amounts which ranged from five dollars to five hundred dollars. Previously the contributions from these groups has amounted to as much as $5,000.

Eiler pointed out that the gifts made from the treasuries of the organizations was a material endorsement of the Chest and was not considered as taking the place of the individual's contribution.

"All organizations have been formed to perpetuate some phase of individual or group betterment and it is natural that the organization itself wishes to give material expression to the broad community work that is being done through the agencies of the Chest," Eiler stated.

Letters have been sent to the heads of the various groups in the city, but Eiler pointed out that there were doubtless many groups who would not have an individual letter because of the magnitude of the task involved. He emphasized that members of such groups could bring the Chest subscription before the next meeting to secure action.

Leaders Enlisted

Meanwhile, George M. Martin, chairman of the Classified Section, reported that all but six of the 56 regiment leaders are now enlisted

State Dentists Vote Support Of Vivisection

Receive Report On Military Status

A motion supporting vivisection—use of animals in medical laboratories—was adopted yesterday by the Maryland Dental Association as it opened its 27th semi-annual meeting here.

The association also received a report on the present military status of Maryland dentists and then went on record "to cooperate with any effort made toward national defense."

The motion on vivisection specifically supports a proposed referendum presented by Dean Alan Chesney of Johns Hopkins University Medical School. It would permit the continued use of animals in medical experiments.

A current movement is afoot in Baltimore by a "Citizens Committee for the Dog Rererendum" and the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals to have the vivisection practice prohibited by law.

The military status report informed the 150-pdd members attending the two-day meeting that questionnaires have been mailed to every registered dentist in Maryland to determine his military standing.

Further action on the report will be taken, members said, when the government clearly defines its intentions to call up for service numerous doctors, dentists and allied specialist male personnel.

Earlier this month draft board officials said a special registration will be held October 16 to register all doctors, dentists and veterinarians.

The military report was presented to the membership by Dr. Harry B. McCarthy, chairman of the Military Affairs Committee of the state dental association.

Also approved at yesterday's business session was a motion to do "everything in our power to support recognition" of National Children's Health Day. Observance of that movement has been set for February 5, 1951, by the national medical organizations.

Earlier in the day the membership gathered at the Cumberland Country Club to hear papers by Dr. J. Ben Robinson, dean of Baltimore College of Dental Surgery, Dental School, University of Maryland, and Dr. E. T. Lewis of Pittsburgh.

Dr. Robinson's paper dealt with "The Early History of Dentistry in Maryland and Dr. Lewis' paper dealth with "Prosthetics for the General Practitioner."

Last night attending members and their wives were the guests of the Allegany-Garrett County Dental Society at a dinner and dance at the Country Club.

Today's program includes a golf tournament and bridge contest with luncheon scheduled for 12:30 p. m.

Legion To Meet

Knobley Mountain Post No. 136, American Legion, Ridgeley, announced the regular executive committee meeting will be held tonight at 8 o'clock. All officers are urged to attend.

WINS SCHOLARSHIP—C. James Williams (above), son of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Robinson, 519 Linden Street, has been awarded a four-year scholarship to Western Maryland College by State Senator Robert B. Kimble. Williams is a graduate of Allegany High School, class of 1950, and was a member of the art club, Spanish club, and Alpha Delta Kappa. He is also a member of Emmanuel Episcopal Church and held office in the local chapter of the Order of DeMolay.

$11,000 Flood Payments Are Voted By City

Bids On Removing Buildings Opened

Payments totaling over $11,000 were authorized last night by the Mayor and Council for property rights in connection with the Cumberland flood control project.

Largest was $9,750 to Irvin M. and Mabel W. Zimmerman for an option on several lots needed in the project.

Payments to secure permanent easements were ordered to Francis W. and Helen W. Drumm, $141; Edward C. Reed, $75; Lucy Z. Dreyer Wagner and Herbert S. Wagner, $75; John W. and Louise M. Knowlton, $500; William I. and Dorothy Poling, $70.10; George V. and Mildred A. Fletchinger, $59; and the Misses Julia W., Ella and Rose Marie Jackson, $71.60.

Payments for both temporary and permanent easements were ordered to Mrs. Tabitha Ryan and Sterling W. Ryan, $675; Frank A. and M. Virginia Perdew, $200; and Martin H. and Bertha C. Hager, $162.50.

Bids Opened

The council opened three separate sets of bids last night for purchase and removal of three buildings in connection with the flood project.

Al were referred to Albert S. Paye, liaison engineer, with power to act.

Three offers were received for purchase and removal of a large two-story brick garage at 206 Riverview Place. They were honored on the recommendation of City Attorney W. Earle Cobey in order to expedite flood work, although each of the bids was received after the deadline yesterday noon.

Charles Paul Roeder offered $1,290; Baughman Contracting Company, $2,150, and Cement Products Company, $1,000.

Last week the bid of John A. Cupler, II, of $500 for the work was rejected as being insufficient, and bids were readvertised.

Two offers were received for purchase and removal of a two-story frame double house at 106-108 Paca Street, Branson J. Nelson, Route 3, offered $275 and William E. Stinnett, 113 West Elder Street, offered $100.

Three bids were opened for purchase of removal of a two-story frame double house at 110-112 Paca Street. Leo C. Willer, 1602 Ford Avenue, bid $338; Stinnett offered $100 and Nelson bid $275.

The St. George Motor Company's offer of $1,060 to supply one tudor sedan for the Health Department was accepted.

Offer Referred

Referred to Finance Commissioner Wiliam H. Buchholtz with power to act was a bid of $501 by Russell D. Beery to purchase Lots 78, 79 and 80, Montreal Avenue. Beery asked a 60-day option.

Mrs. Claude T. Jett Dies At Her Home

Mrs. Mildred C. Jett, 63, wife of Claude T. Jett, died last night at 8:30 o'clock at her home, 112 Park Heights, after an illness of several years.

A native of Cumberland, she was a daughter of the late Joseph L. and Mary A. Hammersmith Sell.

Active in club work, she was a member of the LaVale Homemakers, a past president of the Allegany County Council of Homemakers and a member of the Memorial Hospital Auxiliary.

She was a member of St. Patrick's Church.

Surviving are her husband, three sons, John B. Jett, this city, and Claude T. Jett, Jr., and J. Elliott Jett, both of Baltimore; one sister, Mrs. W. Easter Ward, Los Angeles, Cal.; a brother, Leo A. Sell, Prineville, Ore., and two grandchildren, Judith Ann and J. Elliott Jett, Jr., Baltimore.

The body is at the Stein Funeral Home.

News In Brief

"The Child City," a movie about Mooseheart, Ill., the home for orphans conducted by the Moose lodges of the United States, will be shown tonight and Wednesday at 7 o'clock at the home of Cumberland Lodge No. 271, Loyal Order of Moose. Tonight's showing is for children and tomorrow's for adults. There will be no admission charge.

The Women's Guild of St. Mark's Reformed Church has advanced its meeting to 7:30 tomorrow in the church school room.

A. F. Eggleston Will Retire As Treasurer Of Kelly Co.

Alan F. Eggleston, treasurer of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company, will retire, effective October 1, after serving as head of Kelly's financial and legal departments for more than 17 years.

Mr. Eggleston has had a long and varied career during which he participated in the reorganization of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company, Dodge Bros., and the Fisk Rubber Company, in addition to serving as secretary and treasurer of Kelly since 1933.

Originally a member of the Armin Schlesinger group of financiers in Wilwaukee, Eggleston participated in the management group supplied by the Schlesinger interests and Dillon Reed Company to the various corporations for which the Dillon Reed group participated in extensive refinancing operations during the 20's.

Mr. Eggleston moved to Cumberland in 1935 when the Kelly executive offices were transferred here from New York and has lived since then at 829 Braddock Road. Since the death of Mrs. Leora Eggleston several years ago, his younger daughter, Mrs. Joseph Watkins, and her husband resided with him at the Braddock Road home. Mrs. Watkins, with her two young children, recently moved to Norfolk, Va., where her husband is employed.

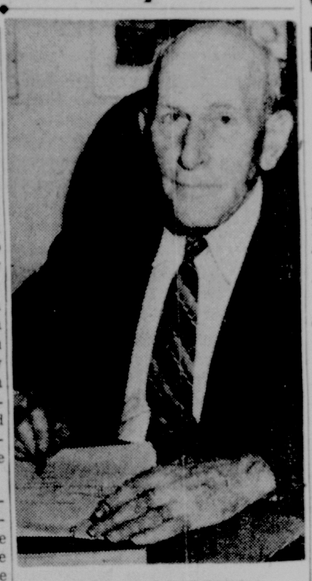
An active member of Emmanuel Episcopal Church, Mr. Eggleston also takes an active interest in activities of the Cumberland Rotary Club and the Diesel Club.

So far, Mr. Eggleston has not announced his plans for the future, although it is expected he will maintain his residence in Cumberland. He also expects to spend some time with his daughters, Mrs. Watkins and her sister, Mrs. Fred Canfield, Hohokus, N. J. He also expects to spend considerable time in Florida where he has numerous friends and where he looks forward to some good fishing.

Another change in Kelly personnel of considerable local interest is the transfer of Jack Marley, manager of the Kelly Retail Service Store on South Mechanic Street, to Greensboro, N. C.

Marley will leave October 1 to take over management of the Greensboro district with sales supervision over territories in Virginia and North Carolina, one of Kelly's most productive sales areas.

Management of the Kelly retail store will be taken over by Woodward Pealer who has been active as assistant manager under Marley.



ALAN F. EGGLESTON

Anti-Dirt Group Meets Tonight

Residents of West Side will meet tonight at 7:30 o'clock in the West Side School auditorium, Paca Street, to elect officers and adopt a constitution and by-laws for their new smoke control and dirt elimination organization.

According to James Alfred Avirett, temporary chairman, a nominating committee headed by F. Allan Weatherholt will submit a list of candidates for nine elective offices, including president, two vice presidents, a secretary, a treasurer and four executive committeemen.

F. Brooke Whiting, chairman of the committee on the constitution and by-laws, will make a report and outline the plans and purpose of the new organization.

Plagued by fly ash, smoke and dirt, the citizens of the West Side are banding together to take concerted action to bring about the enforcement of the present city smoke ordinance, and, if it is found inadequate, to have it revised or amended, Avirett said.

Many of those interested in the new movement have proposed legal action and chemical tests and analysis to determine what can be done, Avirett declared.

The meeting tonight is open to all residents of the West Side interested in a cleaner city, Avirett declared.

Lay Health Council To Hear Dr. Ballin

Dr. R. W. Ballin will speak on "Tuberculosis" at the first fall meeting of the Allegany County Public Health Lay Council, to be held Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. at the Health Department office in the Public Safety Building.

Dr. Ballin conducts chest clinics here and is a member of the Allegany County Tuberculosis Association.

Mrs. Irving Millenson, chairman, said officers will be elected for the coming year.

Conservation To Be Stressed In Land Week Here

Six County Farms Plan Open House

Conservation will be a major theme of the local observance of Maryland Land Use and Fire Prevention Week, to be held October 8 through 14.

As one feature of the observance, soil conservation demonstrations will be held at six county farms, Monday, October 9.

This was reported yesterday by George M. Hitchcock, general chairman.

Each of the farms will hold open house on that day and the general public is invited.

A representative of one of the agencies serving farmers will be on hand to discuss conservation practices and to answer questions.

List of the farms holding open house will be announced later.

Hitchcock said mimeographed booklets are being prepared for distribution on that day, listing each of the services aiding farmers, where their offices are located and how they function.

The services, making up the U. S. Department of Agriculture Council in the county, are as follows:

Soil conservation, county agent and home demonstration agent, Production Marketing Administration, Forestry Service, Wildlife Commission, Veterans Administration farm training course, National Farm Loan Association, and Farmers Home Administration.

In addition, conservation will be the theme at all county Homemakers meetings in October, according to Miss Maude A. Bean, county home demonstration agent.

Importance of conserving soil, water, forests and wildlife will be studied, with the help of a booklet prepared by the Country Women's Council in co-operation with the Department of Agriculture.

Approximately 60 persons, representing all committees making plans for the October observance, will hold a general meeting Wednesday night at 8 o'clock at City Hall auditorium.

The committees include volunteer fire companies, agriculture group, city police and firemen, Midway group, Cumberland Ministerial Association and the parade and school groups.

Hitchcock explained that the fire and land conservation observances are being combined this year because the farmer's greatest hazard, next to soil erosion, is fire.

Mahoney's Recount Will Begin Today

At the request of George P. Mahoney, Garrett County's Board of Election Supervisors will begin this morning at 9 o'clock the recounting of gubernatorial ballots cast in the September 18 Democratic Primary election. A. Leo Helbig, chairman of the board, said last night.

Mahoney lost the county's four convention votes to Governor William Preston Lane, Jr., by 53 popular votes. Mahoney polled 805 while Lane received 858. The recount is an attempt by Mahoney to overcome the slim margin and thus gain the convention votes.

Commission For Youth Plans To Hear Juvenile Delegates

The Allegany County Commission for Youth last night received confidential reports to be presented to the state organization and made plans for the appearance of seven youthful delegates to attend its next meeting.

Homer S. Higgins, chairman of the county organization, which aims at assisting children in solving their juvenile problems, said Mrs. T. M. Andrews gave a brief report on a meeting of youths at Towson last week.

The meeting was attended by seven delegates from Allegany County. They are the same delegates who will attend the next local meeting to elaborate on the discussions undertaken at the Towson meeting. They are:

Betty Ross, Bruce High School, who attended a discussion on "Children in Trouble;" Marian Hadley, Central High, "Children in Their Own and Foster Families' homes."

Ruth Jacobs, Beall High, "Health of Children and Youth;" Alma Frenzel, Barton High, "Field of Education;" Carrol Conrad, Allegany High, "Recreation for Children and Youth," and Carolyn Hackett, Carver High, "Children Away from their Own Homes in Institutional Care."

The youths will speak on the same problems when they appear before the county commission. A date for that meeting has not yet been set.

Higgins said information contained in the reports that will go to the state organization will not be released until after it has been studied by the larger organization.

Council Splits Over Raises For Employes

Five Granted; Post, Tederick Object

Salary increases for five city employes were voted last night by the Mayor and Council over the opposition of Mayor Thomas S. Post and Water Commissioner George H. Tederick.

Both said they were against increasing salaries unless all employes would benefit.

Raises of $10 were voted for the four sergeants in the Police Department, John Newhouse, Frank A. Shober, C. C. Roby and Curtis MacA. Kime, bringing their salaries to $235 monthly.

Those increases are effective immediately.

Miss Inez Shoemaker, secretary in the office of City Engineer Ralph L. Rizer, was granted an increase from $203 to $228 per month, retroactive to July 1.

Mayor Objects

When Street Commissioner Lucile W. Roeder's order to that effect was introduced, Mayor Post said:

"I can't see my way clear to raise the salaries of some employes and not all."

Tederick commented that city employes recently asked for a raise because of higher living costs, and that they turned down the city's offer as being insufficient.

Tederick added that although he believed Miss Shoemaker was worthy and due for an increase, "I don't see how the Mayor and Council can increase the salary of one employe when none of the employes have gotten an increase."

"All city employes should be given consideration and not pull one out here and there," Tederick commented.

Mrs. Roeder stated that Miss Shoemaker's increase was "many years overdue." She recalled the proposed job analysis discussed by the Mayor and Council recently, and said:

"We should not penalize one person who has worked here for 18 years by waiting until department heads get around to the job analysis."

Praising the secretary for her faithful service and responsibility, Mrs. Roeder said money was available in the department's budget for the increase.

Police and Fire Commissioner John J. Long commented that "Mrs. Roeder is closer to the situation than the others."

Tederick replied that "as councilmen we have all departments under our jurisdiction."

Long asked Tederick whether he had studied the position in question, and Tederick said he had not.

"Then why are you opposing it?" Long asked.

Tederick repeated his former statement regarding raises for all employes.

The matter then went to a vote and passed, 3 to 2.

Bid Accepted

In other action, the council accepted the bid of Alex J. Schute, 133 Polk Street, to furnish and install roll roofing for the city warehouse at Valley Street. The bid was $1,472.65.

All other bids on both roll and built-up roofing were rejected.

Mrs. Roeder said Schute's bid was the lowest of any submitted by local firms.

The street commissioner was authorized to ask for bids on resurfacing with blacktop the following streets:

Fifth Street from Virginia to Pennsylvania Avenues; Gephart Drive from Thompson to Lake Avenues; Fayette Street from Greene Street to Gephart Drive; Kent Avenue from Louisiana to Brookfield Avenues; and Memorial Avenue Kent to Warwick Avenues.

Sharing Urged In Succot Talk

Sharing the blessings of life was urged last night by Dr. Jossef Kratzenstein in a Succot sermon before Beth Jacob Congregation here.

Succot, he said, is the season of ingathering, the harvest festival, when the fruits of the fields are brought into the home.

It brings a lesson of humility, he added, since then is the time to obey the Biblical commandment, "Leave your comfortable home and construct for yourself a frail, insecure tent" where you will dwell for seven days and experience the insecure plight of your less fortunate brothers.

Throughout the year, he declared, we live in a state of luxury but once a year we go, at least spiritually, to the level of the booths where our forefathers lived during the days in the wilderness.

His Succot prayer was that the world may be built upon the firm foundation of cooperation, peace and social responsibility.

Succot, the last of the fall festivals, is the holiday which commemorates the days when the Jews lived in tents following their deliverance from bondage.

Birth Announcements

Memorial Hospital announced the following births yesterday:

Mr. and Mrs. Armand Beeman, Slabtown Road, Mt. Savage, a son.

Mr. and Mrs. George Dever, 17 Offutt Street, a daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. Asbury Hoopengartner, Route 1, Hancock, announce the birth of a daughter Sunday at Morgan County War Memorial Hospital, Berkeley Springs, W. Va.

Police Arrest 2 Bookies, 2 On Liquor Sales

Officers Commended By Commissioner

Using two undercover men to secure the evidence, city police last night moved in on two race horse booking establishments and arrested two other persons on charges of illegally selling alcoholic beverages.

Facing the bookmaking charges are Richard Fox, arrested at the Score Board pool room, 20 North Mechanic Street, and Frankie Frantz, arrested at the Queen City Billiard Hall, 19 North Liberty Street. Each posted $100 bond.

Charged with selling whisky without a license are Clarence Minnicks, proprietor of Glenora Inn, Valley Road, and Dewey Shoemaker, 320 Pennsylvania Avenue, independent taxicab driver. Minnicks posted $300 bond and Shoemaker was given until 5 p. m. today to raise $200 bond.

Got Warrants Earlier

Lt. James E. Van and Detective E. M. Powell made the arrests between 7 and 8 p. m. after securing the warrants from Magistrate Frank A. Perdew earlier in the day.

A short time later Commissioner of Police John J. Long said "Lt. Van and the men responsible for this work are to be commended for alertness and enforcing the law as it is written."

In his statement Commissioner Long also revealed a temporary change of commanding officers in the local department and said Chief of Police R. Emmett Flynn "has been doing special communistic investigation."

The commissioner's statement in full said:

"Since last week Chief of Police R. Emmett Flynn has been doing special communistic investigation. Assistant Chief of Police B. Frank Gaffney moved to the daylight platoon with Lt. James E. Van supervising the 5 p. m. to 1 a. m. platoon, and Lt. R. R. Johnston and Lt. Edwin R. Lilya supervising the 1 to 9 a. m. platoon. Lt. Van and the men responsible for this work are to be commended for alertness and enforcing the law as it is written." enforcing the law as it is written."

Lt. Van declined to name the undercover men who secured the evidence but said their work "is praiseworthy and without it we could not have made these arrests."

Hearings Set October 3

The warrants were issued to Van and Powell. The undercover men's names did not appear.

Shoemaker, police said, was selling the whisky from his cab throughout the business district of Cumberland. Lt. Van explained Minnicks posted a $300 bond because "it is his second offense."

The men were taken to police headquarters but with the exception of Shoemaker were released after posting bond. He was given a time extention. Hearings for the quartet were set for October 3 at 9 a. m.

Firemen Plan Training Course

Plans for a fire fighting training course in Western Maryland are underway by the Allegany-Garrett Fire Chiefs Association.

The five-night course will include classes on ladder and hose evolutions, use of gas masks, overhaul duties, first aid and the use of fire extinguishers.

The committee planning the course includes H. A. Lasher, chairman; Joseph Wenrich, Cresaptown, and Oklen Geiger, Corriganville.

The University of Maryland's Extension Service will be asked to assist in the program.

The course is planned to take the place of the Short Course for firemen held each year at College Park.

Since it will be offered in a central location, officials hope a large percentage of the 1,000 volunteer firemen of Western Maryland can attend the refresher course.

Playground Group Lists Nominees

The nominating committee for the Cumberland Playground Association met last night at the home of Mrs. John Turley, 122 Springdale Street, and selected a slate of nominees for the several elective offices.

The committee report will be presented at the next regular meeting of the association October 5 at 7:30 p. m. in the City Hall. The election and installation of officers is scheduled for the same night.

The committee includes Lawrence L. Grim, chairman, Mrs. R. C. Diehl, Mrs. R. J. Tayloe, Mrs. Turley and F. Allan Weatherholt.

Weather

It was a grand fall day after the weird atmospheric conditions Sunday. Clear skies helped everyone see the memorable eclipse of the moon last night. Yesterday's official high was 57 with a low of 39. The thermometer stood at 44 at 9 p. m. The weatherman promises fair and warmer today.

Maryland Dentists Meet Here

Surveys Made For Pumping Station Here

Fire Alarm Boxes To Be Installed

Surveys have been completed for the proposed pumping station in the vicinity of Holland Street and Piedmont Avenue, Street Commissioner Lucile W. Roeder reported last night to the Mayor and Council.

Mrs. Roeder said a topographic map showing areas of "unsatisfactory pressure and service" have been submitted to George M. Hitchcock, superintendent of the city water plant.

Pressure surveys will be made in critical sections, she added.

With regard to the Bedford Road sewage project, Mrs. Roeder said maps have been prepared and the proper type of pumping station discussed.

Work of cleaning the Mill Race sewer has started, Mrs. Roeder said, adding that the interceptor sewer on the West Side and other sewers should be cleaned.

She asked enforcement of the city ordinance requiring oiling or paving of parking and used car lots to keep dirt from blowing on the streets.

Boxes Planned

Police and Fire Commissioner John J. Long said the Fire Department plans to install alarm boxes at Fort Hill and Allegany High Schools and on Virginia Avenue below the railroad. The Fire Department's inspection division is being set up, and the telephone system for reporting fires will be revised, he added.

Former City Attorney Thomas B. Finan requested consideration by the council of zoning changes on Williams Street and on Lots 12-16, Block 17, Johnson Heights Addition, at Hill Top Drive and Louisiana Avenue.

Both places remained residential when the council approved numerous changes to the zoning ordinance last August to create new business zones. Finan asked reconsideration and recalled the Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission had recommended that the two areas be changed to business classifications.

Council voted last night to donate $9,000 to the Community Chest campaign, the same amount as last year.

Randolph Millholland, Sr., was reappointed a member of the Smoke Control Advisory and Appeals Board for a three-year term, retroactive to June 27. Expiration dates for the terms of the other members, Charles Z. Heskett and John R. Connelly, were set at June 27, 1952, and June 27, 1951, respectively.

Refund of $4.68 for overpayment on water rent was ordered paid to Forest B. Corley, 221½ Oak Street.

Payroll Approved

The payroll for the second period in September was approved.

On the recommendation of Chief of Police R. Emmett Flynn, the council approved the request of City Cab Service for extension telephones to be located at Cresap Street and Virginia Avenue; Fifth Street at York; Nu-Acme Market on Centre Street; Decatur Street; and Winton Place and Paca Street.

The company's request for a telephone at Fayette Street near Chase was rejected because of a complaint from a resident.

Filed was a letter from Mountain City Council No. 11, Junior Order United American Mechanics, Frost-

GOP CHAIRMAN—Earl E. Manges, Cumberland attorney, last night was elected chairman of the Republican State Central Committee for Allegany County at the organization meeting of the body elected in last Monday's primary. Other officers elected are Edgar M. Lewis, vice chairman; James Park, secretary-treasurer, and Victor M. Hebb, assistant to the treasurer. The committee followed its past procedure of keeping the seven-man elected committee intact so that geographic allocations for each man would not be disturbed. The new chairman was selected by the committee and makes an eight-man organization. Edgar M. Lewis, retiring chairman, presided for the nominations.

Terrorism Is Charged By Reds

BALTIMORE, Sept. 25 (AP)—The heads of Maryland's communist party said today the resignations of two Cumberland members came because of the "terrorism being exercised over America."

Philip Frankfeld, chairman, and George A. Meyers, labor secretary of the party in Maryland and the District of Columbia, made the statement after the resignations of William B. Coleman and Arthur M. Schusterman.

The two men who have been convicted under Cumberland's own ordinance requiring communists to register, announced last night they were quitting the party. They added that they intended to cease "all political activities of any kind."

Frankfeld and Meyers said that the resignations are "a sad commentary on the times we live in." They added:

"Courageous men have divorced themselves from their beliefs because of the terrorism being exercised over America by the 1950 version of the Spanish Inquisition (the Anti-Communist Bill passed by Congress Saturday) and Hitler's Gestapo.'

The communist officials said the party intends to "intensify its struggle, together with all peace-loving, democratic-minded Americans to prevent fascism from being victorious in our country and prevent World War III."

Bryon To Head Beall's Campaign

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25 (AP) — Rep. Beall (R-Md) announced today Joseph W. Bryon, Hagerstown, Md., will head his re-election campaign committee.

Committee vice chairman will be Charles F. Wagaman, of Hagerstown. Arthur J. Hilland, of Bethesda, Md., will serve as treasurer.

Organizations Asked To Donate To Chest Campaign

Civic clubs, fraternal organizations and labor unions are being asked to make contributions from their treasuries to the 1950 Red Feather Chest campaign, according to Frederic W. Eiler, general chairman of the appeal.

Last year 31 organizations made contributions totaling nearly $1,500 in amounts which ranged from five dollars to five hundred dollars. Previously the contributions from these groups has amounted to as much as $5,000.

Eiler pointed out that the gifts made from the treasuries of the organizations was a material endorsement of the Chest and was not considered as taking the place of the individual's contribution.

"All organizations have been formed to perpetuate some phase of individual or group betterment and it is natural that the organization itself wishes to give material expression to the broad community work that is being done through the agencies of the Chest," Eiler stated.

Letters have been sent to the heads of the various groups in the city, but Eiler pointed out that there were doubtless many groups who would not have an individual letter because of the magnitude of the task involved. He emphasized that members of such groups could bring the Chest subscription before the next meeting to secure action.

Leaders Enlisted

Meanwhile, George M. Martin, chairman of the Classified Section, reported that all but six of the 56 regiment leaders are now enlisted

State Dentists Vote Support Of Vivisection

Receive Report On Military Status

A motion supporting vivisection—use of animals in medical laboratories—was adopted yesterday by the Maryland Dental Association as it opened its 27th semi-annual meeting here.

The association also received a report on the present military status of Maryland dentists and then went on record "to cooperate with any effort made toward national defense."

The motion on vivisection specifically supports a proposed referendum presented by Dean Alan Chesney of Johns Hopkins University Medical School. It would permit the continued use of animals in medical experiments.

A current movement is afoot in Baltimore by a "Citizens Committee for the Dog Rererendum" and the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals to have the vivisection practice prohibited by law.

The military status report informed the 150-pdd members attending the two-day meeting that questionnaires have been mailed to every registered dentist in Maryland to determine his military standing.

Further action on the report will be taken, members said, when the government clearly defines its intentions to call up for service numerous doctors, dentists and allied specialist male personnel.

Earlier this month draft board officials said a special registration will be held October 16 to register all doctors, dentists and veterinarians.

The military report was presented to the membership by Dr. Harry B. McCarthy, chairman of the Military Affairs Committee of the state dental association.

Also approved at yesterday's business session was a motion to do "everything in our power to support recognition" of National Children's Health Day. Observance of that movement has been set for February 5, 1951, by the national medical organizations.

Earlier in the day the membership gathered at the Cumberland Country Club to hear papers by Dr. J. Ben Robinson, dean of Baltimore College of Dental Surgery, Dental School, University of Maryland, and Dr. E. T. Lewis of Pittsburgh.

Dr. Robinson's paper dealt with "The Early History of Dentistry in Maryland and Dr. Lewis' paper dealth with "Prosthetics for the General Practitioner."

Last night attending members and their wives were the guests of the Allegany-Garrett County Dental Society at a dinner and dance at the Country Club.

Today's program includes a golf tournament and bridge contest with luncheon scheduled for 12:30 p. m.

Legion To Meet

Knobley Mountain Post No. 136, American Legion, Ridgeley, announced the regular executive committee meeting will be held tonight at 8 o'clock. All officers are urged to attend.

WINS SCHOLARSHIP—C. James Williams (above), son of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Robinson, 519 Linden Street, has been awarded a four-year scholarship to Western Maryland College by State Senator Robert B. Kimble. Williams is a graduate of Allegany High School, class of 1950, and was a member of the art club, Spanish club, and Alpha Delta Kappa. He is also a member of Emmanuel Episcopal Church and held office in the local chapter of the Order of DeMolay.

$11,000 Flood Payments Are Voted By City

Bids On Removing Buildings Opened

Payments totaling over $11,000 were authorized last night by the Mayor and Council for property rights in connection with the Cumberland flood control project.

Largest was $9,750 to Irvin M. and Mabel W. Zimmerman for an option on several lots needed in the project.

Payments to secure permanent easements were ordered to Francis W. and Helen W. Drumm, $141; Edward C. Reed, $75; Lucy Z. Dreyer Wagner and Herbert S. Wagner, $75; John W. and Louise M. Knowlton, $500; William I. and Dorothy Poling, $70.10; George V. and Mildred A. Fletchinger, $59; and the Misses Julia W., Ella and Rose Marie Jackson, $71.60.

Payments for both temporary and permanent easements were ordered to Mrs. Tabitha Ryan and Sterling W. Ryan, $675; Frank A. and M. Virginia Perdew, $200; and Martin H. and Bertha C. Hager, $162.50.

Bids Opened

The council opened three separate sets of bids last night for purchase and removal of three buildings in connection with the flood project.

Al were referred to Albert S. Paye, liaison engineer, with power to act.

Three offers were received for purchase and removal of a large two-story brick garage at 206 Riverview Place. They were honored on the recommendation of City Attorney W. Earle Cobey in order to expedite flood work, although each of the bids was received after the deadline yesterday noon.

Charles Paul Roeder offered $1,290; Baughman Contracting Company, $2,150, and Cement Products Company, $1,000.

Last week the bid of John A. Cupler, II, of $500 for the work was rejected as being insufficient, and bids were readvertised.

Two offers were received for purchase and removal of a two-story frame double house at 106-108 Paca Street, Branson J. Nelson, Route 3, offered $275 and William E. Stinnett, 113 West Elder Street, offered $100.

Three bids were opened for purchase of removal of a two-story frame double house at 110-112 Paca Street. Leo C. Willer, 1602 Ford Avenue, bid $338; Stinnett offered $100 and Nelson bid $275.

The St. George Motor Company's offer of $1,060 to supply one tudor sedan for the Health Department was accepted.

Offer Referred

Referred to Finance Commissioner William H. Buchholtz with power to act was a bid of $501 by Russell D. Beery to purchase Lots 78, 79 and 80, Montreal Avenue. Beery asked a 60-day option.

Mrs. Claude T. Jett Dies At Her Home

Mrs. Mildred C. Jett, 63, wife of Claude T. Jett, died last night at 8:30 o'clock at her home, 112 Park Heights, after an illness of several years.

A native of Cumberland, she was a daughter of the late Joseph L. and Mary A. Hammersmith Sell.

Active in club work, she was a member of the LaVale Homemakers, a past president of the Allegany County Council of Homemakers and a member of the Memorial Hospital Auxiliary.

She was a member of St. Patrick's Church.

Surviving are her husband, three sons, John B. Jett, this city, and Claude T. Jett, Jr., and J. Elliott Jett, both of Baltimore; one sister, Mrs. W. Easter Ward, Los Angeles, Cal.; a brother, Leo A. Sell, Prineville, Ore., and two grandchildren, Judith Ann and J. Elliott Jett, Jr., Baltimore.

The body is at the Stein Funeral Home.

News In Brief

"The Child City," a movie about Mooseheart, Ill., the home for orphans conducted by the Moose lodges of the United States, will be shown tonight and Wednesday at 7 o'clock at the home of Cumberland Lodge No. 271, Loyal Order of Moose. Tonight's showing is for children and tomorrow's for adults. There will be no admission charge.

The Women's Guild of St. Mark's Reformed Church has advanced its meeting to 7:30 tomorrow in the church school room.

A. F. Eggleston Will Retire As Treasurer Of Kelly Co.

Alan F. Eggleston, treasurer of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company, will retire, effective October 1, after serving as head of Kelly's financial and legal departments for more than 17 years.

Mr. Eggleston has had a long and varied career during which he participated in the reorganization of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company, Dodge Bros., and the Fisk Rubber Company, in addition to serving as secretary and treasurer of Kelly since 1933.

Originally a member of the Armin Schlesinger group of financiers in Wilwaukee, Eggleston participated in the management group supplied by the Schlesinger interests and Dillon Reed Company to the various corporations for which the Dillon Reed group participated in extensive refinancing operations during the 20's.

Mr. Eggleston moved to Cumberland in 1935 when the Kelly executive offices were transferred here from New York and has lived since then at 829 Braddock Road. Since the death of Mrs. Leora Eggleston several years ago, his younger daughter, Mrs. Joseph Watkins, and her husband resided with him at the Braddock Road home. Mrs. Watkins, with her two young children, recently moved to Norfolk, Va., where her husband is employed.

An active member of Emmanuel Episcopal Church, Mr. Eggleston also takes an active interest in activities of the Cumberland Rotary Club and the Diesel Club.

So far, Mr. Eggleston has not announced his plans for the future, although it is expected he will maintain his residence in Cumberland. He also expects to spend some time with his daughters, Mrs. Watkins and her sister, Mrs. Fred Canfield, Hohokus, N. J. He also expects to spend considerable time in Florida where he has numerous friends and where he looks forward to some good fishing.

Another change in Kelly personnel of considerable local interest is the transfer of Jack Marley, manager of the Kelly Retail Service Store on South Mechanic Street, to Greensboro, N. C.

Marley will leave October 1 to take over management of the Greensboro district with sales supervision over territories in Virginia and North Carolina, one of Kelly's most productive sales areas.

Management of the Kelly retail store will be taken over by Woodward Pealer who has been active as assistant manager under Marley.

Anti-Dirt Group Meets Tonight

Residents of West Side will meet tonight at 7:30 o'clock in the West Side School auditorium, Paca Street, to elect officers and adopt a constitution and by-laws for their new smoke control and dirt elimination organization.

According to James Alfred Avirett, temporary chairman, a nominating committee headed by F. Allan Weatherholt will submit a list of candidates for nine elective offices, including president, two vice presidents, a secretary, a treasurer and four executive committeemen.

F. Brooke Whiting, chairman of the committee on the constitution and by-laws, will make a report and outline the plans and purpose of the new organization.

Plagued by fly ash, smoke and dirt, the citizens of the West Side are banding together to take concerted action to bring about the enforcement of the present city smoke ordinance, and, if it is found inadequate, to have it revised or amended, Avirett said.

Many of those interested in the new movement have proposed legal action and chemical tests and analysis to determine what can be done, Avirett declared.

The meeting tonight is open to all residents of the West Side interested in a cleaner city, Avirett declared.

Lay Health Council To Hear Dr. Ballin

Dr. R. W. Ballin will speak on "Tuberculosis" at the first fall meeting of the Allegany County Public Health Lay Council, to be held Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. at the Health Department office in the Public Safety Building.

Dr. Ballin conducts chest clinics here and is a member of the Allegany County Tuberculosis Association.

Mrs. Irving Millenson, chairman, said officers will be elected for the coming year.

Conservation To Be Stressed In Land Week Here

Six County Farms Plan Open House

Conservation will be a major theme of the local observance of Maryland Land Use and Fire Prevention Week, to be held October 8 through 14.

As one feature of the observance, soil conservation demonstrations will be held at six county farms, Monday, October 9.

This was reported yesterday by George M. Hitchcock, general chairman.

Each of the farms will hold open house on that day and the general public is invited.

A representative of one of the agencies serving farmers will be on hand to discuss conservation practices and to answer questions.

List of the farms holding open house will be announced later.

Hitchcock said mimeographed booklets are being prepared for distribution on that day, listing each of the services aiding farmers, where their offices are located and how they function.

The services, making up the U. S. Department of Agriculture Council in the county, are as follows:

Soil conservation, county agent and home demonstration agent, Production Marketing Administration, Forestry Service, Wildlife Commission, Veterans Administration farm training course, National Farm Loan Association, and Farmers Home Administration.

In addition, conservation will be the theme at all county Homemakers meetings in October, according to Miss Maude A. Bean, county home demonstration agent.

Importance of conserving soil, water, forests and wildlife will be studied, with the help of a booklet prepared by the Country Women's Council in co-operation with the Department of Agriculture.

Approximately 60 persons, representing all committees making plans for the October observance, will hold a general meeting Wednesday night at 8 o'clock at City Hall auditorium.

The committees include volunteer fire companies, agriculture group, city police and firemen, Midway group, Cumberland Ministerial Association and the parade and school groups.

Hitchcock explained that the fire and land conservation observances are being combined this year because the farmer's greatest hazard, next to soil erosion, is fire.

Mahoney's Recount Will Begin Today

At the request of George P. Mahoney, Garrett County's Board of Election Supervisors will begin this morning at 9 o'clock the recounting of gubernatorial ballots cast in the September 18 Democratic Primary election, A. Leo Helbig, chairman of the board, said last night.

Mahoney lost the county's four convention votes to Governor William Preston Lane, Jr., by 53 popular votes. Mahoney polled 805 while Lane received 858. The recount is an attempt by Mahoney to overcome the slim margin and thus gain the convention votes.

Commission For Youth Plans To Hear Juvenile Delegates

The Allegany County Commission for Youth last night received confidential reports to be presented to the state organization and made plans for the appearance of seven youthful delegates to attend its next meeting.

Homer S. Higgins, chairman of the county organization, which aims at assisting children in solving their juvenile problems, said Mrs. T. M. Andrews gave a brief report on a meeting of youths at Towson last week.

The meeting was attended by seven delegates from Allegany County. They are the same delegates who will attend the next local meeting to elaborate on the discussions undertaken at the Towson meeting. They are:

Betty Ross, Bruce High School, who attended a discussion on "Children in Trouble;" Marian Hadley, Central High, "Children in Their Own and Foster Families' homes."

Ruth Jacobs, Beall High, "Health of Children and Youth;" Alma Frenzel, Barton High, "Field of Education;" Carrol Conrad, Allegany High, "Recreation for Children and Youth," and Carolyn Hackett, Carver High, "Children Away from their Own Homes in Institutional Care."

The youths will speak on the same problems when they appear before the county commission. A date for that meeting has not yet been set.

Higgins said information contained in the reports that will go to the state organization will not be released until after it has been studied by the larger organization.

Council Splits Over Raises For Employes

Five Granted; Post, Tederick Object

Salary increases for five city employes were voted last night by the Mayor and Council over the opposition of Mayor Thomas S. Post and Water Commissioner George H. Tederick.

Both said they were against increasing salaries unless all employes would benefit.

Raises of $10 were voted for the four sergeants in the Police Department, John Newhouse, Frank A. Shober, C. C. Roby and Curtis MacA. Kime, bringing their salaries to $235 monthly.

Those increases are effective immediately.

Miss Inez Shoemaker, secretary in the office of City Engineer Ralph L. Rizer, was granted an increase from $203 to $228 per month, retroactive to July 1.

Mayor Objects

When Street Commissioner Lucile W. Roeder's order to that effect was introduced, Mayor Post said:

"I can't see my way clear to raise the salaries of some employes and not all."

Tederick commented that city employes recently asked for a raise because of higher living costs, and that they turned down the city's offer as being insufficient.

Tederick added that although he believed Miss Shoemaker was worthy and due for an increase, "I don't see how the Mayor and Council can increase the salary of one employe when none of the employes have gotten an increase."

"All city employes should be given consideration and not pull one out here and there," Tederick commented.

Mrs. Roeder stated that Miss Shoemaker's increase was "many years overdue." She recalled the proposed job analysis discussed by the Mayor and Council recently, and said:

"We should not penalize one person who has worked here for 18 years by waiting until department heads get around to the job analysis."

Praising the secretary for her faithful service and responsibility, Mrs. Roeder said money was available in the department's budget for the increase.

Police and Fire Commissioner John J. Long commented that "Mrs. Roeder is closer to the situation than the others."

Tederick replied that "as councilmen we have all departments under our jurisdiction."

Long asked Tederick whether he had studied the position in question, and Tederick said he had not.

"Then why are you opposing it?" Long asked.

Tederick repeated his former statement regarding raises for all employes.

The matter then went to a vote and passed, 3 to 2.

Bid Accepted

In other action, the council accepted the bid of Alex J. Schute, 133 Polk Street, to furnish and install roll roofing for the city warehouse at Valley Street. The bid was $1,472.65.

All other bids on both roll and built-up roofing were rejected.

Mrs. Roeder said Schute's bid was the lowest of any submitted by local firms.

The street commissioner was authorized to ask for bids on resurfacing with blacktop the following streets:

Fifth Street from Virginia to Pennsylvania Avenues; Gephart Drive from Thompson to Lake Avenues; Fayette Street from Greene Street to Gephart Drive; Kent Avenue from Louisiana to Brookfield Avenues; and Memorial Avenue Kent to Warwick Avenues.

Sharing Urged In Succot Talk

Sharing the blessings of life was urged last night by Dr. Jossef Kratzenstein in a Succot sermon before Beth Jacob Congregation here.

Succot, he said, is the season of ingathering, the harvest festival, when the fruits of the fields are brought into the home.

It brings a lesson of humility, he added, since then is the time to obey the Biblical commandment, "Leave your comfortable home and construct for yourself a frail, insecure tent" where you will dwell for seven days and experience the insecure plight of your less fortunate brothers.

Throughout the year, he declared, we live in a state of luxury but once a year we go, at least spiritually, to the level of the booths where our forefathers lived during the days in the wilderness.

His Succot prayer was that the world may be built upon the firm foundation of cooperation, peace and social responsibility.

Birth Announcements

Memorial Hospital announced the following births yesterday:

Mr. and Mrs. Armand Beeman, Slabtown Road, Mt. Savage, a son.

Mr. and Mrs. George Dever, 17 Offutt Street, a daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. Asbury Hoopengartner, Route 1, Hancock, announce the birth of a daughter Sunday at Morgan County War Memorial Hospital, Berkeley Springs, W. Va.
